AMMONIA BLAST DEADLY

SEVEN KILLED IN BROOKLYN

Tank Explosion in Butcher Shop Buries Helpless Victims in Ruins.

MORE THAN A SCORE TAKEN TO HOSPITALS

Factory Collapse Takes Life Toll But a Few Miles Distant.

New York, July 13.—Seven persons are reported to have been killed and a number of others injured when an ammonia tank in a Brooklyn butcher shop exploded today. The entire three story building in which the butcher shop was located, collapsed, burying the occupants beneath it.

Ambulances and firemen were rushed to the scene and the work of extricating the victims from the ruins of the building was begun. It was said that there were five employees and about that number of customers in the butcher shop when the explosion occurred. The top floor of the building was unoccupied. It has not been determined whether there was any one on the second floor. The butcher shop is owned by M. Schmidt, said to be among the missing.

The work of digging the bodies out of the ruins proceeded slowly. An hour after the explosion it was estimated that between 20 and 30 persons had been taken to hospitals, some of them fatally injured.

Crushed Under Tons of Debris.

So terrific was the blast that scarcely a brick in the building was left standing on another and the victims were crushed under tons of debris. A passing trolley car escaped the avalanche of bricks, but a dozen passengers aboard were injured, some by shock and others by flying glass and debris.

The known dead are Martin Schmidt, owner of the butcher shop; two clerks, the cashier, who was a woman and a delivery boy. A girl, whose father says was on her way to the store and who cannot be found, is believed to have perished.

The police fear that others, passengers, may have been buried under the falling walls which crashed down upon the sidewalk and street. Only a

NOTHING ADVERSE IN CANAL REPORT, CLAIM

T. E. Ellison Encouraged at Progress Made at Hearing.

T. E. Ellison, who argued the necessity of building the Michigan and Erie canal before the rivers and harbors board at Washington, Tuesday, returned to Fort Wayne Wednesday in company with Frank B. Taylor and speaks encouragingly of progress made toward the ultimate success of the building project.

"I can see nothing in the report of the second board of engineers to hurt the chances of getting favorable action on the canal," said Mr. Ellison.

Mr. Ellison has the co-operation of the Merchant's Transportation company, the Produce Exchange and the board of commerce of New York in his effort to get favorable action from the rivers and harbors board. The final hearing before this board was set for November, in order that these concerns could present their briefs and arguments, Mr. Ellison said. "These concerns will all give affirmative aid."

Bowser Goes East.

As soon as S. F. Bowser returns from a trip east there will be a meeting of the local waterways committee, when a campaign will be started anew to get favorable action on the canal project before the rivers and harbors board. Mr. Bowser attended the hearing in Washington and from there proceeded to New York city on business. The canal project must go before the secretary of war and congress after it is acted on by the rivers and harbors board.

Sane July Fourth.

Mr. Ellison spent July 4 in New York city before going to Washington. He was impressed with the sane July Fourth observed there. "If I had just a firecracker while there and on the night previous to July 4th, saw a street vendor accosted by an officer for manipulating a sparkler," Mr. Ellison said while in a barber shop he remarked to the barber of the sane character of July 4, to which the barber replied that if Mayor Gaynor had been mayor of New York city a few years before he was, his boy would have probably been saved a July Fourth accident. Mayor Gaynor inaugurated the sane July Fourth idea in New York city. According to Mr. Ellison, July 4th in New York city was spent in children's exercises in which pyramids of children took part.

FIRST HEAVY RAIN FOR OVER TWO WEEKS

Downpour is Accompanied by Much Wind, Threatening Serious Damage.

A drouth that threatened to reach serious proportions and cause much suffering in Allen county was ended shortly after noon, Thursday, when this section was visited with a generous downpour of rain, accompanied by considerable wind, lightning and thunder. It was the first real rain that Fort Wayne has experienced since June 20. There was a trace of rain, however, on July 2, according to Forecaster Patrick McDonough, but it was only a trace and was scarcely visible to the naked eye.

Although the wind blew a terrific gale up to a late hour, no serious damage had been reported. A live wire was blown down at Montgomery and Lafayette streets. Fortunately, no one was on the street at the time and the damage was quickly repaired.

A few telephones were put out of commission for the Home Telephone company. No trouble had been reported at the Bell Telephone office. Although the tents at the show without the wind, and except for reducing the size of the crowd, the afternoon performance was given as scheduled.

Reports received at the general offices of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company were to the effect that practically no rain fell west of Fort Wayne.

Until the downpour Thursday afternoon the atmosphere had simply been reeking with humidity. It's the humidity that makes it seem so hot—that takes the starch out of the shiny collars and gives a damp and limp appearance to the "billed" shirt front. Fort Wayne, however, has experienced

WILLIAMSON FOR TWELFTH DISTRICT

Indianapolis, July 13.—The membership of an advisory committee of the republican state central committee was announced here today. The committee will serve throughout the campaign. It consists of one member from each district. The members of the committee follow:

First district, James Hopkins, Rockport; Second district, Joseph L. Bayard, Jr., Vincennes; Third district, John A. Lingle, Paoli; Fourth district, Will A. Stevens, Columbus; Fifth district, Harold A. Henderson, Rockville; Sixth district, Charles E. Shively, Richmond; Seventh district, O. D. Haskett, Indianapolis; Eighth district, J. T. Moorman, Winchester; Ninth district, Fred E. Hines, Noblesville; Tenth district, Ernest R. Shortridge, Crown Point; Eleventh district, George C. Tabor, Logansport; Twelfth district, Wallace W. Williamson, Columbia City, and Thirteenth district, Ralph W. Gaylor, Mishawaka.

CLEVELAND MAN MAY GO TO SUPREME COURT

Washington, July 13.—John H. Clarke, United States district judge at Cleveland, O., was understood today to be the probable choice of President Wilson for the seat on the supreme court bench made vacant by the resignation of former Justice Hughes. White house officials said Judge Clarke was being carefully considered.

In addition to Judge Clarke, Judge J. T. Jenks, of the New York supreme court, and Morgan J. O'Brien, of New York, are said to be under consideration.

Another name on the list is that of Judge Victor K. Dowling, of the New York supreme court and it was learned today that he stands next to Judge Clarke.

SHRINE PATROLS IN COMPETITIVE DRILLS

Buffalo, N. Y., July 13.—The closing session of the Imperial council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, was held today, although the festivities of the forty-second annual meeting will not end until Saturday. The principal business today was the election of officers and the selection of next year's meeting place. Following the usual custom, all the officers were advanced. H. F. Neidringhaus, of St. Louis, moving up from deputy to imperial potentate. Minneapolis, it was said, was practically sure to get the next convention.

The spectacular feature today was the competitive drills of Arab patrols from more than 100 temples.

RUSSIANS ARE GIVEN A CHECK

VERDUN ONCE MORE CLAIMS ATTENTION

Fighting There Now More Furious Than on the Somme Front.

Berlin, July 13.—(Via London, 4:55 p. m.)—German troops under command of Gen. Count von Bothmer by an encircling counter attack have driven back the Russian forces which had pushed forward in the region northwest of Buczacz, in Galicia, says the German official statement issued today. The Germans took 400 prisoners.

SEVENTH ONSLAUGHT MADE.

New Attack by Germans at Verdun is Raging Furiously.

London, July 13.—(12:15 p. m.)—The recovery of the Russian armies since their defeat a last year and the apparently inexhaustible supplies of guns and ammunition with which they are provided continues to be a source of wonder to military writers. At least six great armies are engaged against the Austrians and Germans on Russia's western front. All of them are using great quantities of ammunition, even those not definitely on the offensive.

The forces under Grand Duke Nicholas in Armenia and Persia have been fighting vigorously against the Turks for months. A few weeks ago parts of these forces, particularly those west of Erzerum, were compelled to fall back in the face of a strong Turkish army. Early this week the grand duke resumed the offensive in this region and recaptured Mamamakhatum, 50 miles west of Erzerum, so that the Turks have fallen back 25 miles from the furthest point reached in their counter offensive.

Meanwhile the armies directly south of the Pinsk marshes are fighting a pitched battle with the Austro-German forces of Gen. von Linsingen along the line of the Stokhod river. It probably will be some days before the direction is reached as the Teutons have brought up very strong reinforcements in the hope of retaining possession of Kovels, of which they would necessitate a regrouping over a long stretch of the front.

North of the Pinsk marshes the fighting at present is largely with artillery. In Galicia the Russian armies are reforming for continuation of the offensive.

In the west the renewed efforts of the German crown prince at Verdun temporarily are taking precedence in the public mind over the battle of the Somme. The attack just delivered by the Germans before Verdun is the seventh onslaught with dense masses of troops since the operations began some four months ago. The Germans have made a slight gain but apparently a permanent one. The confidence of the French in their ability to hold fast. They still have three solid lines of defense which must be penetrated before the German objective can be gained.

The British are still engaged in clearing the Germans from fortified positions which must be taken before the general offensive can be renewed.

NO INFANTRY FIGHTING.

Paris, July 13.—There was no infantry fighting of importance last night on the Verdun front or over the portion of the Somme front held by the French. Today's official report says. Interim artillery engagements occurred in the Somme sector. In the vicinity of Souville, Chenois and La Laufée, before Verdun, a heavy bombardment was maintained by the Germans.

In the Champagne the French penetrated a salient of the German front and took prisoners. Two German raids in the Argonne were stopped by the French fire.

THE LONDON REPORT.

London, July 13.—(3:32 p. m.)—Fighting continues at various points along the battle front in the region of the river Somme in France, but there has been no change in the situation on any part of the British line, says an official statement issued by the British war department this afternoon. Attempts of the Germans to raid trenches west of Vyacheska and south of La Bassée canal were frustrated.

INTEREST GROWING IN MEETINGS.

Rev. N. E. Harding, district superintendent and evangelist of the Nazarene church who is holding tent meetings on Calhoun street, gave an excellent sermon Wednesday night and all who heard him say that he is a forceful speaker and has plenty of wit to add the right spice to his talk. Tuesday night five professions were made and many in the audience were stirred as they listened to the sermon. The services will commence at 7:45 tonight and a large attendance is desired as the services should not be missed.

New Cases Increase But Deaths Fall Off

New York, July 13.—A slight decrease in the number of new cases and a marked increase in the number of deaths during the last twenty-four hours in the epidemic of infantile paralysis was shown in the daily bulletin issued by the department of health at noon today. During the twenty-four hours preceding 10 o'clock this morning, twenty-four children died from the plague and there were 117 new cases in the greater city.

Since the beginning of the epidemic on June 26, 1,557 children have been stricken with the disease and there have been 311 deaths or a mortality rate of more than 20 per cent.

New York city health officers said today that they were doing their best to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis from this city to other communities. Residents of infected districts here have been warned that they will encounter stern quarantine measures if they leave the city. Out-of-town health authorities have been asked to report any persons arriving from infected areas in New York city. To enable other towns and cities to do this the local board of health is distributing broadcast lists of addresses where cases of the disease have been found here.

WILL ORGANIZE CLUB IN MILAN TOWNSHIP

Young Republicans to Form Organizations in the District.

For the purpose of organizing a young men's republican club, a meeting will be held this evening at the Milan center school house in Milan township. Frank Poisson will act as chairman and short addresses will be delivered by well known speakers.

A similar meeting will be held Saturday evening at the Wallen school house with John Oswald and Frank Moore in charge. On next Wednesday evening a young men's republican club will be organized in Lafayette township at the Center school house. George Wallbaum will act as chairman.

The first young men's republican club was organized a few evenings ago at an enthusiastic meeting held in the town hall at New Haven. Officers were elected and plans discussed for the campaign. Arrangements are being made for the organizing of these clubs throughout the entire Twelfth congressional district by the various county captains named for that purpose at a recent meeting held in the Anthony hotel. The county captains are: Glenn N. Patterson, Kandallville; George O. Compton, Columbia City; W. P. Endicott, Butler; A. O. Butts, Garrett; Frank Richards, Lagrange, and Frank M. Hogan, Fort Wayne.

HE THREW $1,000 IN UNSIGNED BILLS AWAY

Denver, Col., July 13.—W. Edward Diez, 24, of Atlanta, Ga., known in Denver as Joseph C. Meyers, is in custody here today pending an investigation into the source of $1,000 worth of unsigned national bank notes, which the police say, he threw away as he was about to be apprehended. The bills, it is said, were identified by postoffice inspectors as part of a series amounting to $1,000,000 stolen from the mails in a train hold-up on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Central Station, Va., October 8, 1915.

Diez, who denies knowledge of the robbery, recently came from Hot Springs, Ark., and Kansas City, Mo., and resided here at the Y. M. C. A., where he was taken into custody last night.

WANTED DEATH CHAIR; GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Richmond, Ind., July 13.—Eli S. Carr, who shot and killed Patrolmen Little and Stephenson last Friday, was today sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison at Michigan City by Judge H. C. Fox, of the Wayne circuit court. Will W. Keller, prosecuting attorney, asked that the death sentence be imposed on an indictment returned by the grand jury yesterday charging first degree murder. The prisoner, who pleaded guilty also, had requested the death penalty be inflicted, but Judge Fox said he knows of no precedent for sentencing a man to death on pleading guilty to murder. Carr was intoxicated at the time of the shooting.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

John Brothers, of Decatur, who was operated upon this week at St. Joseph's hospital, is improving as well as could be expected. Brothers was brought here Tuesday by Dr. H. E. Keller in the Scherer ambulance leaving Decatur at 2 o'clock. By 4 o'clock the sick man was on the operating table.

Mr. Brothers had been ill for two weeks with what was thought to be appendicitis. At the hospital, however, the case was diagnosed as renal abscess, due to an obstructed and diseased kidney. An immediate operation was performed by Dr. Keller, of Decatur, and Dr. E. J. McOscar, of this city. More than a gallon of pus was removed from the abscess, after which the man was in good condition.

HER SIZE EXAGGERATED.

Unloading of Cargo Reveals Much Smaller Craft.

Baltimore, July 13.—Unloading of the cargo of the German submarine Deutschland was completed early today and the ship's size revealed that the estimates of her size have been exaggerated. Instead of being more than 300 feet long and 30 feet wide, her length is not more than 250 feet and her width is less than 25 feet. Her over-all draft, figured submerged, shows that she needs at least 32 feet for complete submergence.

Through all the feverish activity of the last hours of the unloading the tug Thomas M. Timmons placed the strong beams of a powerful searchlight all about, sweeping the waters, the shore lines and the Deutschland's deck. A smaller powered searchlight which had been set up on the motor boat Efo reached corners that were beyond the Timmons' light.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, is expected to come to Baltimore today to inspect the Deutschland. The crew of the Deutschland decided to turn over to the Red Cross fund the $10,000 gift for valor from a New Yorker.

The last case of dyestuffs, composing the Deutschland's cargo, was lifted out about 9 a. m. The stowaways at once set about making the hold ready for the return cargo of nickel and crude rubber, which has been stored in the warehouse on the pier for several weeks. The work of putting the cargo aboard was expected to begin before midnight.

DECISION BY THE CABINET

Final Ruling Tomorrow on Status of Submarine Deutschland.

OPINION ASKED OF NEUTRALITY BOARD

See Possibility of Bothersome Questions That Might Arise.

Washington, July 13.—Reports of customs and navy officers on the character of the German submarine Deutschland were the subject of a long conference at the state department today between Acting Secretary Polk and members of the government's neutrality board called in to give informal advice. The department's final decision on the status of the submarine probably will be announced after tomorrow's cabinet meeting.

Captain Hughes, of the navy, and Collector Ryan and Surveyor Steele, of the Baltimore customs house, all of whom examined the vessel, have reported unanimously that she is an unarmed freight carrier.

Government officials generally are satisfied that no legitimate objection can be raised against granting all the privileges of a peaceful merchant craft to the Deutschland. Every precaution is being taken, however, to see that no threat is left for questioning the neutrality of the United States, particularly in view of the representations made by the British and French embassies claiming that the submarine is a potential warship regardless of whether she is armed or fitted for conversion into a commerce raider.

See Bothersome Questions.

Officials today admitted that other bothersome questions might arise in connection with the undersea boat's visit.

Already, it was said, consideration is being given to a suggestion that the government should withhold news of the boat's sailing to prevent information from reaching the allies.

The department is concerned, too, as to the boat's treatment if discovered by enemy cruisers in the Atlantic. Under a ruling that the vessel is a merchant craft the state department could not countenance its sinking in violation of international law.

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW STORE BUILDING

Hilgeman & Schaaf, local real estate dealers, have closed a contract with the City & Suburban Realty company for the erection of two new houses and two store buildings at Rudisill and Calhoun streets at a total cost of $12,000. Both houses and store buildings are for rental purposes.

According to local real estate men, Fort Wayne's greatest need at the present time is new houses for rental purposes. The General Electric company will soon bring hundreds of new families to the city and it is very imperative that there are a sufficient number of houses in which to take care of them. Houses will have to be built for rental purposes as a matter of necessity if Fort Wayne is to take proper care of its rapidly growing population.

TAKES VENUE CHANGE.

Case of John W. Nail, farmer near Maples, arrested on charge of neighbors that he persisted in working on Sunday, has been granted a venue change from the court of Justice Grabner, and the case will be heard in the court of Justice A. C. Niernman at 2 p. m., July 22.

VICTIM OF FALL IS STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Lawrence Offerle May Not Survive Injuries of Fall from Tree.

Lawrence Offerle, 21, of 1151 Harmer street, has never regained consciousness since he fell fifteen feet and alighted on his head and shoulders when a limb of a maple tree on Calhoun avenue broke Wednesday evening at 8:30. He is being cared for in the Hope hospital, where slight hopes are held out for his recovery.

Offerle, an employee of the forestry department of the city park board, was trimming a large maple tree near 2015 Calhoun avenue, in the Lakoside park district. E. A. Nussbhart, foreman, said he was standing near and witnessed the accident. He said the limb on which Offerle was standing broke and the young man fell to the sidewalk below, alighting on his head and shoulders.

FINAL SCENES IN ORPET TRIAL NEAR

Waukegan, Ill., July 13.—The final scenes in the trial of William H. Orpet, former University of Wisconsin student charged with the murder of Marion Lambert in Helm's woods last February, began to materialize today with the assurance that in all probability the end of the case would be reached by Saturday night. At least, it was believed the jury would begin its deliberations by that time. Ralph F. Potter, counsel for Orpet, concluded his address to the jury during the forenoon. James H. Wilkerson, chief counsel for the defense, and David R. Joslyn, special prosecutor assisting the state, will then be heard from. It is expected that Mr. Wilkerson will begin speaking some time this afternoon and that he will finish by noon tomorrow. Mr. Joslyn is to close the case some time Saturday.

O'GORMAN SEEKS TO HAVE 2 REINSTATED

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson was urged by Senator O'Gorman today to order the reinstatement of Col. Louis D. Conley and Lieut. Col. John J. Phelan, of the Sixty-ninth infantry, ordered mustered out by Major General Wood for physical disability.

Senator O'Gorman told the president the doctors who examined Col. Conley differed on his condition and that because of the doubt he believed the president would be justified in ordering Col. Conley's reinstatement. The senator said apparently there was more justification for the mustering out of Lieut. Col. Phelan, but he also urged his reinstatement.

Senator O'Gorman later expressed confidence that Col. Conley and possibly Lieut. Col. Phelan would be reinstated. An investigation of the cases already has been ordered by Secretary Baker.

35 BANDS FURNISH MUSIC FOR PARADE

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—The big event of the grand lodge reunion of Elks was the street parade today, in which many thousands of members of the order from all over the United States marched to the music of 35 bands. Grand Esquire Robert J. Lawler, of Niagara Falls, was the chief marshal. Floats and spectacular designs abounded in the demonstration. Final sessions of the grand lodge will be held this afternoon, after which there will be a band contest, and Elks drill teams will engage in competition.

Fourteen Chicago Labor Leaders Are Convicted

Chicago, July 13.—Fourteen of seven-teen labor leaders tried in the circuit court here on charges of conspiracy to extort and destroy property were found guilty in a verdict returned today. Business men testified that the labor men carried on a campaign of window glass breaking and that to obtain permission for the resetting of glass, property owners were compelled to pay money to the defendants. Six of the convicted men were sentenced to imprisonment and eight were fined.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, is expected to come to Baltimore today to inspect the Deutschland. The crew of the Deutschland decided to turn over to the Red Cross fund the $10,000 gift for valor from a New Yorker.

The last case of dyestuffs, composing the Deutschland's cargo, was lifted out about 9 a. m. UNAVOIDABLE, SAYS CORONER

Dr. F. J. Schulz Held Blameless for Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Craig.

AUTO ACCIDENT HAS A FATAL OUTCOME

Wednesday Evening Brings a Startling List of Casualties.

As the result of injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by Dr. Fred J. Schulz, 60 years old, died at St. Joseph hospital, Wednesday night at 10 o'clock, just an hour after the accident had occurred.

No blame will be attached to Dr. Schulz according to a careful investigation that was made Wednesday night and Thursday morning by Coroner J. E. McArdle. The coroner will find that Mrs. Craig came to her death from injuries received in an unavoidable accident.

Mrs. Craig, who lives five miles north of Fort Wayne in St. Joseph township, was about a mile from her home on the St. Joe road in search of some turkeys that had strayed from her farm. Dr. Schulz was driving north toward Bobson park and as he neared the woman, whom he did not see, however, a Ford machine coming from the opposite direction approached him. Dimming his lights he turned to one side of the road to let the Ford pass and as he did so ran directly into the woman. Turning into the ditch was the only thing that prevented him from running over Mrs. Craig.

When he brought his car to a stop he did not know what he had hit, but, upon returning found the aged woman unconscious at the side of the road. He picked her up, placed her in his automobile and rushed her to the St. Joseph hospital with all possible haste. At the hospital it was found that her pelvis bones had been fractured, besides in-

AGED MAN IN A NEW EFFORT AT SUICIDE

Solomon Lechrone, at Columbia City, Seeks to Die by Slashing Throat With Knife.

Columbia City, Ind., July 13.—Solomon Lechrone, aged 70, who attempted suicide two weeks ago, while on a visit at Silver Lake, by hanging, made a second attempt Wednesday afternoon at his home on East Market street with a dull knife. While his wife was sitting on the porch he locked himself inside the home, and entering the bathroom, picked up a knife and cut a gash three inches long on the right side of the neck, barely missing the jugular vein. He is expected to recover.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bailey, Uniondale, Married 33 Years.

Uniondale, Ind., July 13.—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bailey, entertained their children and families at dinner Sunday in honor of their thirty-third wedding anniversary. Group pictures were taken by Charles Rowers, a Huntington photographer. All did ample justice to the dinner and expressed the hope that Mr. and Mrs. Bailey may have many more such anniversaries.

Those present were: Elmer Redding, sons Kenneth and Carl, and daughter, Helen, of Zanesville; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Midlaugh, son, Clifford, and daughter, Pauline, of Markle; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey, and son, Arthur, of Huntington; Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey and daughters, Elizabeth and Mary, of Uniondale, and Misses Mary and Ruth Haffel, of Uniondale.

DRINKS GASOLINE; DIES.

Roann, Ind., July 13.—The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harmon, residing five miles northwest of Roann, died after drinking a quantity of gasoline Wednesday. The child had been playing about the yard with a twin brother for several hours and frequently the children stopped their playing to get a drink of water from a three-gallon can which had been left near a can of similar size which contained gasoline used in the operation of an engine which furnished the power for a pump indoors. About 4 o'clock the boys again became thirsty and the one, running to the can containing the gasoline, took several swallows of the fluid. A moment or two later the youngster fell to the ground, where he was found by his mother fifteen minutes later.

JERKED FROM HAY TENDER

Hartford City, Ind., July 13.—Arthur Vore, farmer, employed by Adam Long, northwest of the city, had a narrow escape from death when he was jerked from a hay tender and run down by a heavy team of horses. Vore's left leg was severely trampled and the ankle was broken. Assistance was given him in time to save his life, although he will be confined to his home on the southside for some time. There were a number of other accidents here. Raymond Fwood, an apprentice in the blacksmith shop at the Sneath plant, had his thumb badly smashed. Miss Nellie Day, while skating, fell and badly sprained her wrist. Ralph Miller, who fell into a ditch while riding a motorcycle, found that he suffered a broken rib at the time of the mishap.

DIES NEAR GREEN CENTER

Chubbuse, Ind., July 13.—John Alvin Gross, son of Alpheus and Nancy Gross, died at his home south of Green Center, aged 46 years, 9 months and 7 days. He was born in Allen county, in 1869, and was united in marriage October 21, 1897, to Miss Emma Felger, of Allen county, who survives, together with three sons, Howard, Elvert and Alfred Gross, and a daughter, Miss Bernice Gross, all living at home. In addition two brothers, Curtis Gross, of Allen county, and Morris Gross, of Whitley county, and three sisters, Mrs. Ella Rise, of Ohio; Mrs. Rose Steerhoff, of Huntington, and Mrs. Lydia Lock, of Noble county.

RAID WAWASEE HOTEL.

Wawasee, Ind., July 13.—Armed with a search warrant, the affidavit for which was filed by Joseph Dolan, of Syracuse, Deputy Sheriff Horton C. Huffer and Marshal C. B. Moon, of Warsaw, and Marshal H. H. of Syracuse, raided the Dittou hotel at Lake Wawasee on Tuesday evening.

ASKS $4,000 ALIMONY.

Warsaw, Ind., July 13.—Action for divorce has been filed in the circuit court by Mary E. Muek against Franklin Muek. The parties reside in Tippecanoe township, owning a farm about a mile south of North Webster. Alimony in the sum of $4,000 is demanded. They have a son, Roscoe, 21 years of age, who lives at home. She alleges that for eighteen years her husband mistreated her and that at one time he locked her out for an entire night. On another occasion she claims he kicked her out of bed.

CAVALRY TROOP IN TRAINING

Huntington, Ind., July 13.—Members of the Huntington cavalry troop, in training here, last night elected Dr. Maurice H. Krebs, captain; Charles Brown, second lieutenant. The troop has sixty-eight men. Captain Krebs has reported to Adjutant General F. L. Bridges that Huntington will be able to present a full troop within ten days.

CHECK FOR $50.

Huntington, Ind., July 13.—W. H. Worden, whose mind is completely filled with the details for the children's fête, which will be held at the fairgrounds on July 20, has received a letter from Mrs. I. U. Eaton, of Ocean Park, Cal., and inclosed was a check for $50 for the children. Mrs. Eaton was here when the first picnic was held and ever since has been a liberal contributor to the event. She is now in Chicago, but does not believe she can be here for the fête day.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Bluffton, Ind., July 13.—James F.

Rawlings, 70, president of the First National bank and one of the most prominent of the older residents of the city, lies in a critical condition at the home of his son, Clarence Rawlings, north Walnut street, as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. His unconscious form was found Wednesday morning at the rear of the Rawlings home, where he had gone to rest the evening before. He was improving somewhat today.

OSSIAN TO HAVE HOMECOMING.

Ossian, Ind., July 13.—A grand homecoming for the Presbyterians has been arranged by a number of interested members of the Ossian and Elkhart churches. The date set for the homecoming will be August 12 and 13. Saturday, August 12, will be devoted to a picnic in a nearby grove, while on Sunday the friends will gather at the church to enjoy appropriate services. The former pastors of the church have been invited to attend and several will be present.

MONTEPIELIER HAS 3,350.

Montpelier, Ind., July 13.—According to the new directory of Blackfoot county which was issued a short time ago, by the Piedmont Directory Co., of Asheville, N. C., the population of Montpelier, including Kingston Heights, and some of the parts which are really outside of the city limits, but enjoy the city in many ways, is 3,350. This is much larger than the government census of 1910, but the government stayed strictly within the limits of the city.

CRAIGVILLE BANK ELECTS.

Craigville, Ind., July 13.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers State bank, of Craigville, a new banking institution that has been organized with the purpose of opening for a general banking business about September 1, the following board of directors was elected for the first year: Gideon Gerber, Dr. E. P. Davenport, David Klopfer, Joseph Gehring, Anton Gieser, Joel Neunshwander and William Gerber.

FINED FOR PROFANITY

Portland, Ind., July 13.—The use of profanity in the presence of a woman cost Herman Fueling, farmer, southeast of this city, $12.50, when fined by Squire A. G. Lewis. James S. Delauter filed the affidavit. Delauter also brought peace proceedings against Fueling, but he has not yet been arraigned on this charge.

FALLS WHILE SLEEP-WALKING.

Kendallville, Ind., July 13.—While walking in his sleep, Wesley Simon, aged about 60, went through an open window in the second story of the home of his son, John Simon, near Corinna. He fell a distance of fourteen feet. In some miraculous manner no bones were broken but he received painful cuts and bruises which make his condition serious.

BLUFFTON MAN HURT.

Bluffton, Ind., July 13.—Fred Zimmerman, working on the H. H. Bell farm, north of Craigville, got a nasty bump Wednesday while helping in the hay harvest. In attempting to trip the hay sling he released a swivel, which struck him above the eye, knocking him ten feet. He was taken to Dr. Davenport, at Craigville, where he was patched up.

PAVILION STRUCK BY LIGHTNING
Warsaw, Ind., July 13.—The large pavilion at Winona was damaged to the extent of $200 when it was struck by lightning Wednesday afternoon. Only quick work by the Winona fire department saved it from complete destruction. The building is owned by the National Reform association of Pittsburg.

HUNTINGTON MAN BIT BY DOG.

Huntington, Ind., July 13.—Speros Danos, shoemaker at the Star Shining parlor, on West Market street, suffered a badly torn hand Tuesday evening when he was bitten by a dog. Danos attempted to separate two dogs that were fighting on Market street.

FINES FORMER MAYOR.

Dunkirk, Ind., July 13.—W. L. Skinner, former mayor of Dunkirk, was arrested in the court of Mayor O. P. Martin, Wednesday forenoon on a charge of speeding in an automobile. A fine of twenty-five dollars and costs was imposed when he entered a plea of guilty.

WOUND CAUSES WEAKNESS

Huntington, Ind., July 13.—A knife thrust in the left wrist of F. D. Grady, of Taylor street, rendered him weak from loss of blood and required a surgeon to stop the flow. He was cleaning turtles, which he caught in the Wabash river, when the knife slipped into his wrist.

Fritzi Scheff and Pop of Corks Cause Discord, Says Suit

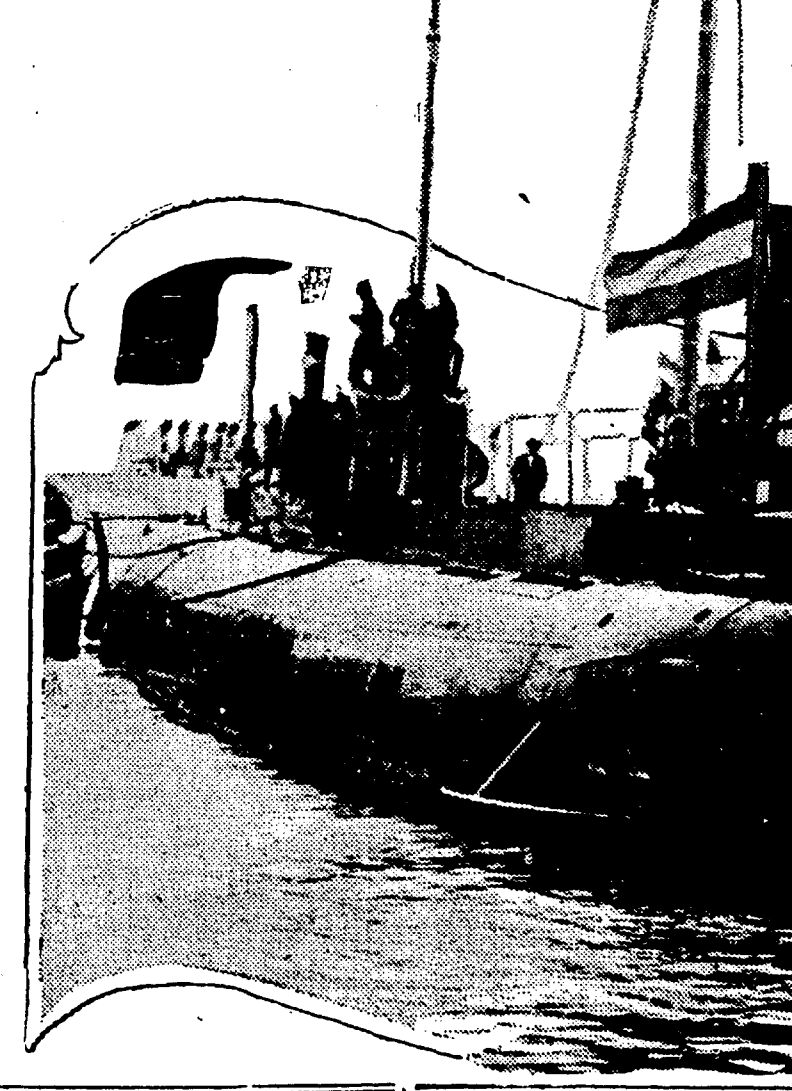

FRITZI SCHEFF.

Fritzi Scheff and the pop of champagne caused discord to go crashing through the musical house of Steindel, according to charges of Mrs. Charlotte Steindel, seeking divorce from Ferdinand Bruno Steindel, the well-known pianist.

GIANT SEA ROVER RESEMBLES A HUGE CIGAR.

This picture shows how the German super-submarine, the Deutschland, afloat on the surface of the water, resembles a huge cigar. As in the case of other vessels, the greater part of the submersible is under water. Only about 16 feet of the structure of the boat extends above the water line. The big engines that drive the boat are about in the middle of the vessel, at the rear. When the boat is in motion on top of the water, the observers in the conning tower are the only members of the crew above the water level.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Isaiah 44:6-15.

6. Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his Redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and besides me there is no God.

7. And who, as I, shall call, and shall declare it, and set it in order for me, since I appointed the ancient people? and the things that are coming, and shall come, let them shew unto them.

8. Fear ye not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee from that time, and have declared it? ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God besides me? yes, there is no God; I know not any.

9. They that make a graven image are all of them vanity; and their delectable things shall not profit; and they are their own witnesses; they see not, nor know; that they may be ashamed.

10. Who hath formed a god, or molten a graven image that is profitable for nothing?

11. Behold, all his fellows shall be ashamed; and the workmen, they are of men: let them all be gathered together, let them stand up; yet they shall fear, and they shall be ashamed together.

12. The smith with the tongs both worketh in the coals, and fashioneth it with the strength of his arms; ye, he is hungry, and his strength faileth; he drinketh no water, and is faint.

13. The carpenter stretcheth out his rule; he marketh it out with a line; he fitteth it with planes, and he marketh it out with the compass, and maketh it after the figure of a man, according to the beauty of a man; that it may remain in the house.

14. He heweth him down cedars, and taketh the cypress and the oak, which he strengtheneth for himself among the trees of the forest: he planteth an ash, and the rain doth nourish it.

15. Then shall it be for a man to burn: for he will take thereof, and warm himself; yea, he kindleth it, and baketh bread; yea, he maketh a god, and worshippeth it; he maketh it a graven image, and falleth down thereto.

What the Auto Clubs Are Doing.

That the automobile clubs which are springing up in every section of Indiana are finding avenues of distinct usefulness is evident from a survey of their activities given out by M. E. Noblet, of Indianapolis, secretary of the Hoosier State Automobile association, the parent organization with which most of the Indiana clubs are affiliated. From an organization originally designed primarily for self-protection, the automobile club has evolved into a civic unit that is doing much to help the general public as well as itself.

Among other things being agitated by the association is the necessity for better roads, uniform traffic regulations, curbing of reckless drivers, posting of road markers, improvement or elimination of some grade crossings, a state dinner law and the more severe punishment of automobile thieves. All of these needs and many others, Mr. Noblet says, are causing motorists to unite into clubs. He says that there are at present more than fifty clubs in twelve counties of the state. Here in Fort Wayne the organization of automobile owners recently addressed itself to aiding the city authorities in devising new traffic regulations, and its suggestions are now being given a trial. In many places the auto men are bending their effort toward securing better highway conditions, more road signs and to making safer the steadily increasing automobile traffic. Most important of all, perhaps, is the demonstration of the fact that the average auto owner is not careless, is not a speed fiend, and that he is considerate of the rights of others. It is the exception and not the rule among auto owners today against whom legitimate complaint can be made.

Some one hundred and fifty lawsuits have just been filed at Noblesville by depositors who lost money in the defunct bank at Cicero in sums ranging from $10 to $5,000, in which they name former and present officials of the state banking department as co-defendants. There is set up the charge of conspiracy, it being alleged that false statements as to the solvency of the concern were permitted to be issued. Denial of the charges has already been filed by the state banking department officials, and there seems little disposition in that quarter to take the charges seriously. The filing of the suits was forecasted some time ago. That something rotten existed in the conduct of the Cicero concern has been made evident enough in the developments following the blow-up, but if the unfortunate losers seriously expect to involve the state banking department on any such basis as they have indicated, we very much fear they are leaning on a mighty slender reed.

The report of District Attorney Slack shows that there has been but one acquittal in a criminal case in the federal court at Indianapolis during the past two years, which seems to demonstrate that when the federal authorities prefer a charge they are equipped with the evidence to substantiate it—a condition that is not always to be found in state court matters. The mills of Uncle Sam's courts grind exceedingly fine—and not so slowly, either. The result is a wholesome respect for the federal legal machinery that must inevitably have a powerful restraining influence upon those who are tempted to transgress the federal laws. Very few of them are able to get away with it.

It is gratifying to know that the Woman's League will take steps to bring to Fort Wayne for a week during the fall season the New York city planning exhibit. The exhibit is designed to illustrate in an easily-comprehensible form some possibilities of city development when it is undertaken in systematic and intelligent fashion. Fort Wayne, at the beginning of the era of her greatest development, has much need of this sort of thing, and, moreover, is anxious to learn how she may make the very best of her opportunity. The Woman's League will perform a distinct service to the city in making it possible for us to see the city planning exhibit.

Bainbridge Colby has called a conference of progressives to consider "the widespread and bitter revolt within the party" against the recent action of the national committee in endorsing Mr. Hughes, an action which he declared "does not represent the thought or feeling of the rank and file of the party." Strange to say, also, this comes directly following the declaration of republican leaders that there isn't enough rank and file of the progressives left to have either thought or feeling. Somebody's made a most distressing error in the formulation of the coroner's report on that political tragedy at Chicago.

Nine Indiana congressmen registered their opposition to the so-called "pork" rivers and harbors measure as it came back in the form of a conference report carrying the additional $5,000,000 tacked on by the senate. In the list opposing the larger expenditure were Messrs. Adair, Cox, Cullop, Moss, Gray, Moores, Morrison, Rauch and Cline. Barnhart was absent, and Lieb, Dixon and Wood voted in support of the conference report.

Virginia is proud of the fact that she is known among the great galaxy of states as the "Mother of Presidents," a title that she will in all probability lose eventually. But it is going to be a long time before any city or state wrests from Indianapolis and Indiana the distinction of being the home of vice presidential candidates.

Occasionally Hoosierdom also provides a candidate for the presidency, but vice presidents are her long suit and the campaigns in which she has no such candidate are few. The tendency now seems to be toward making good any former oversight in this line by giving us two candidates as heirs apparent to the presidency and regardless of the outcome of the election this year the office will be filled by a resident of Indiana.

Since the war Indiana's vice presidential nominees have been Schuyler A. Coffey, in 1883; Thomas A. Hendricks, in 1878; William H. English, in 1880; Thomas A. Hendricks, in 1884; Charles W. Fairbanks, in 1904; John W. Kern, in 1908; Thomas R. Marshall, in 1912; Charles A. Fairbanks and Thomas R. Marshall, in 1916. And all of these candidates at the time of their nomination, except Coffey, were residents of Indianapolis.

To Messrs. Hendricks, Fairbanks and Marshall has come the distinction of being chosen the second time for such honors, a record unequalled by any other state. With normal political conditions prevailing Indiana is classed as a doubtful state and the importance of her support is recognized by the leading parties when it comes to making up the ticket. If the vote in the state were larger the presidential nomination would come here more frequently. We never lack for men of presidential ability, but expediency compels the two dominant parties to choose elsewhere. But this record is sufficient incentive to every Hoosier youth who aspires to political preferment. Nowhere else are the opportunities so great in spite of the fact that practically every citizen who does not devote all his energy to literature dabbles in politics. Some combine the two and derive therefrom additional satisfaction.

NEW GOOD ROADS PRESIDENT.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Dr. W. H. Myers is at Chicago. The police are making a merciless and relentless war on dogs.

James Madden, the plumber, went to Van Wert on business last evening.

Fred Eckart is able to be out again after a severe attack of rheumatism.

The new brick residence of Henry Moellering, on East Lewis street, is nearing completion.

The residents of that part of the city lying south of Creighton avenue, want natural gas.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruse, of 161 Montgomery street, were the guests of friends in the country Sunday.

W. P. Cooper has taken a position with the S. C. Lumbard insurance agency. He was formerly in the employ of this firm.

Attorney C. H. Worden will leave for New Albany and Louisville this evening in the interest of the Fort Wayne Electric company.

Henry Freeman, of the First National bank, has received a photograph of his handsome new summer cottage at Mackinac island.

John Kennerk, the produce buyer is ill at his home, 26 Murray street from the effects of injuries he received several weeks ago.

The cool wave this morning brought comfort with it. The thermometer registered ninety in the shade yesterday afternoon.

At 12:30 o'clock last night the barn in the rear of the residence of H. F. Horn, 482 South Hanna street, was almost totally destroyed by fire.

Mrs. J. B. Barnes leaves today for Mt. Clemens to seek relief from rheumatism. She will be accompanied by her son, Dr. W. W. Shryock, who will return in a few days.

The water supply of the city comes from thirty wells, averaging a depth of fifty feet each. Consumers who have been wasting water are being found out as fast as possible.

Elihu Root, together with Vincent Astor, August Belmont and other well known Americans. The fund has been organized in twenty-six states in three months. In event of war with Mexico it is said that the name of the organization will be changed to the American, French, Belgian Permanent Blind War Relief fund.

SAVE THE PAPER.

YES, INDEED, HE IS VERY RICH. HE OWNS A WHOLE ROLL OF BLANK PAPER.

Save the paper napkins when you picnic in the grove! Soon your old waste paper can will be a treasure trove. Paper prices going up, forests coming down; Soon a tissue paper cap will be a costly crown. Save the daily paper too, call the paper man; Put a combination lock upon the garbage can! Save the paper dollar bills, now and then a five; You'll be glad you did it yet, sure as you're alive! Rent a safe deposit box, daily stuff therein All the paper you can find, long and green and thin. Rent a room some afternoon in a big hotel; Tear the paper off the walls, pack and guard it well. Take it to the banker man, store it in the vault. Then if you're not rich some day yours is not the fault. Paper soon will be too dear to waste on silly rhyme. So I'm saving postage stamps against that sorry time.

GOOD ROADS WORK IN THE PHILIPPINES

Progress in Improvement is Over 300 Per Cent in Past Five Years.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.) Manila, June 12.—The Philippines now boast of 5,201.5 kilometers of roads being used for traffic, an increase of more than 300 per cent. in the past five years. The credit for this is shared by the administrations of Governor General Harrison and former Governor General Forbes, the latter having initiated an active campaign of road-building which his successor pushed so successfully that last year saw the construction of a greater road mileage than any year in Philippine history.

There are more than 3,000 kilometers of first-class roads in the islands, and it is road of a quality of which any state in the United States might be proud. There are some provinces in which the heaviest of automobile trucks can travel from one end to the other in the hardest of storms without suffering the slightest inconvenience because of mud or washed out highways. In most provinces during the dry season, it is possible to travel anywhere in a light motor car. Last year only the expenditure of nearly $3,000,000 in road work and the program for this year is almost as ambitious. The effect of this road-building has been a big increase in inter-provincial trade and a remarkable growth in the automobile business. Practically every dealer in Manila is handicapped by the fact that he cannot get cars fast enough. It is no uncommon thing to find a shipment of the more popular cars sold out before its date of arrival.

LADIG IS ACCEPTED.

Ralph G. Ladig, of Fort Wayne, who failed to pass medical examination for the army at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, sent on whose campaign of road-building which his successor pushed so successfully that last year saw the construction of a greater road mileage than any year in Philippine history.

AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL?

Unnatural History, by Eugene Ahern.

THE DRONE.

All right, George, let's have the full spotlight on the drone, a first cousin to the owl, or "wise guy," who was in this outbreak of literature some time ago.

Ah! that's better, we can see it pre-ty well now through the clouds of stale cigarette smoke.

Go ahead, Horatio, impart to us the naked truth about the drone—Fritz, please render that fitting selection, "Please Go 'Way an' Let Me Snore!" for this number.

Well, here goes. The drone's mother comes into his room about ten in the a. m. and says, "Luke, oh Luke, come on now, get up. I have your breakfast ready for you, and I'll give you some car fare and lunch money for you to go up town and see if you can't get a job."

The drone gets up in a hurry when he hears the word money. After breakfast he takes the money and goes out. Is he really going after a job, Othello? Such a silly question? Of course he is not. He can't get over to his favorite hang out, the pool room, quick enough. He stays there until the proprietor starts yawning, then he thinks about going home. He gets there about 3, and 10 times out of 9 gets to bed with his clothes on.

If you want to know what he does the next day and the next, read the chapter all over again.

What do you think ought to be done to the drone? Does anybody in the class know the popular way of getting rid of cats?

If you want to know what he does the next day and the next, read the chapter all over again.

What do you think ought to be done to the drone? Does anybody in the class know the popular way of getting rid of cats?

Well, here goes. The drone's mother comes into his room about ten in the a. m. and says, "Luke, oh Luke, come on now, get up. I have your breakfast ready for you, and I'll give you some car fare and lunch money for you to go up town and see if you can't get a job."

The drone gets up in a hurry when he hears the word money. After breakfast he takes the money and goes out. Is he really going after a job, Othello? Such a silly question? Of course he is not. He can't get over to his favorite hang out, the pool room, quick enough. He stays there until the proprietor starts yawning, then he thinks about going home. He gets there about 3, and 10 times out of 9 gets to bed with his clothes on.

If you want to know what he does the next day and the next, read the chapter all over again.

Discovery Forces Hair to Grow

You Actually See and Measure the Wonderful Results of the New Discovery, "Vola-Vita."

There is no hair discovery which has ever produced such remarkable results as Vola-Vita. This is the new principal hair remedy, which has solved the problem of growing hair, stopping hair from falling, restoring original color to any hair in a natural way without a dye, and stopping dandruff. Vola-Vita contains no alcohol whatever.

"Vola-Vita Positively Stops Your Hair from Falling Out—It's a Fact!"

It has now been discovered that hair consists of five principal elements. When any of these is missing, the hair begins to fall, dandruff, grayness and baldness follow. When the missing elements are restored, hair begins to grow again, and its real color returns. This has never before been accomplished. It is now done positively and definitely by the new hair discovery, Vola-Vita. This remarkable hair grower restores the missing elements to hair. That is why in a short time, by its use, hair is actually grown on heads that have been bald for years. Vola-Vita compels hair to grow luxuriantly. Dandruff will positively disappear. Itching and falling of hair absolutely stop.

No matter what was the original color of your hair, whether red, brown, black or other shade, Vola-Vita will bring gray, faded or bleached hair back to its original color. Vola-Vita is not a dye. It contains no alcohol to dry up the natural secretions of the hair. It is different from any other hair treatment known. You will see its results soon after you begin to use it. Start today. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Vola-Vita is sold at all drug stores in 50c and $1.00 bottles, or sent direct by Vola-Vita Mfg. Co., 100 N. 1st St., St. Louis, Mo. The $1.00 bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the 50c size.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by their steady failure had proved that local treatment was not only of no use, but positively harmful. It is taken internally by local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Solon has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

GIRL BARBER SAYS REAL MEN TAKE CARE OF FRESH MEN.

Miss Bathar Clary, of Atlanta, Ga., is a regular, registered according to law, efficient, non-talkative barber.
Miss Clary's philosophy runs like this:
"A girl has to give and take in this business. She mustn't be too squeamish or fussy."
"It's easier like maning, y'know. A girl in the manure business has to put up with lots of guff, but before long she learns to give as good as she gets. Then she gets along."
"Of course there's always the fresh person to be considered, but other men generally take care of the fresh person."

PERSEVERANCE WINS AT BOYS' DAY OUTING

Boy Who Tries Hard But Loses in Pole Climb Gets Reward, Anyway.

The prize of perseverance was never better exemplified than when Clifford Mohler, 14, failed to win the gold watch which dangled at the top of the greased pole as part of the sport of the boys' day outing at Robison park Wednesday afternoon.
For nearly two hours Clifford struggled to gain the coveted prize of the watch with the twenty-year guarantee. It seemed that he tried hardest. He never gave up. He tore his shirt and pulled the garment off. His sunburned breast was plastered with sand after his fourth failure. He carried pounds and pounds of gravel in his pockets up the slippery shaft in his many trials.
Every time he gained a little. He was every inch a fighter. He was heartily cheered by the crowd time and again. It seemed that his function was that of trail-breaker for every time it was he who wiped away another foot of the dark grease. He was the favorite.

But he did not win. After a nervy effort in which he could strike the dangling prize with his dirty sand cloth, but could get no higher he was forced to take another rest. He slid to the ground with tears in his eyes.
While he rested Franklin Ruby, 12, climbed to the top and won the prize. The Ruby boy had made a noble effort several times and had soiled his shirt front in a former effort.

A crowd of sympathetic women gathered about the prostrate form of Clifford Mohler. He was too tired to get away. They almost smothered him.
"He deserved to win," they said in chorus.

They took up a collection and gathered $2.75 for him. Then they told the kind-hearted C. H. Williams, manager of the celebration. Williams called the Mohler lad before the crowd and rewarded him with a gold ring and a baseball suit. Clifford grinned, and received the greatest ovation of the day.
The boys' outing itself, aided by perfect weather, did honor to the annual institution. At least 2,000 boys were there. They crowded about C. H. Williams every few minutes like moths about a taper, when he explained the next line of beguiling sport. There was the copper trail, with its 1,000 pennies flashing in the sun; the tossing of 100 baseballs from the top of the theater building, and there was the parade.

Charles Wilcoxen, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Wilcoxen, 1033 Delaware avenue, garbed in the array of an Indian brave, won first prize and the gold watch. His makeup was perfect and his string of bright feathers trailed to the ground. The great trees of Robison park, where once the warty sounded, echoed with the "who-oo-lah" of the 2,000 descendants of Indian fighters when Charles reached his tiny hand for the prize.
Other winners in the parade, in which nearly 200 marched behind the merry music of the Laotto band, were: John Smith, polar bear; Eugene Cull, organ grinder; Wayne Cuff, Indian; Walter Mosher, Shriner; Carl Bunck, baker; Franklin Smith, soldier; Teddy Grimm, Anthony Wayne; Andrew Bruder, clown. H. A. Williams, principal of the Woodward school, Toledo, brother of C. H. Williams, and Prof. Meyer conducted the athletic events. The winners, who were given baseball suits, were:
Small boys—Sack race, Carl Horn; rolling race, Harold Wagner; running race, Frank Ruby; hopping race, Roderick Goetz; four-legged race, Harold Noll; pie contest, Clarence Franz.

At 5 o'clock "Bigney" gave his spectacular high dive. In blue tights and wearing a flowing sash of "Old Glory," he climbed the ladder. A few words to the "ladies and gentlemen," then breathless silence as with an eagle swoop the diver plunged towards earth, a mighty splash, pandemonium, and the greatest act on earth had closed the day.

Rurode's
The Style Shop

Price Counts for Little Unless You Get Style and Quality

All who visit this store add voluntary testimony to the fact that our styles, qualities and values are the best. Another important point to consider is that you always get here what you think you are getting. We permit no misrepresentation. Our prices are marked in plain figures and there is no inflation of values. What we say we do—we do.

Honest Mark-Down Sales in the Ready to Wear

Many mark-down sales are delusions and snares. A lot of unworthy goods is palmed off on the public for bargains. No such peayune business here. Our reputation guarantees every article we sell to be just what is claimed for it. Our offerings are the kind that bring satisfied buyers. To ignore them means to neglect your own best interests.

BY BETTY BROWN.

Not all the summer silks run to stripes. Here's one that's gay and it's spotted.

It's taffeta, which is cool enough for even the warmest days and it takes on an extra bit of freshness with its white collar and double-decked white cuffs.

The broad band at the bottom is white silk. The sash is also silk. Notice that the coat flares and there's a flare to the skirt too. The flare holds its own in the fashion world.

and Florence Rissing, Mrs. Gertrude Girdle.

Mrs. Emma H. Fleming has returned from a visit in Indianapolis and her son, Billy, who came home at the same time, will return to his work in Duquesne, Pa., in about a week. Miss Florence Fleming left on Thursday for Winnipeg, Canada, to join one of the Boyle Woolfolk musical comedy company.

Fort Wayne is interested. The city has been taken by storm by the powerful photodrama, "Where Are My Children?" in which the terrible tolls of improper birth control are visualized at New Palace theater in a smashing Universal release with the famous character actor, Tyrone Power, in the principal role. "I realize how much more forcibly than by the spoken or written word this picture presents to the public some of the phases of the question of birth control," said Dr. B. W. Edlavitch. "It should be seen by every adult person in the city."

"A clean, timely picture. It will no doubt awaken the minds and hearts of many men and women for good," Dr. E. W. Moreland declared after seeing the dramatic scenes projected upon the screen.

The story deals with the activities of a criminal surgeon, who finally bungles a job and a young girl pays the penalty with her life. The doctor is brought to trial only to disclose to the prosecutor that the attorney's own wife has been one of the most frequent of his patients. This situation gives rise to the striking title of the film, "Where Are My Children?"

IN THE CHURCHES

EPWORTH LEAGUERS GOING TO WAWASEE

Fort Wayne Young Folk to Attend Institute on July 17 to 23.

Nearly three hundred young people are planning to enjoy the good times offered by the Epworth League Institute, to be held at Lake Wawasee next week, July 17 to 23.

Do you ask, "What is an Epworth League Institute?" Someone has said, "It is a circus, a college and a camp-meeting combined." The forenoon sessions are devoted to class work covering such subjects as missions, stewardship, Bible, evangelism, and recreation and culture. These classes are conducted by professors in colleges, and trained workers along each of the lines presented, all of whom have specialized in the subjects they teach.

The afternoons are devoted to outdoor sports—and who is there among young people who does not like to swim, go launch riding or canoeing, play tennis and baseball? And, say: Do you like to fish? If so, you should not fail to join the crowd.

The early evening hours are spent in a good social time, where you will have opportunity to become acquainted with some of the most worth-while young folks in all northern Indiana.

Many From Fort Wayne.

About thirty-five young people are going from Fort Wayne—twenty-three from the First M. E. church, six from Simpson, two from St. Paul M. E., and six from Trinity M. E.

If you haven't planned your vacation it is not too late for you to arrange to go with the Fort Wayne crowd to Lake Wawasee.

Miss Iona Easley can give any added particulars by phone, her number being 1851 Red.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

ONE OF THE NEW COLLARS

NECKWEAR is ever an interesting subject, because one is always being offered something new in that line. Just at present it is the aim of most collars to extend as far as the waist line in back, either on the square, in a point or in rounded fashion.

The model shown is of white georgette crepe. Its severity is lessened by the use of the pleated section which is joined to the square collar with hemstitching. Hemstitching and pleating, by the way, are very much employed on the newest collars.

While georgette crepe is a favored material for collars, there are quite a number made of organdie, batiste and, in some cases, velvet is used.

A STEAMER CHAIR HINT

IF YOU are looking for an attractive and comfortable chair for the living room or bedroom, try a steamer chair. It is usually in the way, and as it is always narrower than the rest of the chair it would be difficult to make one cushion do for the whole chair. Remove all the old paint or varnish, and so over the woodwork with a dark-colored oil stain. Then make a long mattress, covered with flowered cretonne, and fasten it to the back of the chair at the top. Add a small, round bolster head rest, finished at each end with a covered button, and your chair will be complete. Fry it for yourself, and see how very comfortable and satisfactory it is.

BEACH CUSHIONS

MADE sometimes to match the bathing cap and sometimes just to match the styles, these come cushions of rubber in small oblong shapes for beach use. These rubber cushions are usually bright of tone and are ornamented with flowers of rubber attached with some waterproof gum. One may also get a rubberized and striped sateen for some very stunning beach cushions. The advantage of having a small cushion to tuck under one's head on the sand or between one's back and a rock or pillar is appreciated by the summer folk. These pillows can also be made use of by convalescents.

MIDDIES!

MIDDIES in every style and form—comfort and style combined. The young girl between the age of 15 and 16 will have no peace of mind until she gets one of these new middle blouses. A striking one is the plain white one with awning-stripe collar and cuff set, and the awning-stripe material set in at the bottom like little gussets. This gives a full effect and gives to the lower part a delightful ripple. And then the silk ones, either wool or china silk, with the collar stitched down with a double cross-stitch of blue and fastened thru the center with a small red stitch. The cuffs are finished the same way, and the pockets, too. Instead of the usual large tie, a small, flat grosgrain ribbon is used.

A NOVEL HAT TRIMMING

HAVE you thought of a way to trim your new sailor hat which you purchased at the millinery store? Listen to this. Get some wool, in white would be the better. Take three strands long enough to go around the hat, and make two loops. Braid the wool, and thru each section that two strands come together slip a bead or small button. It around the brim of the hat right next to the crown and loop it at the side front or at the side. You have no idea until you try it what a pretty trimming this makes.

OSSIAN NEWS

Ossian, Ind., July 13.—Mrs. Hazel Oberlin, of Kingston, Canada, and her sister, Miss Marie Agerbrikt, of Fort Wayne, were Wednesday guests of Mrs. Ina Miller.

Miss Tessie Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jennings, who has been quite ill with scarlet fever, is now improving.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Spencer and family are home from Spiceland, where they visited with Mr. Spencer's mother, Mrs. J. A. Spencer, and attended the Spencer reunion. They also visited relatives in New Castle while away.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Yager have as their guests this week their daughter, Mrs. Crum and her son, Harold, of Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Marcellus Alexander, of Bluffton, came to Ossian today for a few days' visit in the home of her cousin, Rem A. Johnston, and family, and with Mrs. M. E. Spencer.

Mrs. Wilson Hoot has returned to her home in Muncie, after a several days' visit with Mrs. Frank Hendry.

The N. M. G. club was very pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. John Woodward. The ladies responded to roll call with early courtesies.

Current events were discussed and a social hour with fancy work followed. The hostess served a nice two-course luncheon. Those present were Mesdames Josephus Caston, E. T. Hawley, George M. Way, Frank Quackenbush, A. C. Ferguson, G. A. Bowman, Frank McDowell, J. V. Goshorn and M. E. Spencer. Their next meeting will be with Mrs. McDowell on Tuesday evening, July 25.

Mildred Miller is now improving from a very severe attack of indigestion.

Mrs. Clint Vananda, Mrs. Kate Patterson and Mrs. Samuel Hughes spent Wednesday, visiting in Fort Wayne, and enjoyed an outing at the park.

"Master Mind" Still Sought by Police in Salem Murder Mystery

Arrest of Ten Persons Fails to Convince Authorities That Complete Solution is Near.

Salem, Mass., July 13.—Finding the "master mind," said to lurk behind events which led to the strange death of Miss Margaret Ward, of Peabody, is the mystery problem faced by the police.

Already ten persons have been charged with having knowledge of an operation Miss Ward is said to have undergone before her body was found in the bottom of the "death car" driven police say, by Thomas T. Sexton.

Now another person—a physician of prominence—may be added to the list. It is said Miss Ward, who was 27, left her home several days ago, saying she was to visit friends at a nearby resort, and that her family heard nothing of her until the strange automobile drove up in front of the home of her brother-in-law, Police Sergeant C. A. R. Duffe, of Salem.

One of the men who was later arrested had already told Duffe that his sister was ill and wished to come to his home.

It was early the following morning when the car drew up in front of Duffe's door. When he went out to the curb he found that his sister lay dead in the bottom of the auto.

"She has fainted," one of the four occupants of the machine stated, but before any of them could get away, Duffe had drawn his revolver and arrested them. Two other men who approached at that moment were also arrested at the point of the gun.

Among the men held as witnesses in the case are Charles R. O'Connell, lawyer of prominence and former state representative; Dr. John J. Shanahan, well known physician of Peabody, and William Conlin, factory employee, said to have been an intimate friend of the dead girl.

The trail of the death car leads back to the Roxbury district of Boston, where three women were arrested in one house soon as the Boston police learned of Miss Ward's death.

had as guests yesterday, Mrs. F. M. Thurber and her guests Mrs. Mary Ady and Mrs. Grace Dunham, of Chicago, and Mrs. J. B. Ady.

Mr. and Mrs. John Soward and family, of Bluffton, were Tuesday evening guests of Mrs. Soward's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kreigh.

Miss Justine Soward remained for a visit.

A picnic supper for the children on South Jefferson street was held at Mette grove Tuesday evening. Those attending were Mrs. A. A. Melching, Mrs. M. L. Hunter and Mrs. Willis Melching and Dorothy and Martha Melching, Mabel Wilson, Wilma and Martha Vananda, Marjorie and Richard Flannigan, Fay, John and Orval Melching, Thelma Parker, Dilla Patton, Merle Hunter and Adrian Hoopengardner.

A. S. Elzey will go to Mill Grove, near Hartford City, on Sunday to deliver an address at the M. E. church. Mr. Elzey's subject will be "The Value of a Boy."

Miss Nellie Gibson was hostess for the Standard Bearers Tuesday evening. Miss Glenn Quackenbush assisted. Miss Gibson in entertaining. Miss Marjorie Hunter led the devotional exercises and Miss Marie Hunter read the continued story. Maxine Gibson furnished special music. Miss Gay Bowman rendered a piano solo. Rev. Ishli, the Japanese student, gave a talk on foreign missions. Rev. Dawe made the closing prayer. A social hour with light refreshments completed the evening. Those present were Mesdames Emma and Nina Bowman, Marie Hunter, Glenn and May Quackenbush, Hattie Wilson, Marjorie and Mary Hunter, Sadie Fay, Isabel Metts, Sarah Stirling, Mary Way, Gay Dunn, Letha Travis, Mrs. Stella Heckley, Mrs. S. L. Gorrill and as guests, Rev. Garfield Dawe and Rev. James Ishli.

The Tuesday afternoon musicale was held at the home of Miss Fay Melching. These young girls are all pupils of Miss Pike Summers and gave a good musical program under Miss Summers' direction. During the social hour candy and peanuts were served. Those present were Mesdames Nita Wagner, Gretchen Hoopengardner, Vada Woodward, Dorothy Spencer, Naomi Hummelt, Evelyn Curry, Leota Roberts, Opal and Gertrude Kreigh of Echo, Levita Hanna, Avis and Leona Rector, Mildred Quackenbush, Maxine Gibson, Catherine Henline, Wilma and Arlene Vananda and Phebe Summers.

MARGARET WARD
VICTIM OF MURDER MYSTERY WHICH HAS STIRRED SALEM, MASS., MORE THAN ANYTHING OF THE KIND THAT HAS HAPPENED SINCE THE OLD DAYS OF WITCHCRAFT.

Miss Ward was said to have been taken alive from this house into the car at the start of her tragic journey to Salem, and it is charged that Dr. Shanahan, one of the men arrested, had visited her in this house the night before.

The promptness with which the Boston police made the arrest of the three women as soon as Medical Examiner Frank S. Wood, of Salem, reported that Miss Ward had died of an operation, leads to belief that they already had wind of the mystery.

The death car had been under suspicion as it sped up and down a Boston street before the trip to Salem began.

The local authorities are baffled to explain how all the six men arrested are connected with the tragedy. And they are still trying to run down clues concerning the seventh man—"the master mind"—in the case, a physician said to have visited Miss Ward in the Roxbury house before the time of Dr. Shanahan's reported visit.

He's a Dictator.

Governor Esteban Cantu, who sways Lower California as a virtual dictator. He may declare for neutrality of his state if the United States and Mexico go to war.

Governor Cantu recently moved his headquarters from Mexico and established a temporary capital at Tijuana. The gubernatorial mansion there is a small, frame dwelling, somewhat dilapidated and surrounded by a bedraggled flower garden that has seen better days.

On the brown hillside across the Tijuana river beyond the boundary line, perhaps two miles away, is entrenched a company of militia troops, with their guns trained on the gubernatorial mansion. The range is accurately computed, and the troops could blow Governor Cantu and his mansion into eternity the minute war is declared. But little does Cantu worry. The typewriters of his clerks click incessantly and he goes on his rounds as usual.

LOU AND GERALDINE HAVE FIVE SERVANTS, DOG AND TWO AUTOS.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 13.—Geraldine Farrar, now Mrs. Lou Tellegen, is back in this city with her husband for her annual summer engagement in pictures. It has not been definitely decided what films Miss Farrar will take part in, but they will undoubtedly be spectacular productions such as she was featured in last year. She will again play at the Lasky studio. Her husband also will play before the camera, but not in the same company with his famous wife.

Upon her arrival in this city Miss Farrar was offered a chance to name her own figure to sing in the grand opera company, playing a summer season here. The celebrated diva declined the offer, however, replying that, "the voice-box is closed for the season."

"I have been singing all winter," Miss Farrar said, "and I am out here for a rest first, to be followed by a lot of hard work. I am not going to sing again until next winter."

Lou Tellegen is one of the most distinguished actors on the American stage. Because of the popularity of his previous pictures, it has been decided to put him at the head of a company of his own.

The Tellegens were accompanied to California by five servants, a dog and two automobiles. They will live in Hollywood.

"I am glad to be back for another day into pictures," Miss Farrar announced, "back where my romance began."

MINERS' UNION HEADS SAY THEY'LL GET OUT

Resignations Follow Bitter Wrangle Over Wage Agreement

Pittsburg, Pa., July 13.—President Van Bittner, of district No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, and Vice President F. P. Hanaway will head in their resignations today at a special convention of the district now in session here. Both officials made this announcement last night following the first session held yesterday.

A bitter controversy has raged for some time over the wage scale agreed upon in New York by representatives of the miners. Van Bittner and other high officials of this district favored approving the scale and the majority of the men opposed it. This, it is said, resulted in a movement to impeach Van Bittner. So far no formal action has been taken. A number of local unions in disened to leave the national organization if the New York scale was forced upon them. Van Bittner's announced intention to resign is the climax of yesterday's stormy session of a meeting which sought if possible to reach a common ground between miners and their officials. Van Bittner has been president of district No. 5 for eight years and is also a member of the district executive committee.

ADDITIONAL COURTS

Asks $150 Damages.

The Maunee Dairy company has filed within the superior court for damages

Northern Indiana Traction company, alleging a car of the defendant company struck a wagon of the traction company in Taylor street, Jan. 3, 1916. A heavy snow bank made it difficult to drive the wagon without coming in close range with the car, the complaint says, and the traction car, making twenty-five miles an hour, it is averred, struck it.

I. P. KICKLEY IS TO BE RETIRED

Worked on Pennsy Forty-Six Years and Now Seeks Permanent Rest.

Passenger Conductor I. P. Kickley, in the service of the Pennsylvania over forty-six years and one of the best known men in the service, has made application for transfer to the pension system on the clause which permits it when an employee reaches his sixty-fifth year. The examining board has been summoned to consider Mr. Kickley's case and action will be taken soon.

I. P. Kickley was born in Fort Wayne August 22, 1850, and has resided here continuously all his life. His service on the road commenced in the capacity of freight brakeman in February, 1870, when he was nearly twenty years old. Six years later, in March, 1876, he was promoted to freight conductor and in January, 1882, he was advanced to the passenger department, where he is at present. For some time Mr. Kickley has been the conductor on one of the runs on Nos. 18 and 19, between this city and Crestline. He has not been in first-class health for awhile and it was this that induced him to apply for retirement.

AUTO KNOCKED FROM TRACKS.

Noah McDonald Has Thrilling Experience at Latty.

Noah McDonald, a resident of Middle-point, O., came near death last evening when his automobile was struck by a Nickel Plate train at Latty, O., and with himself in the machine, tossed clear off the right of way. The auto was badly damaged, but Mr. McDonald escaped with a few slight bruises and scratches. The train, with Engineer M. D. Grubb at the controls, was running westbound light and going at a fairly good speed when it reached the crossing where it struck the automobile. McDonald failed to heed the warning whistle or rather thought he could beat the train to it. He failed, however, and is now congratulating himself upon his narrow escape, though he regrets the damage sustained by his automobile.

WILL TEAR DOWN DEPOT

Old Frame Structure Which Served Wash Many Years Doomed.

The maintenance of way department of the Washab is getting ready to tear down the old depot building on the east side of Calhoun street, which has served as an office for yardmaster Gogarty, and for storage purposes since the new station was opened to business. The old depot was erected before the civil war and served about fifty years as a baggage and passenger station. Prior to its erection the small frame building east of it, now used as an office and store, was the car inspectors' was the only depot the Washab had in the city. It will be razed with the depot building. This is one of the improvements to be made during the present summer. What will take the place of the old depot could not be learned.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTION.

M. S. Willson, of the engineering department of the General Electric works, and Mrs. Willson will leave Saturday for Minneapolis, where they will spend two weeks with their son, Leut. J. D. Willson, of the United States navy. Harry Willson, a member of the Randall Publishing company, and Fred Willson, circulation manager of the Post-Dispatch, will also take part in naming the next president of the United States. Mr. Willson said. He will be a delegate to the prohibition national convention, which will be held in Minneapolis next week. "I witnessed the nomination of one successful candidate for president, Benjamin Harrison, in 1888," said Mr. Willson.

H. Horstmeier, of the Pennsylvania car machine shop, who has been off duty for some time with an injured toe, returned to work today.

C. F. Kaiser, a boilermaker at the Pennsylvania shops, returned to work today, after being off a few days because of the illness of his wife.

D. J. Trall, passenger agent for the Union Pacific railway, with headquarters in Cincinnati, is in the city today on business.

Gus Meyers, of the vice gang, at the Pennsylvania shops, has returned to work, after being off for several days on account of the birth of a daughter.

John Lauer, a laborer at the Bass shops, returned to work today after being off for two weeks because of sickness.

Lee Meyers has accepted employment in the Pennsylvania shop drafting room. He was formerly employed by the Flak Tire and Rubber company.

Charles Target, of the experimental department of the General Electric works, is on the sick list.

The sailors shown here on the deck of the German super-submarine Deutschland were in great spirits when this photo was taken at Baltimore after the vessel completed her record-smashing trip across the Atlantic. Some were so happy to strike land they rolled on the ground as soon as they went ashore. Reports from England raise question of whether these men will ever see land again after they start on their return trip.

The British, according to reports, plan to send many motor patrol boats to watch outside the three-mile limit for the Deutschland. It is also reported the British will line the ocean with gigantic nets like those that have caught many submarines in the waters around the British Isles.

The return trip of the Deutschland will be the most perilous ever made by any submarine.

ARE THESE MEN DOOMED?

Several contractors will appear before the board of works Thursday night and submit their bids for the paving of eighteen streets. Work on the streets will begin as soon as possible.

The streets to be paved are: Lavina street, from Broadway to Rockhill street; Bass street, from Hoagland avenue to Fairfield avenue; Lindley avenue, from Taylor street to Park View avenue; Skinner avenue, from Broadway to Phene street; Hugh street, from Hanna to Gay street; Carl street, from Calhoun to the alley east; St. Joseph boulevard, from Lake avenue to McDonald street; Old Ford street, from Calumet avenue to eighty feet south of St. Joseph street; Hurman street, from Warsaw street to the alley east; Eckart street, from Lafayette street to Warsaw street; Hanna street, from Rudisill boulevard to McKinnis avenue; Second street, from Harrison to Cass street; Fry street, from Main to Boone street; Garden street, from Washington boulevard to Jefferson street; and Nelson street, from Jefferson to Will street.

The board will also confirm the assessment rolls on the following improvements: Paving John street from Pontiac to Second street; paving Pope avenue from St. Mary's street to the south side of Columbia street; Delta boulevard to Anthony boulevard; sidewalks on both sides of Beaver avenue; sidewalk on both sides of College avenue from South Wayne avenue to Indiana street; sidewalks on the south side of Columbia street from Delta boulevard to Anthony boulevard; sidewalks on both sides of Richardson street from Pennsylvania avenue to Runion avenue.

Several Cases Heard.

The case of Henry Lorain, aged 23, of 1104 Barthold street, was considered of importance inasmuch as Lorain claimed his vision was impaired when he was splashed into his face by a pail of water fell while he was working for the Duddo Manufacturing company. The accident occurred March 2 last. Doctors' testimony was taken to show that Lorain was in no danger of losing his eyesight.

Borden Has Complaint.

In the case of Fort Wayne Rolling Mill corporation vs. Ben Borden, Borden claims damages for injury to a toe when a wheelbarrow loaded with coals fell over on his toe. The accident happened February 22 last and Borden could not settle satisfactorily with his company. Ryan & Aldrich are attorneys in the case.

Fell While Painting.

John Stranger alleges he fell and was injured while painting an automatic sprinkler, Sept. 15, 1915, for the E. G. Martin & Son company. He was unable to agree with his firm on damages. William E. Clapham is attorney for the defendant and Paul G. Henderson, of Indianapolis, represents the plaintiff.

Fell from Roof.

Charles A. Spencer says he slipped and fell from a roof while carrying a bucket of pitch and was injured at Pierson, Ind., while in the employ of the Seavey Hardware company. No attorneys appeared in the case, the matter being submitted directly to the industrial board.

Frank J. Dinnen sustained a rupture while employed by the A. Bentley company he asserts in a case before the industrial board. He was unable to agree on redress with his employers.

NOTIFICATION IN
NEW YORK, JULY 31

Hughes Will Be Advised of

Nomination at Carnegie

Hall in Evening.

New York, July 13.—The official notification ceremony of the nomination of Charles E. Hughes will be held in New York on Monday, July 31, at 8 p. m. at Carnegie hall, it was announced today.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Chairman Harding of the committee on notification after a conference with Mr. Hughes and Chairman Wilcox of the national committee. Mr. Hughes' suggestions as to the time and place for the ceremony were adopted, but the hour was changed from 3 o'clock—originally favored by the nominee—to 8 o'clock. "There will be invited to be present," said Senator Harding, "members of the republican national committee, delegates and alternates to the national convention at Chicago, republican governors and republicans in the house and the senate, the heads of the republican organization in the various states, members of the progressive national committee, officers of the progressive convention and prominent representatives of the republican party." The notification ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Hotel Astor given by Mr. Hughes to the invited guests.

Senator Harding said that both Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Taft would be invited to the ceremony and reception. Carnegie hall has a seating capacity of approximately 3,200. If there is any room left after reservations have been made for invited guests it will be thrown open to the general public. Senator Harding's announcement followed an evening conference between Mr. Hughes and many republicans from out of town. Among them were Senator Sutherland of Utah; Galen Tate, republican state chairman of Maryland; James B. Reynolds, secretary of the republican national committee; Francis S. Brown, attorney-general of Pennsylvania, and Representative William S. Vari, of Pennsylvania.

MUST REMAIN LOYAL
EVEN IF NOT PLEASED

President Discusses Americanization of Foreign Citizens.

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson told a citizenship convention here today that the American government must insist that foreigners becoming citizens remain loyal even if they are not pleased with the way affairs are conducted.

Loyalty means nothing, he declared, unless it is coupled with self-sacrifice. He added that Americans cannot teach loyalty unless they practice it.

The president discussed at length the problem of Americanizing foreign born citizens. His words were enthusiastically applauded by a large gathering of men and women educators interested in the instruction of new citizens, meeting here under the auspices of the naturalization bureau of the labor department.

He praised the objects of the convention, saying it was not fair to allow multitudes of people from foreign lands to come into this nation without giving them intimate instruction which will show them the objects of America.

Native born Americans were warned by the president to examine themselves carefully to see whether they have burning in them the true light of America, which they expect to show to these foreigners.

"My interest in this movement," he said, "is as much an interest in ourselves as in the people whom we wish to Americanize. Unless we are true Americans we cannot expect them to be the spirit of Americans. Unless we ourselves illustrate the ideas of justice and freedom we can teach nothing to those who come to us."

There are just as many cruel and heartless men here as in other lands, he continued, but the object of America should be to put such men in harness and control them.

"We have been disturbed recently by symptoms in the body politic," he added, "which are not healthy. Certain men, not many in number, have thought more of lands of their birth than of America. They have even gone so far as to draw apart in spirit, to seek a special object in their own. Such a thing as that is absolutely incompatible with the idea of loyalty."

Foreign travel was suggested as the best cure for those inclined to boast too much of the superiority of America.

MISS MARJORIE LANGDON MAKING
HARD PLAY IN POLO PRACTICE.

The Cincinnati woman's polo team was organized last fall, but real strenuous polo playing did not begin until early this spring and every week finds these young women out on the big polo grounds of the Cincinnati men's polo team, in matched contests practicing for the series of games which will be held with the New York team.

The team will attend the series of international polo games which are to be played in the east and the series between the two women teams will follow shortly after the international meet is ended.

DIDDEL IS VICTOR AGAIN.

Toledo, O., July 13.—Will H. Diddel, of Crawfordsville, Ind., continued his play in the Central States Golf association tournament Wednesday by defeating E.

Frank Southard, Holland Hubbard, Robert F. Stranahan, of Toledo, and P. W. Hunter, of Detroit, other favorites in the tournament, won their matches also. Champion Diddel meets Hunter in the next round Thursday, for the championship. Semi-finals will be played Friday, with the finals on Saturday.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 13.—The marriage of Tom Alley, auto racer, and Miss Susie Gary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gary, of Linden, which occurred Wednesday evening at the home of the Rev. A. W. Harned, of the Capital Park Methodist church, was the outcome of a romance of less than a year ago. Auey met Miss Gary when he was driving through Linden en route to Omaha. He is planning to give up racing and engage in the automobile business in this city.

The Fort Wayne Eagles will journey to Monroeville Sunday to play the third game of a five-game series between the two teams, the Eagles having won both games played so far.

A large crowd is expected Sunday as these two teams are evenly matched and Bill, Cashdollar and Bausserman will be the center of attraction as they will take the heavy work for Monroeville, while the Fort Wayne Eagles will have Drago, Smith and Mullinbuck and Boyce as the mainstays of the team.

DILLON READY FOR GO.

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—Jack Dillon, of Indianapolis, the light heavyweight pugilist who recently got a ten-round decision over Heavyweight Frank Moran, of Pittsburg, will meet Battling Levinsky, of New York, in a fifteen-round bout at Oriole park this afternoon. Dillon says he will weigh not more than 172 pounds when he enters the ring. Levinsky probably will be five or six pounds heavier, and in addition is taller and has a longer reach. Both men claim to be in fine condition. Dillon, who did not arrive here much preparation for the bout because of the hard training he did for Moran.

NEUVO LEON WILL BE EASIEST JOB

Less Than 20 Miles of One Mexican State Must Be Patrolled.

Washington, D. C., July 13.—Nuevo Leon, the smallest but most densely populated of the Mexican border states, is the subject of today's war geography bulletin issued by the National Geographic society in Washington.

"Of all the frontier states to be patrolled by our national guard, Nuevo Leon will present the least difficulties from a strictly 'border' point of view," says the bulletin, "for less than twenty miles of this political division of extremely irregular outline touches the Rio Grande. It is almost completely enclosed by the adjoining border states of Tamaulipas and Coahuila. For a distance of 125 miles, however, it is separated from the border only by a narrow strip of Tamaulipas, varying in width from ten to thirty miles.

"Nuevo Leon is only about one-fourth as large as the state of Chihuahua, but it has nine-tenths as many people. Compared with American commonwealths, it is about half the size of Mississippi, with a population equal to that of Utah.

"The northern and northeastern section of Nuevo Leon, the portion of the state with which the American border patrol will become familiar, gives an unfavorable impression for the land is not dry and low. Further south, however, the Sierra Madre range, extending through the state for 150 miles at an average elevation of more than 5,000 feet, changes the character of the climate, making it so temperate and so equable that some of the towns are popular health resorts for invalids from the United States.

"There are twelve rivers in the state, none of which is navigable. The Salado, in the northern section, is famous for its fish and fine pearl oysters.

"The valleys on the eastern slopes of the mountains are extremely fertile, producing many cereals and large crops of sugar cane, together with fruits and vegetables raised for the early spring market in American cities. Cattle-raising is one of the chief industries of the state, large herds of sheep, goats and beef cattle finding excellent pasturage on the plateau. Like most of the Mexican states, the wealth of Nuevo Leon is largely in its mines, the principal mineral products being lead, zinc and silver.

"The state is well supplied with railroads, two of the big trunk lines of the republic furnishing communication with Laredo Pass, Mexico City, Tampico and Torreon. The northern border lies 135 miles in an air line below San Antonio, Texas, and the southern tip of the state is crossed by the Tropic of Cancer.

"Nuevo Leon is one of the few states of Mexico in which no remains of the Aztecs or earlier races of prehistoric times have been found.

"The capital and chief city of the state is Monterrey, which has won the sobriquet, 'the Chicago of Mexico,' on account of its commercial activity and industrial importance."

Though these wide, shell pink hats are claimed by bridesmaids as their very own, other girls boldly appropriate them as the fitting crown for the fluffy summer frock.

Black maline is used to face this particular hat of shell pink hair braid, the narrow band is black velvet and the fan-like gaura feather is tipped with black.

NO BUMPER CROPS IN U. S. THIS YEAR

Conditions Generally Are Satisfactory, But No Records Broken.

New York, July 13.—While conditions generally are satisfactory, 1918 will not go down in history as a "bumper crop" year, according to agricultural experts.

In some sections rain, wind and frosts have injured prospects for a bumper year. In other localities, particularly California, Oregon and Washington, drought will lower the average.

Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, with favorable weather the rest of the season, will produce an average crop of hay, grain, potatoes and tobacco.

Only exceptionally favorable weather will offset the damage already done in New York state.

Heavy rains in New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania have damaged corn and tobacco. Under most favorable conditions the crop will not be matured until late in September.

Tobacco and hemp crops in Ohio and Kentucky will more than offset any damage done to wheat and corn by heavy rains.

In Maryland, Virginia, the Carolinas and West Virginia general crop conditions are favorable. An abundant harvest is predicted. A dry May prevented good stands of cotton and necessitated some replanting.

The cotton fields of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana need warm weather. The corn crop is reported the best in years.

June was cold and wet in Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana and corn and vegetable planting was delayed. Corn will probably furnish a satisfactory crop, however, if it receives warm growing weather.

The prospects for wheat, especially in Illinois, are none too good. A satisfactory crop of oats and corn is predicted. With the exception of peaches, the fruit crop is favorably commented upon. Michigan gives promise of a large fruit yield.

In Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota and northern Michigan conditions indicate the crop harvest will show a good average yield of all small grains, although the total crop will be somewhat less and the corn crop short.

It is estimated Kansas will harvest a hundred million bushel wheat crop. On the whole the condition of the wheat is good in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and Oklahoma. The quality is better than last year. The first yield of alfalfa was heavy and of fine quality.

Texas and New Mexico are harvesting the small-grain crop under favorable weather conditions. Due to drought and frosts there is a substantial decrease in acreage. The average yield, too, is less than in 1915.

The crops of California, Washington, Oregon, Utah and Arizona will be less than the average, but farmers and fruit growers will get advanced prices. Peach growers are contracting for sale of their products at more than twice the price received last year.

The grain crop this year will be from 20 to 30 per cent less than in 1915, owing to unusual drought during the spring in some sections of California.

ZANESVILLE NEWS.

Zanesville, Ind., July 13.—Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hamilton will start Friday to visit friends in Ohio. They will go with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilcox, who will go a-la-Ford. After visiting friends at various places the Hamiltons will visit their son, Dee, who has employment in Miami, Ohio. Before returning they will go to Dayton also.

Girl With a Winning Smile Need Never Fear of Being a Wall Flower

If You Enjoy Friends, Cultivate Them With Sincere Cheerfulness, Says Miss Thompson in Final Chapter on "The Psychology of the Smile."

BY LILLIAN D. THOMPSON.

Friends are worth cultivating in this life of ours. The sunny smile will do much towards holding your friends and at the same time help you and them in meeting the trials and tribulations of living.

Of course, the true friend is supposed to stand by one, whether he be gloomy or cheerful. But I can see no reason for taxing the patience of our friends with an attitude of continual gloom and sadness.

Naturally there comes a time in every one's life when sorrow overwhelms the ability to smile. Then it is that the friends of the saddened person can be of great comfort with their friendship smiles, the expression of real, true sympathy.

There is nothing reserved or stinging about the friendship smile. It is broad and expansive, charged with the joy of living, the expression of pleasure with life and the knowledge of good companions. There should be nothing mechanical about it.

It should be wholehearted and vital. It is the sort of a smile that says to another person, "I know you are my real friend and I can trust you in my confidences. I don't have to hedge, to watch my words when you are with me."

Every smile has two meanings. One is for the person receiving the smile, one for the person doing the smiling. As a rule the real intent of the smile is shown on the face, but at times its real meaning is a bit baffling. There is no guesswork about the friendship smile. It is so spontaneous and so lacking in affectation that one can tag it at sight. That is why, I think, it is such an interesting, important smile, such a delightful means of communication between two congenial persons.

The girl with the winning smile need never fear of being a wall flower; of lacking invitations to parties, and all the amusements that appeal to happy people. In fact, her ability to smile will take her far in her conquest of life; will help her over many rough places and aid her in overcoming many seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

If you want to go through life with the reputation of being a grouch, don't smile. But if you enjoy friends and want them to choose you and associate with you, cultivate that beaming, expansive smile, that is nearly a grin, from the very joyousness of it, and I promise you will not be lacking in happy, congenial companions. And what is better in life than good friends with whom to talk and confide?

There is so much to be gained from smiling that it seems foolish for anyone not to practice it. I have learned in my own life that my smiles have been an immense benefit and I am glad I can really and truly smile.

Since one gains in health, beauty, business and friendship through the taking of smile medicine, why stint the dose?

It is my advice, girls, to take it in large quantities. It cannot hurt you and will do you a world of good if you are sincere.

Parents Can Do as Much as Physician to Prevent Infantile Paralysis

A wave of child paralysis is sweeping over the country claiming babies' lives by the score.

The disease is a mystery even to medical experts. They have known of it since 1840, yet they are not sure what causes it nor exactly how it is spread.

In fighting this plague the efforts of the average mother and father are just as important and just as needed as are those of the physicians.

The disease generally breaks out in warm weather—it is another one of the summer dangers that beset babies. There are many physicians who conclude that it is spread by insects.

Some blame the stable-fly. Then why can't parents strive to prevent infantile paralysis by carefully screening houses and working to do away with the breeding places of these flies—neglected manure piles?

Other scientists put the blame for the disease on dirty milk. Nowadays it is a comparatively simple matter to make sure that your milk supply is pure.

Why not do so and help prevent the spread of this scourge of childhood?

Medical men know that the disease is spread by the contact of a sick child with well children.

Prevent this, mothers and fathers, by carefully isolating children who are suffering from running nose or "snuffles." Infected nasal discharges cause much of the disease.

Every householder can do much to keep down epidemics of this disease by simply taking a few precautions—cleaning up filth, keeping down flies and applying a few daily habits of hygiene. Camping, time is here. But every fisherman, hunter or lover of nature who turns to camp life should constitute himself a health officer for his own protection and comfort.

There are certain niceties of camp life which an experienced woodsman does not neglect, but the city-bred amateur who is used to daily garbage collection and open plumbing seems apt to lack sufficient ingenuity to properly improve means to make up for the lack of these essentials.

Cooking and eating out of doors is an attraction if the process is not accompanied by swarms of flies, and these are sure to appear if the wastes are not properly disposed of.

Be sure that heavy rains will wash refuse into the streams. Burn or dig a pit for it. Cover all the waste which goes into it with a sprinkling of chlorinated lime and then with a light covering of earth. This will insure freedom from fly breeding and noisome odors in the hot weather.

If mosquitoes abound, for the sake of comfort and as a protection against the possibility of malarial infection screens or netting should be used if conditions permit, and if not some anti-mosquito wash should be used, such as oil of citronella. If bitten, a mixture of one part of aqua-ammonia and three parts of spirits of camphor will destroy the poison.

While exercise is the best possible means of obtaining health there are three very essential don'ts: Don't strain, don't overdo or don't exercise if one feels "all tuckered out."

There is no more brilliant chapter in the history of preventive medicine than the discovery in 1885 after much patient toil of the germ of malaria and its mode of transmission.

The name of the fever signifies "bad air" and it was suggested by the prevalence of the fever in marshy districts.

In view of present knowledge of the transmission of the disease by the bite of mosquitoes how clearly do the descriptions of the malarial localities by early scientists fit in with the present known habits of the malarial mosquito.

One scientist named North attributed the presence of malaria in the Roman Campagna to vegetable matter allowed to decompose in saucer-like depressions in the ground. Another, named Friedel, describes how a certain ward at a marine hospital in Germany was used for convalescent patients. After a day or two in the ward these patients invariably came down with an attack of malaria. No other ward was affected in this way in that hospital and no sufficient explanation was forth coming until it was discovered that in the yard adjoining there was a large barrel full of stagnant rain water.

Malarial mosquitoes were breeding in the rain barrel and then flying over the fence and infecting the hospital patients next door.

In spite, however, of present day definitions of the cause of malaria by the mosquito bite, the disease annually claims thousands of victims in this country and the tropics.

Look first to your mouth for the cause of your rheumatism or neuralgia. It may be either that your teeth are decayed or that your tonsils are diseased. Have both examined and treated if needed.

A PRAYER.

Father, if I can be of any use to Thee, point out my path and make me strong to walk therein. I have lost so much time trying to make a path for myself. I have spent so many weary hours trying to be of use to myself. Now, Lord, I want to be of use to Thee. Give me my orders. Lord, turn my face in the direction Thou wouldst have me go, and may I go with glad heart and a ready hand. Amen.—Rev. Edward Leigh Pell, D. D.

GO TO CHRIST DIRECTLY

"I am a great lover of John Bunyan," said Charles H. Spurgeon in one of his sermons, "but I do not believe him infallible. I met with a story the other day which I think a very good one."

"There was a young man in Edinburgh who wished to be a missionary. He was a wise young man; he thought, 'Well, if I am to be a missionary there is no need for me to transport myself far away from home; I may as well be a missionary in Edinburgh! There's a hint to some of you ladies who give tracts away in your district, and never give your servant Mary one. Well, this young man started, and determined to speak to the first person he met. He met one of those old fishwives; those of us who have seen them can never forget them; they are extraordinary women indeed. So, stepping up to her, he said: 'Here you are, coming with your burden on your back; let me ask if you have got another burden, a spiritual burden?' 'What?' she said. 'Do you mean that burden in John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress?' Because if you do, young man, I have got rid of that many years ago, before you were born. But I went a

Why Some Prayers Are Not Answered

I believe that all true prayer is answered. But to locate the results of prayer and trace them to their true source is usually very difficult. The ordinary use of prayer is usually so blended with every other part of the life and action of a Christian, and the answers are so varied in form and they are received in a way so closely connected with human agency that it is impossible, as a rule, to draw the line between the results of prayer and that of other gracious influences which operate in our lives.

But some prayers are not answered, and some professing Christians have no power with God. To this class of religious professors the Word of God expressly says: "Ye ask and receive not. Now, why? The Bible itself gives three principal reasons why prayer is not answered. The first is unsundered sin.

Let us adopt an illustration from Mr. S. D. Gordon. Suppose I had a private wire from here to my friends and kindred in Charlottesville, Va., and some one should go outside and drag the wire down until it touches the ground. Could I telegraph over that wire? No. Suppose some one cuts the wire; the two ends are apart; not a mile or a yard, but yet distinctly apart. Could I telegraph on that wire? Of course not. Yet I might sit in my room and tick away by the hour and use most earnest and persuasive language. But what good would it do? The wire is cut. All my fine pleading goes into the ground or the air. Now sin cuts the wire. It runs the message into the ground. Says the Scripture: "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me."

There is a man praying for business prosperity. Does he seek prosperity in order to be more useful, a better servant of God and his fellow men, or simply for self-gratification, that he may have more of the pleasures of life and out a larger figure in the social and financial world?

It is perfectly right to pray for personal things, such as money, physical strength, healing in sickness, and the like. God wants his children's lives to be rich and full. But the motive determines the character and the propriety of all these requests. If our hearts are in sympathy with Christ in his life purpose is ours, we can ask what we will. "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you."

The third thing that hinders prayer is an unregenerated spirit. Prayer and forgiveness cannot be separated. After telling us in the Lord's Prayer how to pray, He solemnly reminds us that an unregenerated spirit breaks the connection between us and God.—Dr. E. W. Smith.

Testimony of Life Insurance Companies

Statistics prepared by either the wets or the dries are apt to be viewed with suspicion because both sides are biased, says Arthur Hunter, of the New York Life Insurance company. But statistics put out by the life insurance companies are known to be absolutely without bias and the public has confidence in them. Mr. Hunter cites the experience of seven American companies and one Canadian company to show that mortality is from ten to thirty per cent. lower among abstainers than among non-abstainers. He shows further that mortality among total abstainers is markedly lower than among "moderate" drinkers, and very much lower than among "immoderate" drinkers. The mortality among those who at the date of application for insurance took two glasses of whisky a day, but did not drink to excess, is eighty per cent. in excess of the normal. There is an extra mortality of forty per cent. among the policyholders who drank to excess at least five years prior to date of application for insurance, but had been very temperate for five years before acceptance.

MOVIES DISPLACE SALOONS.

Five hundred saloons in New York city and 100 in Brooklyn were crowded out of business last year by motion picture theaters, according to Orrin G. Cocks, secretary of the motion picture board of review, which has offices in New York. The percentage of drinking places eliminated in smaller communities is even larger, he stated. The "art atmosphere" of manufacturing towns has been noticeably improved because of picture houses, Mr. Cocks said.

"Only a Drunken Barber," Yet He Built Up One of America's Great Rescue Missions

God's Wonderful Transforming Power Shown in Remarkable Case of U. V. Sillaway, Who, Though Dead, Still Lives in Work He Left Behind.

Fifteen years ago he was pulled out of the canal at Grand Rapids—a drunken barber who in despair of his repeated failures to turn from drink decided to end his wrecked life. A few weeks ago a whole city mourned his death—the beloved superintendent of one of America's greatest rescue missions. From the most unreliable of the outcasts that Mel Trotter rescued in "Bucktown," this "drunken barber" became the right-hand man of the great rescue mission leader whom forty missions throughout America look to as their chief.

(By Grace Willis in Sunday School Times.)

Fred went to the bridge over the East Side canal, and, climbing to the top of the railing, deliberately leaped into the dark waters twenty feet below. Several people saw him when he leaped, and he was rescued from the water before he could drown. When the officer from the corner saw who it was, he called the wagon from the police station, and Fred spent the night in his wet clothing on the plank in a cell. As he was loaded into the wagon several people inquired who he was. "Oh, only a drunken barber," was the reply; "we get him often. It ain't the first time he's tried this."

Only a drunken barber fifteen years ago, of whom his own father said, "There is no hope for him; I wish he were dead." Yet when Urban V. Sillaway died, on September 16, of last year, many hundreds of people gathered in the largest downtown church in Milwaukee to do him honor, and more than a hundred were present at the funeral service on a Saturday night, and again on a Monday afternoon at his funeral service, to testify to the wonderful power of God in this man's life.

He is pictured as "Fred Hanks" in Mel Trotter's book, "Jimmy Moore of Bucktown." Baffled and beaten by the demon of drink some half a dozen times after his heart was first touched by the Spirit of God, he at last gave himself completely into God's keeping, at his own home, after midnight on July 27, 1900; and this was his first testimony, given on the Gospel Wagon the first Sunday after his conversion, at Grand Rapids, while his old pals surrounded him, listening:

"I don't expect any one to take stock in me. I have made so many mistakes and turned the mission people so many times I am almost ashamed to look at them. I'm not making any promises this time. I've turned my case over to Jesus Christ. If I get drunk now he'll be blamed, 'cause he's running the whole shooting-match. My life has been a failure. I want to finish when I was a boy I carried papers; one of my regular customers was an old Dutch woman who used to brew her own beer. Every evening when I delivered her paper I got my glass of beer. I got so I looked ahead to it, and when I was sixteen years old I could drink as much beer as a man. I learned the barber's trade, and before I was twenty years of age I was known as a drunken barber. I braced up many times, but when I started again I always went lower than I was before. I got into trouble, was arrested, and pleaded guilty. On account of my parents the judge suspended sentence, with the understanding that I ever took a drink he would call me up before him and give me five years. With the state prison staring me in the face, I managed to stay sober three months. During that time I worked hard, got good clothes on me, and married one of the sweetest girls that ever lived. After our marriage—well, it's the same old story; why did I tell it again? My picture is in the rogues' gallery in more than one city. I did not want to be dishonest, but a man can't drink whisky and be honest."

"I have stolen the pennies out of my baby's bank to satisfy that awful desire for whisky. Don't tell me that a man does that because he wants to; I've tried as hard as any man ever tried to be somebody, but that craving for whisky was there, and it had to be first in my life. Whisky was my god, I worshipped it, I loved it better than my family, my life, I've taken the shoes off my feet in the winter, and traded them for whisky. But today, thank God, I've not even wanted to drink. The first day in years that I've not wanted whisky is today. Gold cure failed; prison bars failed; wife's tears failed; but Jesus has taken even the desire for it away. When a man has that gnawing at his very vitals, there are but two things that will touch it, a big drink of whisky or the Lord Jesus Christ. Thank God, I have him, and I'll never thirst again. Last night I leaped from the bridge into the water to end my life; but God saved me from death and hell. I do not understand how he can love such a brute as I am, but he does; and now I'm saved."

Shortly after his conversion Mr. Sillaway was at his daily employment in a barber shop, shaving a customer, when a man came in, and presenting a bill, demanded its payment. Mr. Sillaway explained that he was not then able to pay it, but would do so as soon as possible. The man was abusive, and went out, saying, "That's a fine Christian—your are—not to pay your bills!"

Mr. Sillaway was crimson with embarrassment at having the customer, a wealthy lumberman, overhear the talk. The next morning, however, the lumberman went for the barber, and asked him what his debts in the town would amount to.

"Oh, as much as $500," was the reply. The lumberman then took out $500 in bills, and gave it to Mr. Sillaway, telling him he might accept it as a gift, or as a loan, if he chose, but that he would require no security.

With gratitude Mr. Sillaway set forth to pay his debtors, and one and another began telephoning to Mel Trotter, "Sillaway's got a wad of bills as big as your fist. Better look after him."

At a hardware store Mr. Sillaway selected an outfit of barber's tools, asked the price, and laid the money down, turning away without the package.

"Here you're leaving your package," some one called.

"That money is for implements like that, that I stole," was the answer as he left the store without the package.

He also owed hundreds of dollars in the west, much of it for liquor bills, and though it took some years to accomplish it, he paid them, every one.

A year or so ago, when in the west, near the neighborhood of his former haunts, in speaking to a gathering of five hundred men one day, he took out his checkbook and said: "Here's my checkbook; if there's a man in this audience to whom I owe anything I will pay it right now." The genuine offer made a strong impression on the men.

Mr. Sillaway became Mel Trotter's right-hand man, and half a dozen years later, in 1906, he went to Milwaukee to become the superintendent of the Rescue Mission there.

The mission was in a rented, ramshackle building; they were $1,900 in arrears and didn't own a thing. Three years later a successful two-weeks' financial campaign was put through, and the money was raised for a building. In May of the next year, 1910, the new building was dedicated, and from that time the work has been successfully carried on in an $86,000 plant, which has been a model for missions throughout the country.

A chapel meeting has been held every night during these years, and many are the men who look back to some night in that room, where the big painted eye and the verse, "Thou God seest me," looks down upon them, to the time when they found God. Mr. Sillaway was equally at home in making a tender appeal to men to give their hearts to God, or in summarily settling the disputes of quarrelsome drunks. His was an unusually well-poised, sane, and all-round Christian character; and those who had never known him in his former life found it almost impossible to realize that he had ever been other than a strong Christian. He never went off on a tangent, was never carried away by strange doctrines, kept his head, and in the midst of overwhelming burdens and discouragements kept sweet in his spirit, and won friends constantly by his warm-hearted personal interest.

He had a genius for friendship, and was equally at home with the well-to-do and the "down-and-out." As Mel Trotter expressed it, "He gets under your vest." At his funeral service were the young men of millions and the man without a cent, the wealthy woman crowded up against the wall and the shabby old negro walking boldly down the aisle for a last look at the familiar face; and each had lost a personal friend. And the burden on the heart of Mrs. Sillaway, who has been unfailingly an efficient and staunch helpmeet, is, "I am so sorry for these friendless people."

In his office there are some fifty or sixty framed photographs. There are many pictures of prominent Christian workers and mission men; but perhaps the majority are of the men and their families saved through his efforts. Such work as his is filled with heart-breaking discouragement; and at such times he would look about on this picture and that and say, "That one paid—that one paid," and his courage rose and his faith and trust were renewed.

At his fifteenth "spiritual anniversary" last May, as he rose to open the meeting, the platform filled with beautiful flowers sent by friends, a messenger came down the aisle with a box of roses; and as he lifted them out he turned to the ragged, unkempt men in the audience and said, "The flowers weren't coming my way fifteen years ago, boys." It was a telling point.

Only a drunken barber—but, transformed by the power of God, he had won more stars for his crown than many a man in a long lifetime of service; his richly answered prayer:

"Help me the slow of heart to move By some clear winning word of love; Teach me the wayward feet to stay And guide them in the homeward way."

An Evening Service.

The esteemed Dr. Fisk was on his way to conference in 1832, and was making the trip on a steamboat. The number of passengers was greater than usual and they had all assembled in the cabin for the purpose of having their berths assigned for the night.

Directly afterwards, the clerk announced that Dr. Fisk was to perform religious services before the company retired to rest, and suggested that those not favorable to it would withdraw to the forward cabin. One individual, apparently a military officer, availed himself of this privilege. The crowd remained in silence. The doctor rose and the service began by making a few remarks, intended to produce a feeling of dependence upon God, he gave out a hymn in which the greater number of passengers united. When he bowed to address the throne of Grace, it was an unusual sight to observe that with scarcely an exception, every one of the passengers had put themselves before the Lord, thus evincing not only a proper veneration for religion, but their high respect for the individual who was leading the devotions. Those who knew the doctor need not be told what was the effect of those services, for no man possessed the faculty of improving such occasions to better advantage. One who was there adds, "We retired to rest that night with more devotional feelings than we ever experienced on board a steamboat, and it will be long before the impression produced by this circumstance will be effaced."

PREPAREDNESS.

Spirits come out of bottles, but the spirit of '76 didn't come out of a bottle. If the entire United States army and navy could center its fire upon a gigantic bottle which contained all of the liquor in the United States, the greatest step in national preparedness for efficient peace and efficient war might be taken.

WORDS FROM THE CROSS.

First word from the cross—the word of charity: "Father, forgive them." Second word from the cross—the word of mercy: "Today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise." Third word from the cross—the word in filial piety: "Behold thy Son!  Behold thy mother!" Fourth word from the cross—the word of agony: "I thirst." Fifth word from the cross—the word of humanity: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken Me?" Sixth word from the cross—the word of perfection: "It is finished." Seventh word from the cross—the word of Sonship: "Father, into Thy hands I commend My Spirit."

OUR NEGLECTED BOY CROP

RUNNING TO WEEDS.

Sombody swiped Johnny's mitt to-day. Maybe Ma said she didn't have any money for another. So Johnny laid for Dad at the corner where the car stops and demanded a sum sufficient to meet his sad necessity.

Maybe Dad was feeling pretty tired of a good many things, but chiefly of the high cost of everything, and so he replied accordingly. Then Johnny teased. And was scolded. Or worse.

And he will not care what he does to-morrow, if he can't have another catcher's mitt.

Poor Johnny! He belongs to the country's neglected boy crop.

And yet few persons look upon him as neglected. His parents are thrifty, temperate, conscientious. They see that the boy has plenty of food, bath and clothes.

They see that Johnny has pretty nearly everything he wants—EXCEPT AMUSEMENT. They leave Johnny to find that for himself.

But when he does find it, they call it mischief.

Now if Johnny were a wail, somebody would take great pains to see that he had his two weeks in the country, and that he was especially provided with work and play enough to keep him out of mischief.

But Johnny's parents are industrious—and just a little too busy to care Johnny's entertainment. They are also provident—and just a trifle too much interested in saving for the future to give the right kind of attention to the present.

That is why the boys in some of the most respectable families turn out badly. Everybody is too busy to look after them. Money is too precious to spend on them.

And the chances are that as a few quarters invested over and over in bad investments, and many would pay a greater dividend in Johnny. He would bank account or collect cash.

Opportunity.

They do me no wrong who say I come no more, When once I knock and fail to find you in; For every day I stand without your door, And bid you work, and rise to fight, and win.

Wait not for precious chances passed away, Weep not for golden ages on the wane! Each night I burn the records of the day— At sunrise every soul is born again!

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have fled To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb; My judgments seal the dead past with its dead, But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring out your hands and weep I lend my arm to all who say "I can." No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep But he might rise and be again a man!

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast? Dost reel from righteous retributions blow? Then turn from blotted archives of the past, And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell; Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven; Each morning gives thee wings to fly from hell; Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

FARM NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE FARMER

GRAPES; SOME SATISFACTORY METHODS OF TRAINING THEM

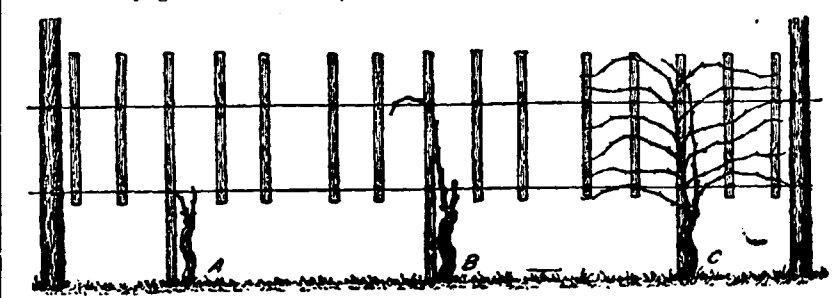

One of the Surest of Fruit Crops is the Grape, a Crop Each Year Being Reasonably Certain After the Third Year From the Time of Setting the Vines—This Fruit is Easy to Grow and Does Well on Almost Any Drained Soil Well Cultivated.

When planting grapes, the exposure should be to the sun, as this fruit revives in sunshine, and the place should be cultivated on all sides. One or two year old vines may be used. At planting time the tops should be cut back to 3 or 4 eyes and the roots well shortened in. Large holes should be dug so that the roots may be about six inches below the soil surface and well spread out. Fine soil should then be worked around them and well firmed down. If the season should be dry, a mulch of coarse litter may be spread around the vine. If all the buds start the strongest one or two may be allowed to grow. Remove the others.

While every bud on the 1915 shoot may produce shoots or cane in 1916, only the strongest of these will bear fruit. The skilled grape-grower can tell by the looks of his cane at pruning time which buds will give rise to the grape-producing wood the following season. The larger and stronger buds usually give best results; but if use his own judgment in the matter of training the vines. There are many more or less popular methods of training, all of which have some good points, and, according to location and other considerations, have been used successfully.

The principal methods of training are as follows: The trellis, the high-

the cane itself is very big and stout, or if it is very weak and slender, he does not expect good results from any of its buds. A hard, well-ripened cane the diameter of a man's little finger is the ideal size.

Another thing to remember is this: a vine should bear only a limited number of clusters; only from 30 to 40 should be allowed to develop on one vine. If a vine is strong enough to bear 30 clusters of grapes about 15 should be left at pruning time and if strong enough to bear 40 clusters 40 buds should be left.

With these principles in mind it will be seen that the essential operation in pruning grapes is to cut back a limited number of the best canes to a few buds each season and entirely remove the others. The more usual method at the present time is to cut the canes back to 8 or 10 buds and to leave 3 or 4 canes, all of which should start from near the head or trunk of the vine. New arms should be taken out from year to year as the bearing wood gets farther away from the trunk.

There are various ways in which the objects of pruning are accomplished. For instance, the growth and the size of a plant are promoted and (1) by removing all the diseased parts and suckers; (2) by shortening extended shoots, side shoots, and laterals; (3) by putting upright the part whose rapid growth is desired; and (4) by removing the fruit buds or fruit. The plant is retarded in growth and made to bear earlier and richer fruit by shortening the leading shoots and leaving the fruit-bearing wood and by bending down the branches and ring-pruning them. The healing of wounded and diseased plants is promoted by removing the injured parts and dressing the wound. The head of a plant is renewed by cutting off the branches above; the head is made to grow thicker by cutting back the outer branches and to grow thinner by amputating all canes on which there is too much growth.

There are so many species of grapes, each having peculiarities of its own and therefore responding most readily to certain cultural methods, that each grower must, in a measure, renewal, or upright system; horizontal arm spur system; horizontal block system; the fan system; the Hudson horizontal system; four-cane Kniffin system; umbrella or two-cane Kniffin system; Munson system; overhead Caywood system; Chittenden system; multiple cross-wire system; or overhead arched trellis or parva system; cross-wire system; the spur, stool or short pruning system (used in most vineyards in California); the long or cane pruning system (also used in California). Vines trained on trellises are comparatively rare in California.

Grapes do not require stimulating fertilizers. Wood ashes, about one half bushel per vine, is one of the best fertilizers to apply. An application of three pounds per vine of the following mixture is recommended by some of the experiment stations: Ninety pounds acid phosphate, 30 pounds kainit and 20 pounds cottonseed meal.

Grapevines are sometimes girdled or ringed for the purpose of hastening maturity and fruitfulness. Experiments at the experiment stations in

New York and Massachusetts show that fruit on ringed vines is sometimes ten days to two weeks earlier than on unringed vines, and larger both in bunch and berry. Shoots bearing the bunches are ringed between the fruit and the stem, leaving the shoot. The ringing should be done when the grapes are about one-third grown, a ring of bark about one inch wide being removed from the arm or shoot. Implements for this purpose are to be had.

IT PAYS TO WEIGH THE MILK.

Dairymen who are weighing the milk from each cow every day find that their returns are much larger than formerly, when they allowed the old custom of guessing at the amount in the pail, froth and all.

It takes but a few seconds' time to weigh the milk and make a good record of it, if convenient scales and blanks are at hand.

The most convenient scale is a spring balance, weighing to 60 pounds by tenths, having an adjustable hand which may be set to balance the weight of the milk pail.

The records should be convenient and have sufficient space for the figures.

APPLY BUSINESS METHODS.

Did you ever hear of a business man who spent "too much money" advertising? Did you ever hear of a farmer who "spent too much money" fertilizing? There may be instances, but they are certainly only exceptions. Money spent judiciously by the business farmer "to advertise" and by the farmer "to fertilize" will always bring big returns. It pays, and is seldom if ever overdone. Frequently it is much underdone. If you must neglect any factors, slight the scientific and the artistic sides.

NOT VERY NEW.

Even the silo is not strictly a modern invention. History states that in very early ages in Egypt, Italy, Spain and Mexico, seeds were stored in pits either above or below ground, and one hundred years ago the Italians were preserving fresh leaves for cattle in casks and pits in the ground.

Don't think that lime-sulphur will control apple blotch as well as Bordeaux mixture.

PREVENTING THE INTRODUCTION OF WEEDS ON THE FARM

"Weeds, Weeds, Everywhere; They Thrive in the Cornfield, They Choke Wheat in the Field, They Annoy the Gardener, They Ruin the Meadow, They Spring Up By the Roadside, They Encroach on the Swamp, They Damage the Fleeces of Sheep, They Decrease the Value of Property."

BY W. J. BEAL.

Disadvantages of Weeds.

1. They rob cultivated plants of nutriment.
2. They injure crops by crowding and shading.
3. They retard the work of harvesting grain by increasing the draft and by extra wear of machinery. (Bindweed, thistles, red root.)
4. They retard the drying of grain and hay.
5. They increase the labor of threshing, and make cleaning of seed difficult.
6. They damage the quality of flour, sometimes making it nearly worthless.
7. Most of them are of little value as food for domestic animals.
8. Some weeds injure stock by means of barbed awns. (Squirrel tail grass, wild oats, porcupine grass.)
9. Some of them injure wool and disfigure the tails of cattle, the manes and tails of horses. (Burdock, cocklebur, houndstongue.)
10. A few make "hair balls" in the stomachs of horses. (Rabbit-foot clover, crimson clover.)
11. Some injure the quality of dairy products. (Leeks, wild onions.)
12. Penny cress, and probably others, when eaten by animals, injure the taste of meat.
13. Poison hemlock, spotted cowbane and Jamestown weed are very poisonous.
14. Many weeds interfere with a rotation of crops.
15. All weeds damage the appearance of a farm and render it less valuable. (Quack-grass, Canada thistle, plantains.)

Some Small Benefits of Weeds.

1. They are of some use in the world to induce more frequent and more thorough cultivation, which benefits crops.
2. The new arrival of a weed of first rank stimulates watchfulness. (Russian thistle.)
3. In occupying the soil after a crop has been removed they prevent the loss of fertility by shading the ground.

4. Weeds plowed under add some humus and fertility to the soil, though in a very much less degree than clover or cow peas.

5. Some of them furnish food for birds in winter.

Some Rules for Their Extermination.

1. The right kind of a man, who will carefully observe and study the kinds of weeds and their habits, fighting each to the best advantage, i. e., with method.
2. See that all seeds purchased or grown at home for seed are free from seeds of weeds. Although often heard these words are too little heeded.
3. See that threshing machines, hay racks, grain bags from other farms are well cleaned before used on the farm.
4. Cook or grind screenings and burn chaff when certain weeds are suspected.
5. Send seeds to your state agricultural college for identification, unless they are known to be harmless.
6. Strive to prevent weeds from ripening seeds. This is especially important late in the season if cases of all pigweeds, purslane and others where the flowers are very small and are liable to be overlooked and the seeds ripen before their presence is suspected.
7. For meadow or pasture make the soil very fertile, as most weeds will then be killed or crowded by the better grass and become of little account.
8. Modify the rotation of crops with reference to killing the weeds.
9. Make a specialty of hoe or cultivated crops.
10. Make soiling crops a prominent feature in certain fields.
11. Smother weeds with quick growing and thickly seeded crops, like red clover or rye or buckwheat.
12. Keep some crops growing on the land from early spring till late autumn—double cropping, i. e., two cultivated crops in one year for hay and cellar instead of one for use and one of weeds.
13. Cultivate thoroughly after a crop is removed.
14. Clean up and avoid leaving any vacant or out of the way places for breeding ground.
15. Where practicable, remove fences and cultivate to the gutters of the highway.
16. Keep some sheep.
17. When once begun, continue the work thoroughly from year to year, giving no quarter to weeds. This is the easiest in the long run and the royal way.
18. Where hand labor is employed, it is far less expensive and much easier to keep weeds down by going or hoeing once a week than by sowing over the ground much less frequently.

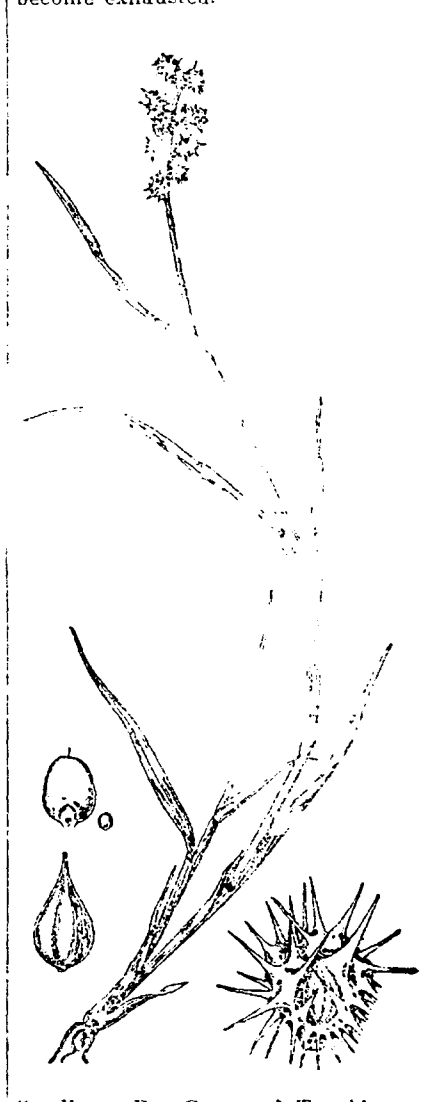

The habits of a weed determine to a great extent the best mode of fighting it. Certain remedies suggest themselves for creeping perennials, like quack grass and foxtail, while different treatment is best for narrow-leaved dock; and still a different mode of attack may be adopted for crab grass and purslane.

Weeds are annuals, as pigweeds, crab grass, purslane; biennials as bull thistle and mulleins; perennials, like quack grass, Canada thistle, ox-eye daisy.

Will it pay? The annual cost of successfully fighting a weedy farm of 100 acres in Ontario has been found to be about $75. Good cultivation in the long run pays a greater profit than slipshod culture. It not only kills the weeds, but keeps the soil in condition for securing good crops. It conserves moisture.

Perennial plants cannot gain any if the green leaves are not allowed to appear. The nourishment stored in the root stocks underground will aid the plant to send up slender leaves and if these remain, the plants gait and recruit; but if the leaves start underground and are cut off before coming to the light, the root stocks are drawn on again to furnish food to start more leaves and thus, in time, become exhausted.

GOOSE RAISING MAY BE MADE PROFITABLE

The Toulouse and Embden are the most popular breeds of geese in this country. The Toulouse is the largest breed, the adult gander and goose weighing 25 and 20 pounds, respectively, while the standard weights of the Embden are 20 and 18 pounds.

Geese can be raised in small numbers successfully and at a profit on many farms where there is a rough pasture land containing a natural supply of water. The market for geese is not so general as for chickens, but the demand and prices are especially good in sections where geese fattening is conducted.

Geese need only a house during cold or stormy weather, when an open shed should be provided. One gander is mated with from one to three geese, and the matings are not changed from year to year unless they prove unsatisfactory. When mated, they are allowed to run together in flocks. Toulouse and Embden geese will breed when about 2 years old. The females are usually kept until they are from 12 to 14 years old, or as long as they lay well. Sex is difficult to distinguish, especially in young geese. The gander is usually somewhat larger and coarser than the goose, and has a longer, longer neck, and a larger head. The sex is sometimes determined by a critical examination or by the action of the geese at mating time.

Large boxes, barrels, or shelters are provided as nests for geese, or they are allowed to make nests on the floor of the house. The eggs should be collected daily and kept in a cool place. The first eggs are usually set under hens, while the last ones which the geese lays may be hatched either under hens or under the goose if she "goes broody." If the eggs are not removed from the nest when the goose is laying, she will usually stop laying sooner than if they are taken away. The period of incubation of goose eggs varies from 28 to 30 days. Moisture may be added after the first week by sprinkling the eggs or the nests with warm water. Goose eggs hatch slowly, especially under hens.

and the goslings are usually removed as soon as hatched and kept in a warm place until the hatching is completed. Geese are generally raised where they have a good grass range or pasture, as they are good grazers and usually pick most of their living, except during the winter months and the breeding season. Goslings should be fed a mash of two parts shorts and one part corn meal by weight, changing at the end of three weeks to equal parts shorts and corn meal with 5 per cent each of beef scrap and grit. A fattening ration may be made of a mash of one part shorts and two parts corn meal by weight with 5 per cent of beef scrap, fed in the morning, and a feed of corn at night.

Adult geese should be fed for eggs about February 1st, or so that the goslings will be hatched by the time there is good grass pasture. In feeding for eggs give a mash of equal parts by weight of corn meal, bran and middlings or low-grade flour with 10 per cent of beef scrap in the morning and a feed of corn at night. A constant supply of drinking water should be provided. If geese need grain when not laying, the beef scrap should be left out and the corn meal increased in this ration to three parts.

SICKNESS AND DEATH FROM MILK.

It is well known that the records of many cities show that dirty milk causes much sickness and death from diarrheal diseases among children one to five years old and that it is in hot weather that dirty milk is most deadly.

THE LEAF BLISTER MITE OF PEAR AND APPLE

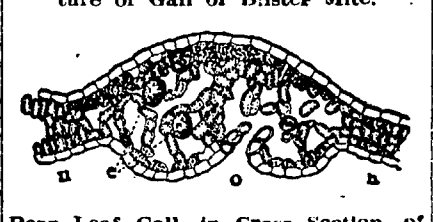

Red or green blister-like spots appearing in the spring on the foliage of the pear and apple are usually due to the leaf blister mite. This is not an insect but a small animal, invisible to the unaided eye, which attacks standard varieties of pear and apple trees and often inflicts serious damage.

Where trees are seriously infested, the premature fall of both fruit and leaves may result. In such cases a special application of lime-sulphur wash or other spray may be necessary. Ordinarily, however, the regular orchard spraying is sufficient to control the mite. Badly infested branches of the pear tree may be cut off and burned. Care should be taken not to confuse the work of the mite with the leaf-spot disease or the results of heavy spraying.

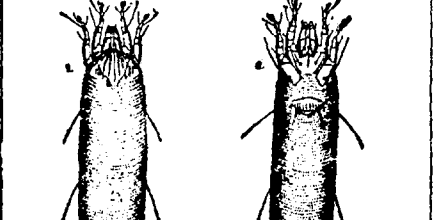

The leaf blister mite passes the winter beneath the leaf scale. There it waits for the opening of the buds and attacks the young leaves as soon as they push out in the spring. The tiny animals bore small holes from the underside of the leaves into the interior, where they lay their eggs. This causes the small, pimply-like galls on the upper surface of the leaves. The spots later increase in size, sometimes to one-eighth of an inch, and on the pear tree are red and often brilliantly colored as they grow. In the case of the apple, the eruptions lack the more brilliant coloring and are found more along the margin of the leaf. In both cases the spots finally turn brown or black, and if the pest is abundant the leaves become ruptured and wrinkled.

More than 250 varieties of apples are attacked by the mite, injury being especially severe on some well-known commercial sorts, such as the Ben Davis, the King, Baldwin, Rhode Island Greening and the Williams Favorite.

Where orchards are seriously infested, as has been noted in New York State, lime-sulphur washes give excellent results. They avoid the injurious effects upon fruit buds which sometimes result from the use of oil sprays. The wash should be applied thoroughly, coating the twigs and branches.

SOIL FOR BUSH FRUITS.

Gooseberries and currants are very much alike and whatever is said of the one is also applicable to the other. A rich clay loam is best for them, and the exposure of the plantation should be toward the north, if possible, as the ground on such an exposure does not dry out as quickly as any other exposure. Sand should also be avoided. In setting out a plantation, the cuttings should be not less than eight inches long, and placed vertically in the soil, which should be made very rich with rotten stable manure.

PROTECT CORN FIELDS AGAINST CUTWORM

Prompt action is necessary for controlling cutworms after their presence becomes noticeable in the spring, which is usually about the time the corn begins to sprout.

Cutworm injury almost invariably occurs in the spring, the plants usually being cut off at the surface or a little below the surface of the ground, beginning as soon as the first plants sprout and continuing until late June or early July, by which time the worms are full grown. Feeding takes place at night, the worms resting during the day beneath debris or in the soil at a depth of from one-half to one inch below the surface, and since they closely resemble the color of the soil in most cases, the cause of the injury is often not apparent. However, if the soil surrounding the cut-off plant be examined carefully, the culprit will quite likely be found curled up in the soil.

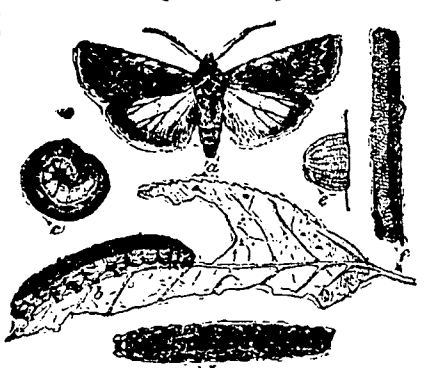

Land to be planted to corn the following spring, especially such land as has laid in grass for a considerable time, should be plowed in midsummer or early fall about the time the eggs are laid, or better, before the eggs are laid, for then vegetation which is suitable for the moths to lay their eggs upon is removed. The earlier the preceding year grasslands to be planted to corn are plowed, the less will be the probability that the corn moth moths will have laid their eggs thereon, and the less, consequently, will be the danger of injury by cutworms the following year.

Late fall and winter plowing of grasslands, although not as effective as early plowing, will destroy many of the hibernating cutworms, as well as such other important corn pests as white grubs, and should be practiced when earlier plowing is impracticable. Pasturing hogs upon land supposed to be harbor cutworms is a beneficial practice, as these animals root up and devour insects of many kinds, including cutworms, in large numbers. Farm poultry, if trained to follow the plow, will prove of inestimable value.

When cutworms are found to be abundant on corn land, the use of the poisoned bait is recommended. This may be prepared as follows: Mix 50 pounds of wheat bran, 2 pounds of Paris green, and 6 finely chopped oranges or lemons. Then bring the whole mixture to the consistency of a stiff dough by the addition of a cheap molasses, such as is used in cattle rations, adding water when necessary. Distribute this bait over the infested field in small lumps, taking care to sprinkle it sparingly around each hill. In case bran can not be readily obtained, middlings or alfalfa meal may be successfully substituted. In fields known to be infested, the distribution of this bait should be started as soon as the corn begins to appear above ground so that the cutworms may be eliminated as quickly as possible and the injured hills promptly replanted. During the warmer spring months cutworms do most of their feeding at night and burrow into the soil to the depth of an inch or two during the day, so that the bait will usually be more effective if applied during the late afternoon or early evening hours.

Frequently cutworms migrate to cultivated fields from adjoining grassland, and in such cases the crops can be protected by running a narrow band of the poisoned bait around the edge of the field or along the side nearest the source of infestation.

RAPID GROWERS.
Banana plantations will yield a continuous harvest for years without replanting. Nearly 300 hills, having 900 stalks, are allowed to the acre, yielding some 300 marketable bunches per year, the average profit per acre being nearly $50 annually.

A splendid mixture for laying hens is equal parts of cracked corn, wheat and oats, which should be scattered in the litter.

Lespedeza has gained wide recognition in the South as a hay and grazing crop.

Chicago, July 13.—Reports of a broadening European demand for shipments from America gave strength today to the wheat market here. Admissions that the increased foreign call was largely based on fear of damage to the domestic spring crop tended to emphasize bullish sentiment.
Opening prices ranged from 5¢ to 1¢ higher, with July at $1.10 to $1.10½ and September at $1.13 to $1.13½, but were followed by reactions due to profit-taking.
The close was unsettled, 1¢ to ½¢ net higher, with July at $1.10½ and September at $1.11½ to $1.11½.
Corn rose with wheat. On the bulge, however, as was the case with wheat, a disposition to realize profits was shown. After opening 1½¢ off to ¼¢ up, the market began to ease off.
The close was nervous at ¼¢ to ½¢ above yesterday's finish.
Commission houses lined up on the buying side of oats. The incentive was continued unrelenting high temperatures in the fields, but offerings from holders were plentiful.
Provisions lacked support. Higher prices on hogs failed to stimulate orders to purchase.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.
New York, July 13.—Further tendencies were displayed by special stocks at today's opening, indicating a cessation temporarily at least of the recent flood of liquidation. Industrial Alcohol soon recovered four points of yesterday's heavy loss and the shipping point was higher by one to almost two points. The war group as represented by Crucible Steel and American Locomotive was materially better, and U. S. Steel was fractionally higher, with Reading, Union Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio, Willys-Overland proved the only notable exception, losing 1½ points despite the increased and extra dividends announced yesterday.
Initial gains were swept aside before the end of the first hour, when aggressive selling of specialties was Chandler Motors followed the lead of Willys-Overland at declines of four to seven points. Alcohol's early gains proved to be of brief duration, the stock soon falling to 97½, an overnight loss of ¼, and the year's low quotation. Continental Can lost five points and Bethlehem Steel fell 23 on two transactions. Ralls and U. S. Steel yielded only fractions. Local money conditions came in for further consideration in view of the advance in the Bank of England rate. Bonds were irregular.

FUTURE FORTUNES FROM BABY BONDS
Many young men and women of Fort Wayne and its vicinity are laying the foundation for future fortunes through the medium of Baby Bonds, for which they lay aside a certain portion of their savings of this or that month, thereby cultivating the habit of saving which must eventually lead to a certain degree of affluence. Baby Bonds come in $10.00 denominations, and consequently are available to many who could not otherwise afford an investment which would include all of the good features of this one. They pay six per cent interest, and are secured by first mortgages on local real estate. There are also a few $500 bonds with the same rate of interest and the same security. Details may be secured from the Wildwood Sales company, Shoaff building.

HE STRUCK LANDLADY WITH BASEBALL BAT

Fred Murry Gets Fine of $25
tence.

Fred Murry, cracker-maker, employed by the Perfection Biscuit company, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to ninety days at the state farm, in municipal court, Thursday morning, because testimony showed that he struck Mrs. Cora Knoll, 1125 Polk street, his landlady, with a ball bat.

Trouble started when Murry went to Mrs. Knoll's home for his clothes, as he intended to move to another part of the city. He owed her $30 room rent, she testified. He would not pay her, she said, and started to move his things. She objected and he knocked her down, she told. She ran out on to the front porch and he followed her, she said.

Neighbors, who saw the conflict on the front porch said Murry used a baseball bat. Mrs. Knoll kicked the glass out of a picture Murry was carrying away. The mail son, Kenneth, who had run to telephone the police, said he saw Murry kick his mother.

Murry left the house before the police arrived. Neighbors found Mrs. Knoll in a fainting condition and called a doctor. There were black and blue spots on her body. Later she signed an affidavit, charging Murry with assault and battery.

Murry denied striking Mrs. Knoll. "I never did hit a woman," he claimed. He said Mrs. Knoll hit him with the baseball bat. He gave notice of appeal of the case. Appeal bond is fixed at $300.

Youth Held for Burglary.

William Sheldier, 15, who gave his home as Ohio, is held under $1,000 bond for trial on July 15. He is charged with climbing through a window into the home of John Wioch, a Polish family, 2011 John street, late Wednesday night. Police say they were called to the Wioch home near midnight and found two men in the room. Sheldier, who speaks broken English, told the officers that Sheldier had climbed into a bedroom through the side window. Women sleeping in the room saw Sheldier and screamed. The men caught the lad and held him, while Mrs. Wioch telephoned for police.

Sheldier says he got into the wrong house and did not intend to steal anything. An interpreter will be called into court Saturday morning to assist the court in talking with the Polish woman.

Sentenced for Stealing.

Charles Crawley, who says he has to do with the hiring of foreign labor, and who came to Fort Wayne from St. Louis to place a gang of men at New Haven for the Wabash railroad, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to twenty days in the county jail after being convicted on a charge of petit larceny.

Crawley stole a pair of pliers from the shoe shop of Ben Michaelson, 1320 Calhoun street, it was charged, and Michaelson on the street tried to sell them to him for 10 cents. Michaelson, who had been away from the shop when

Crawley was there, he claims, recognized the pliers. He called an officer and had Crawley arrested. Crawley said another man gave the pliers to him.

Other Police Court.

John Noler, who has been brought in several times on charges of public intoxication, was fined $50 and costs and thirty days at the state farm, when convicted on the same charge Thursday. He will serve ninety days at the farm.

Jack Oppenheim, who has met drunk charges a number of times, was fined $10 and costs for having been in a drunken condition Wednesday night.

Case of Orville DeLong, charged with petit larceny, was continued until July 27. Edward Hedges, charged with wife desertion, is held under $300 bond for trial on July 17. William Wilson, charged with being drunk, will be tried July 17.

George Gladis was fined $1 and costs after pleading guilty to a drunk charge. Holly Reford will be detained five days in jail before his trial on a charge of loitering.

FOR PIMPLY SKIN AND VARICOSE VEINS

All Yield Rapidly to Powerful Penetrating but Safe Prescription Called Moore's Emerald Oil.

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will reduce swollen, painful, ugly veins and will cause wens and goiters to absorb and pass away. Not only does this great healing anti-septic promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but carbuncles, boils, abscesses, ulcers and piles are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases also its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other skin eruptions and inflammation.

You can obtain Moore's Emerald Oil in the original bottle, at any modern drug store for 50 cents. It is safe to use, and failure of any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. Meyer's Drug Stores can supply you at any time.

ANTWERP NEWS.

Antwerp, O., July 13.—Mesdames Walter Stainfield and David Johnson gave an informal picnic party at the park Monday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Vesa Leasa and Mrs. Frank McCoy, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Etta Myers, of Shepherd, Mich., where was attended by quite a large number of their friends.

Those present were: Mrs. Walter Stainfield and daughter, Hazel, and her guest, Mrs. Etta Myers; Miss Dorothea Myers, of Coldwater, Mich.; Miss Rheba Seel and aunt, Miss Calla Long, of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Harris and daughters, Harriet and Ruth; Mrs. David Johnson and son, Alverdo; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson and son, Fordie; Frank Long, Mrs. C. A. Seely and daughter, Mrs. Vera Leasa and sister, Mrs. F. McCoy; Mrs. T. C. Banks, Mrs. Roy Seely and daughter, Anna Bell, and Mrs. Ray Stainfield, of Toledo.

Miss Anna Peffley, head saleswoman at the store of Graves and Doering, is home from a few days' vacation, spent at Bluffton, Ind., where she enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Chas. Vanhorn and family.

Miss Hazel and Dolly Stiner were two excited but impatient girls that were at the depot Tuesday, waiting for the train to come so they could go to Knokdale, where they will visit a few days, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Trombley, out at the farm home, near that place.

Mrs. Nolan Duval and daughter, Nola, of Pasadena, Cal., are visiting here, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Orley Duval and family, and other relatives. Tuesday they went to Cecil for a visit.

Mrs. D. W. Shepherd and wife, of Lebanon, O., who have been visiting here, the guests of their cousin, Will Shepherd, and Mrs. Joseph Carr and their families, departed for their home, Tuesday.

Charles Keeler, who has been at his home here recuperating from an operation for appendicitis, has recovered to the extent of going to Fort Wayne, Tuesday, to resume work for the Wayne box company.

F. T. Roger, of Garrett, Ind., who has been visiting in this vicinity, the guest of Wm. Smith and family, and other relatives, returned to his home, Tuesday.

Bryan Peil, of Fort Wayne, is spending a few days at this place, renewing friendships with old home folks.

Charles Durbin, a former Antwerp resident in years gone by, accompanied by his wife and her brother, Charles Aldridge, of Danville, Ill., stopped off here Tuesday, while enroute home from a visit at Detroit, Mich., for a few hours' visit with old friends.

Perry Camp, one of our north of the river folks, has the foundation nearly completed for a handsome cottage on North Main street, which he and his family will occupy when completed.

Leaking flues in the boiler of the big steam shovel, caused a lay-off Tuesday, and work on the Main street improvement has again been delayed. As soon as repairs are made the work will be resumed with renewed vigor.

B. A. Smith & Co. are building a new building to accommodate their increasing business.

Mrs. John Copp, of Fort Wayne, accompanied by her daughters, Bulah and Gwendolen, and son, Virgil, are spending the week at this place, the guests of her father, Elmer Cole, in the home of his sister, Mrs. Emily Applegate and family.

Phillip Murphy is erecting a large and commodious veranda at his home on North Main street.

SAYS MEXICANS ARE GROWING FRIENDLY

Gen. Pershing Reports on Change in Attitude Toward Americans.

Washington, July 13.—Gen. Pershing reported today that it was generally believed both by Mexicans and foreigners along the line of communication of his expedition that a crisis between the United States and Mexico had been averted and that this had brought about a new friendly relationship between the Americans and Mexicans.

"Mexicans in this vicinity and along this railroad," the dispatch said, "are reported very friendly toward Americans in the last few days. It is generally believed that trouble between the United States and Mexico had been settled. The rainy season is on in earnest, heavy rains being reported from the various stations along the line during the last few days. Will report within a day or two effect of rains upon roads and general prospects regarding road maintenance."

Customs collectors along the border have been instructed, upon request of the state department, to permit railroad rolling stock to enter Mexico by equitable exchange of cars. For every car permitted to enter Mexico, the order stipulates, a car from Mexico shall enter American territory. The collectors also are instructed not to interfere with shipments of food and clothing into Mexico. It is understood, however, that the present method of handling war munitions destined to points beyond the border, shall continue in force until further notice.

AMMONIA BLAST DEADLY

SEVEN KILLED IN BROOKLYN

Tank Explosion in Butcher
Shop Buries Helpless Victims in Ruins.

MORE THAN A SCORE
TAKEN TO HOSPITALS

Factory Collapse Takes Life
Toll But a Few Miles Distant.

New York, July 13.—Seven persons are reported to have been killed and a number of others injured when an ammonia tank in a Brooklyn butcher shop exploded today. The entire three story building in which the butcher shop was located, collapsed, burying the occupants beneath it.

Ambulances and firemen were rushed to the scene and the work of extricating the victims from the ruins of the building was begun. It was said that there were five employees and about that number of customers in the butcher shop when the explosion occurred. The top floor of the building was unoccupied. It has not been determined whether there was any one on the second floor. The butcher shop is owned by M. Schmidt, said to be among the missing.

The work of digging the bodies out of the ruins proceeded slowly. An hour after the explosion it was estimated that between 20 and 30 persons had been taken to hospitals, some of them fatally injured.

Crushed Under Tons of Debris.
So terrific was the blast that scarcely a brick in the building was left standing on another and the victims were crushed under tons of debris. A passing trolley car escaped the avalanche of bricks, but a dozen passengers aboard were injured, some by shock and others by flying glass and debris.

The known dead are Martin Schmidt, owner of the butcher shop; two clerks, the cashier, who was a woman and a delivery boy. A girl, whose father says was on her way to the store and who cannot be found, is believed to have perished.

The police fear that others, passengers, may have been buried under the falling walls which crashed down upon the sidewalk and street. Only a

NOTHING ADVERSE IN CANAL REPORT, CLAIM

T. E. Ellison Encouraged at
Hearing.

T. E. Ellison, who argued the necessity of building the Michigan and Erie canal before the rivers and harbors board at Washington, Tuesday, returned to Fort Wayne Wednesday in company with Frank B. Taylor and speaks encouragingly of progress made toward the ultimate success of the building project. "I can see nothing in the report of the second board of engineers to hurt the chances of getting favorable action on the canal," said Mr. Ellison.

Mr. Ellison has the co-operation of the Merchants Transportation company, the Produce Exchange and the board of commerce of New York in his effort to get favorable action from the rivers and harbors board. The final hearing before this board was set for November, in order that these concerns could present their briefs and arguments, Mr. Ellison said. "These concerns will all give affirmative aid."

Bowser Goes East.
As soon as S. F. Bowser returns from a trip east there will be a meeting of the local waterways committee, when a campaign will be started anew to get favorable action on the canal project before the rivers and harbors board. Mr. Bowser attended the hearing in Washington and from there proceeded to New York city on business. The canal project must go before the secretary of war and congress after it is acted on by the rivers and harbors board.

Mr. Ellison spent July 4 in New York city before going to Washington. He was impressed with the same July Fourth observance there. "I heard just one firecracker while there and on the night previous to July 4th, saw a street vendor accosted by an officer for manipulating a sparkler," Mr. Ellison said while in a barber shop he remarked to the barber of the same character of July 4, to which the barber replied that if Mayor Gaynor had been mayor of New York city a few years before he was, his boy would have probably been saved a July Fourth accident. Mayor Gaynor inaugurated the same July Fourth idea in New York city. According to Mr. Ellison, July 4th in New York city was spent in children's exercises in which myriads of children took part.

FIRST HEAVY RAIN FOR OVER TWO WEEKS

Downpour is Accompanied by Much Wind, Threatening Serious Damage.

A drouth that threatened to reach serious proportions and cause much suffering in Allen county was ended shortly after noon, Thursday, when this section was visited with a generous downpour of rain, accompanied by considerable wind, lightning and thunder. It was the first real rain that Fort Wayne has experienced since June 30. There was a trace of rain, however, on July 2, according to Forecaster Patrick McDonough, but it was only a trace and was scarcely visible to the naked eye.

Although the wind blew a terrific gale up to a late hour, no serious damage had been reported. A live wire was blown down at Montgomery and Lafayette streets. Fortunately, no one was on the street at the time and the damage was quickly repaired. A few telephones were put out of commission for the Home Telephone company. No trouble had been reported at the Bell Telephone office. Although the tents at the show withstood the wind, and except for reducing the size of the crowd, the afternoon performance was given as scheduled.

Reports received at the general offices of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company were to the effect that practically no rain fell west of Fort Wayne.

Until the downpour Thursday afternoon the atmosphere had simply been reeking with humidity. It's the humidity that makes it seem so hot—that takes the starch out of the shiny collars and gives a damp and limp appearance to the "billed" shirt front. Fort Wayne, however, has experienced

CLEVELAND MAN MAY GO TO SUPREME COURT

Washington, July 13.—John H. Clarke, United States district judge at Cleveland, O., was understood today to be the probable choice of President Wilson for the seat on the supreme court bench made vacant by the resignation of former Justice Hughes. White house officials said Judge Clarke was being carefully considered.

In addition to Judge Clarke, Judge J. T. Jenks, of the New York supreme court, and Morgan J. O'Brien, of New York, are said to be under consideration.

Another name on the list is that of Judge Victor K. Dowling, of the New York supreme court and it was learned today that he stands next to Judge Clarke.

SHRINE PATROLS IN COMPETITIVE DRILLS

Buffalo, N. Y., July 13.—The closing session of the Imperial council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, was held today, although the festivities of the forty-second annual meeting will not end until Saturday. The spectacular feature today was the competitive drills of Arab patrols from more than 150 temples.

RUSSIANS ARE GIVEN A CHECK

Beaten Back in Brilliant Encircling Counter Attack by Germans.

VERDUN ONCE MORE CLAIMS ATTENTION

Fighting There Now More Furious Than on the Somme Front.

Berlin, July 13.—(Via London, 4:55 p. m.)—German troops under command of Gen. Count von Bothmer by an encircling counter attack have driven back the Russian forces which had pushed forward in the region northwest of Buczacz, in Galicia, says the German official statement issued today. The Germans took 400 prisoners.

SEVENTH ONSLAUGHT MADE.

New Attack by Germans at Verdun is Raging Furiously.

London, July 13. (12:15 p. m.)—The recovery of the Russian armies since their defeats of last year and the apparently inexhaustible supplies of guns and ammunition with which they are provided continues to be a source of wonder to military writers. At least six great armies are engaged against the Austrians and Germans on Russia's western front. All of them are using great quantities of ammunition, even those not definitely on the offensive.

The forces under Grand Duke Nicholas in Armenia and Persia have been fighting vigorously against the Turks for months. A few weeks ago parts of these forces, particularly those west of Erzerum, were compelled to fall back in the face of a stronger Turkish army. Early this week the grand duke resumed the offensive in this region and recaptured Mamnakhatum, 50 miles west of Erzerum, so that the Turks have fallen back 25 miles from the furthest point reached in their counter offensive.

Meanwhile the armies directly south of the Pinsk marshes are fighting a pitched battle with the Austro-German forces of Gen. von Linsingen along the line of the Stokhod river. It probably will be some days before the direction is reached as the Teutons have brought up very strong reinforcements in the hope of retaining possession of Kovel, loss of which would necessitate a regrouping over a long stretch of front.

North of the Pinsk marshes the fighting at present is largely with artillery. In Galicia the Russian armies are reforming for continuation of the offensive.

In the west the renewed efforts of the German crown prince at Verdun temporarily are taking precedence. In the public mind over the battle of the Somme. The attack just delivered by the Germans before Verdun is the seventh onslaught with dense masses of troops since the operations began some five months ago. The Germans have made a slight gain but apparently this has not lessened the confidence of the French in their ability to hold fast. They still have three solid lines of defense which must be penetrated before the German objective can be gained.

The British are still engaged in clearing the Germans from fortified positions which must be taken before the general offensive can be renewed.

NO INFANTRY FIGHTING.

Paris, July 13.—There was no infantry fighting of importance last night on the Verdun front or over the portion of the Somme front held by the French, today's official report says. Intermittent artillery engagements occurred in the Somme sector. In the vicinity of Souville, Chenois and La Laufee, before Verdun, a heavy bombardment was maintained by the Germans.

In the Champagne the French penetrated a salient of the German front and took prisoners. Two German raids in the Argonne were stopped by the French fire.

THE LONDON REPORT.

London, July 13.—(3:32 p. m.)—Fighting continues at various points along the battle front in the region of the river Somme in France, but there has been no change in the situation on any part of the British line, says an official statement issued by the British war department this afternoon. Attempts of the Germans to raid trenches west of Wyszachete and south of La Bassee canal were frustrated.

INTEREST GROWING IN MEETINGS.

Rev. N. E. Harding, district superintendent and evangelist of the Nazarene church who is holding tent meetings on Calhoun street, gave an excellent sermon Wednesday night and all who heard him say that he is a forceful speaker and has plenty of wit to add the right spice to his talk. Tuesday night five professions were made and many in the audience were stirred as they listened to the sermon. The services will commence at 7:45 tonight and a large attendance is desired as the sermons should not be missed.

New Cases Increase But Deaths Fall Off

New York, July 13.—A slight decrease in the number of new cases and a marked increase in the number of deaths during the last twenty-four hours in the epidemic of infantile paralysis was shown in the daily bulletin issued by the department of health at noon today. During the twenty-four hours preceding 10 o'clock this morning twenty-four children died from the plague and there were 117 new cases in the greater city.

Since the beginning of the epidemic on June 20, 1,557 children have been stricken with the disease and there have been 311 deaths or a mortality rate of more than 20 per cent.

New York city health officers said today that they were doing their best to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis from this city to other communities. Residents of infected districts here have been warned that they will encounter stern quarantine measures if they leave the city. Out-of-town health authorities have been asked to report any persons arriving from infected areas in New York city. To enable other towns and cities to do this the local board of health is distributing broadcast lists of addresses where cases of the disease have been found here.

WILL ORGANIZE CLUB IN MILAN TOWNSHIP

Young Republicans to Form Organizations in the the District.

For the purpose of organizing a young men's republican club, a meeting will be held this evening at the Milan center school house in Milan township. Frank Poirson will act as chairman and short addresses will be delivered by well known speakers.

A similar meeting will be held Saturday evening at the Wallen school house with John Oswald and Frank Moore in charge. On next Wednesday evening a young men's republican club will be organized in Lafayette township at the Center school house. George Wellbaum will act as chairman.

The first young men's republican club was organized a few evenings ago at an enthusiastic meeting held in the open hall at New Haven. Officers were elected and plans discussed for the campaign. Arrangements are being made for the organizing of these clubs throughout the entire Twelfth congressional district by the various county captains named for that purpose at a recent meeting held in the Anthony hotel. The county captains are: Glenn N. Patterson, Randolphville; George O. Compton, Columbia City; W. P. Endicott, Butler; A. O. Butts, Garrett; Frank Richards, Lagrange, and Frank M. Hogan, Fort Wayne.

HE THREW $1,000 IN UNSIGNED BILLS AWAY

Denver, Col., July 13.—W. Edward Diez, 24, of Atlanta, Ga., known in Denver as Joseph C. Meyers, is in custody here today pending an investigation into the source of $1,000 worth of unsigned national bank notes, which the police say, he threw away as he was about to be apprehended. The bills, it is said, were identified by postoffice inspectors as part of a series amounting to $1,000,000 stolen from the mails in a train hold-up on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Central Station, Va., October 8, 1915.

Diez, who denies knowledge of the robbery, recently came from Hot Springs, Ark., and Kansas City, Mo., and resided here at the Y. M. C. A., where he was taken into custody last night.

WANTED DEATH CHAIR; GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Richmond, Ind., July 13.—Eli S. Carr, who shot and killed Patrolman Little and Stephenson last Friday, was today sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison at Michigan City by Judge H. C. Fox, of the Wayne circuit court. Will W. Keller, prosecuting attorney, asked that the death sentence be imposed on an indictment returned by the grand jury yesterday charging first degree murder. The prisoner, who pleaded guilty also, had requested the death penalty be inflicted, but Judge Fox said he knows of no precedent for sentencing a man to death on pleading guilty to murder. Carr was intoxicated at the time of the shooting.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

John Brothers, of Decatur, who was operated upon this week at St. Joseph's hospital, is improving as well as could be expected. Brothers was brought here Tuesday by Dr. H. E. Keller in the Scherer ambulance, leaving Decatur at 2 o'clock. By 4 o'clock the sick man was on the operating table.

Mr. Brothers had been ill for two weeks with what was thought to be appendicitis. At the hospital, however, the case was diagnosed as renal abscess, due to an obstructed and diseased kidney. An immediate operation was performed by Dr. Keller, of Decatur, and Dr. E. J. McQuar, of this city. More than a gallon of pus was removed from the right kidney, that came away in pieces, having broken down and sloughed away.

VICTIM OF FALL IS STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Lawrence Offerle May Not Survive Injuries of Fall from Tree.

Lawrence Offerle, 21, of 1151 Harmer street, has never regained consciousness since he fell fifteen feet and alighted on his head and shoulders when a limb of a maple tree on California avenue broke Wednesday evening at 5:30. He is being cared for in the Hope hospital, where slight hopes are held out for his recovery.

Offerle, an employe of the forestry department of the city park board, was trimming a large maple tree near 2015 California avenue, in the Lakeside park district. E. A. Nussliart, foreman, said he was standing near and witnessed the accident. He said the limb on which Offerle was standing broke and the young man fell to the sidewalk below, alighting on his head and shoulders.

Nussliart called for an ambulance and Offerle was rushed to the Hope hospital. His spine is injured and he has never regained consciousness. Dr. McQuar and Dr. H. O. Bruggeman performed an operation on the patient late Wednesday night, in which they removed several pieces of fractured skull, which, they claim, was bearing down on his brain, causing hemorrhage. They think there is little chance of Offerle's recovery.

Nussliart says the tree in which Offerle was working is a soft maple, which is forbidden by the park board. Park board members say they will not allow the planting of any more soft wood trees, although they have no authority to have the ones now growing cut down.

FINAL SCENES IN ORPET TRIAL NEAR

Waukegan, Ill., July 13.—The final scenes in the trial of William H. Orpet, former University of Wisconsin student charged with the murder of Marion Lambert in Helm's woods last February, began to materialize today with the assurance that in all probability the end of the case would be reached by Saturday night. At least, it was believed the jury would begin its deliberations by that time. Ralph F. Potter, counsel for Orpet, concluded his address to the jury during the forenoon. James H. Wilkerson, chief counsel for the defense, and David R. Joslyn, special prosecutor assisting the state, will then be heard from. It is expected that Mr. Wilkerson will begin speaking some time this afternoon and that he will finish by noon tomorrow. Mr. Joslyn is to close the case some time Saturday.

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW STORE BUILDING

Hilgeman & Schaaf, local real estate dealers, have closed a contract with the City & Suburban Realty company for the erection of two new houses and two store buildings at Rudisill and Calhoun streets at a total cost of $12,000. Both houses and store buildings are for rental purposes.

According to local real estate men, Fort Wayne's greatest need at the present time is new houses for rental purposes. The General Electric company will soon bring hundreds of new families to the city and it is very imperative that there are a sufficient number of houses in which to take care of them. Houses will have to be built for rental purposes as a matter of necessity if Fort Wayne is to take proper care of its rapidly growing population.

UNAVOIDABLE, SAYS CORONER

Dr. F. J. Schulz Held Blameless for Death of Mrs.
Elizabeth Craig.

AUTO ACCIDENT HAS A FATAL OUTCOME

Wednesday Evening Brings a Startling List of Casualties.

As the result of injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by Dr. Fred J. Schulz, 1421 Broadway, Mrs. Elizabeth Craig, 60 years old, died at St. Joseph hospital, Wednesday night at 10 o'clock, just an hour after the accident had occurred.

No blame will be attached to Dr. Schulz according to a careful investigation that was made Wednesday night and Thursday morning by Coroner J. E. McArthur. The coroner will find that Mrs. Craig came to her death from injuries received in an unavoidable accident.

Mrs. Craig, who lives five miles north of Fort Wayne in St. Joseph township, was about a mile from her home on the St. Joe road in search of some turkeys that had strayed from her farm. Dr. Schulz was driving north toward Robinson park and as he neared the woman, whom he did not see, however, a Ford machine coming from the opposite direction approached him. Dimming his lights he turned to one side of the road to let the Ford pass and as he did so ran directly into the woman. Turning into the ditch was the only thing that prevented him from running over Mrs. Craig.

When he brought his car to a stop he did not know what he had hit, but, upon returning found the aged woman unconscious at the side of the road. He picked her up, placed her in his automobile and rushed her to the St. Joseph hospital with all possible haste. At the hospital it was found that her pelvic bones had been fractured, besides in-

O'GORMAN SEEKS TO HAVE 2 REINSTATED

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson was urged by Senator O'Gorman today to order the reinstatement of Col. Louis D. Conley and Lieut. Col. John J. Phelan, of the Sixty-ninth infantry, ordered mustered out by Major General Wood for physical disability.

Senator O'Gorman told the president the doctors who examined Col. Conley differed on his condition and that because of the doubt he believed the president would be justified in ordering Col. Conley's reinstatement. The senator said apparently there was more justification for the mustering out of Lieut. Col. Phelan, but he also urged his reinstatement.

Senator O'Gorman later expressed confidence that Col. Conley and possibly Lieut. Col. Phelan would be reinstated. An investigation of the cases already has been ordered by Secretary Baker.

35 BANDS FURNISH MUSIC FOR PARADE

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—The big event of the grand lodge reunion of Elks was the street parade today, in which many thousands of members of the order from all over the United States marched to the music of 35 bands. Grand Esquire Robert J. Lawler, of Niagara Falls, was the chief marshal. Floats and spectacular designs abounded in the demonstration. Final sessions of the grand lodge will be held this afternoon, after which there will be a band contest and Elks drill teams will engage in competition.

SENATE TAKES UP NAVAL BATTLE

Will Cling to Task Until the Final Vote is Taken.

BIGGER PROGRAM THAN HOUSE BILL.

Latter Body Turns Attention to Water Power Lease Measure.

Washington, July 13.—The naval appropriation bill was taken up for the final vote today. The measure as reported by the naval committee substitutes eight capital ships the coming year for the house's five and specifies completion of the naval general board's five-year building program within three years.

As it passed the house the bill provides for five battle cruisers and no battleships and contains no provision for a building policy extending into the future. A program of four battleships and four battle cruisers for the coming year and completion of the five-year program of sixteen capital ships two years earlier than intended committee after conference with Secretary Daniels, who voiced the president's desire for construction be speeded as much as possible.

The Three-Year Program.

The three-year program calls for an expenditure of $888,380,476, of which $315,830,843 is appropriated for 1917. New construction in 1917 would cost $110,720,000. The house bill called for a total expenditure of $860,000,000 in 1917. The general board's program provides for this construction:

- Ten dreadnaughts (four this year).
- Six battle cruisers (four this year).
- Ten scout cruisers (four this year).
- Five fleet submarines (none this year).
- Fifty destroyers (ten this year).
- Fifty-eight coast submarines (twenty-seven this year).
- Three oil fuel ships (one this year).
- One repair ship, one hospital ship, one transport.
- Two destroyer tenders (one this year).
- One fleet submarine tender.
- Two ammunition ships (one this year).

The house bill would bring the total enlisted strength of the navy up to 65,000, but the senate committee inserted a provision to provide for a peace strength of 74,700 and to give the president power to recruit the navy's full strength to 87,000 in an emergency.

Water Power Bill in House.

The house today took up the water power leasing bill with the intention of completing its consideration in time to take up and complete also, if possible, before adjournment the Rucker corrupt practices bill. An agreement has been reached to vote on both measures Friday.

The water power bill has passed the senate. The Rucker bill in many respects is similar to the Owen bill pending in the senate. Both measures propose to restrict aggregate expenditures of candidates for the United States senate to $5,000 each and for the house to half that amount. They prescribe that a presidential and a vice-presidential candidate shall expend not more than $50,000 and $25,000.

SHOWS WAGE RAISES IN MANY INDUSTRIES

Washington, July 13.—Many of the country's leading manufacturing industries have made substantial increases in their wage scales within the last year. An inquiry completed today by the department of labor shows the iron and steel industry made the biggest increase. Most steel plants raised wages last May, and for many this was the second raise within a year. Total increases amounted to from 5 to 30 per cent. In the boot and shoe industries increases were not general although many individual factories raised wages. Northern cotton manufacturers generally increased the pay of their men. Silk and woolen establishments made raises, but hosiery manufacturing concerns made few. There were no increases in the ready-made clothing industry and none in cigar manufacturing.

YEP, REAL OLD-TIME CIRCUS IS WITH US

Sells-Floto Shows Give a Splendid Parade in Fort Wayne.

Scries of the cellophane and the cries of approval from boys and girls, as the cages of animals, band wagons of gayly dressed women and men, large herds of elephants and numerous clowns made the passing of the Sells-Floto circus through the streets of Fort Wayne Thursday one of the biggest successes of the season. Thousands gathered around the show grounds on the old golf grounds in order to get the first glimpse of the parade as it left the lot.

The Sells-Floto circus, with its forty-two carloads of equipment, arrived in the city and before dawn broke the large "canvases" had been erected and all provisions made for accommodating large audiences.

Large crowds gathered around the cars as they were unloaded, in an attempt to get a final glimpse of the animals. The people who invaded the grounds, however, were well paid for their visit, as they were given an opportunity of seeing one of the largest "big tops" in the world raised by motive power.

This afternoon at 2:15 o'clock saw the opening of the tapmark, sawdust and spangles season in Fort Wayne. This show starts off with an entirely new spectacle, "America." America, the greatest nation of all the great world, portrayed in spectacle form as the wondrous possessions of the Sells-Floto circus, "Champion Shows of the World," trail their way in stately procession around the hippodrome track. The costumes and all properties are entirely new, and the resources of the circus in horses, elephants, camels, etc., are drawn upon to the fullest extent.

After the spectacle will come the purely circus features, and for a matter of over two hours the three rings, two stages and track will be scenes of kaleidoscopic activity.

There will be Jess Willard, champion pugilist of the world, who will make his appearance galloping at the head of the Buffalo Bill cowboys. Incidentally he will give an exhibit with his sparring partner, illustrating just how he won the championship. Then there will be Frank Gotch, wrestling champion of the world, who will demonstrate how he has conquered all contestants.

Rosa Rosalind, champion somersault equestrian of the world—she is the only woman to master the feat of somersaulting from horse to horse. Zora, the champion woman elephant trainer, who appears at every performance with her thirty tons of elephants.

The manager will be found to be most interesting, and among the new features here will be found "Toyland," where surrounded by the beloved figures of the Mother Goose rhyme, the babies of the circus await the acquaintance of the babies of humanity.

Babies of the animal kingdom in its every branch are there, from baby king goats from France to the baby lions of Africa and the baby elephants of India, all will be as glad to see the children as the children will be to see them.

The Sells-Floto people did not put their elephants in the parade this morning. When they were advised that an indemnifying bond of $10,000 was required by the city to guard against accidents in the event the animals were used in the parade, they decided to omit this portion of the cavalcade here.

ARMED MEN SEEKING MAN-EATING SHARK

Hundreds Hunt Sea Monster Which Killed Bathers Off New Jersey Coast.

Matteawan, N. J., July 13.—The hundreds of armed men in row boats and launches were hunting today for the man eating shark that yesterday killed a boy and a man and dangerously injured another youth in Matteawan creek and caused a reign of terror along the New Jersey coast.

The scare that has been felt along the New Jersey shore, mainly in summer resorts, since the first shark raid on bathers, has been virtually suspended all day. The shark, to get there from the Atlantic ocean had to round Sandy Hook, cross through the lower bay into Raritan bay at the southern end of Staten Island.

Matteawan creek is a tidewater stream about 50 feet wide and from 8 to 15 feet deep. It empties into Raritan bay. The mouth of the creek is at Keyport. The shark, to get there from the Atlantic ocean had to round Sandy Hook, cross through the lower bay into Raritan bay at the southern end of Staten Island.

The first person who saw the nine-foot shark yesterday was Captain Cottrell, as R. Cottrell, of Keyport, as he started up the creek about noon. Fifty or more persons were bathing. Captain Cottrell says, and he warned them. About the same time a number of men on a drawbridge saw the shark glide by. Captain Cottrell hurried up the creek in his motor boat to warn bathers, most of whom left the waters immediately. Others ignored the warning because they did not believe an attack by a shark probable sixteen miles from the open sea.

Four persons now have been killed by a man-eating shark and two maimed along the New Jersey coast during the last ten days.

FEARS PLAGUE WILL GROW MORE SERIOUS

August and September Are Worst for Epidemic, He Declares.

Watertown, N. Y., July 13.—Dr. H. L. Shaw, head of the division of child hygiene, New York state health department, said today he feared that the epidemic of infantile paralysis in New York state would grow more serious.

"It does not wish to be an alarmist," said Dr. Shaw, "but in all past epidemics the disease has become more virulent as the summer progresses. August and September are the worst months, the high mark being reached in September usually."

Dr. Shaw spoke at a meeting of the Jefferson County Medical society at Alexandria Bay. In his address he stated that Dr. Simon Flexner, of New York, is the man who has isolated the germ of infantile paralysis, and told how he, with other physicians, had seen the germ under a microscope a week ago.

The speaker said that the disease could not be traced to a milk supply but that the only point of entry was the nose, and that it could not come through the mouth or through the veins. Flies might be carriers as well as human beings, he said. He added that if a cordon was drawn around New York for two weeks and every child was refused exit that the epidemic could be stopped, "but there would be civil war if we did such a thing," he declared. The most serious aspect of the disease, Dr. Shaw pointed out, was that no one can diagnose it until paralysis comes, saying: "I defy anyone to diagnose it accurately before that stage."

TWO GO DOWN TO DEATH IN MAUMEE

Sugar Beet Workers, Unable to Swim, Are Drowned Near Woodburn.

Leaving a sugar beet field, where they were working on a farm, three miles east of Woodburn, near the Emmet-Jackson farm, to go in bathing in the Maumee river, two foreigners, George Hahrbok, 20, and Richard Van Belegum, 25, both of Detroit, were drowned about 6 o'clock Wednesday night. It was an hour until the bodies were recovered, then being taken to the funeral parlors of Getz & Cahill to await word from relatives.

Inexperienced as swimmers the men, it is thought, met their death. Laborers near by observed the disappearance of the two men and sounded a call for help. Sheriff Gladioux was notified and with two deputies and grappling hooks they went to the scene, their labors consuming an hour before the bodies were raised. Parents of the boys are said to live in Detroit. They had taken work, with other foreigners, near Woodburn, hoeing sugar beets.

An inquest over the bodies of the drowned men will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the office of J. E. McCardle, coroner. Witnesses to the deaths will testify following summons, and among these will be Harley Worley, who helped take the men from the water. Two fellow workers, who saw the men go down, will also testify. Both men shouted as they went down but were seen but the one time until taken out dead. They drowned in seven feet of water.

TOWNSHIPS WILL GET THE TUITION MONIES

Office of Auditor Compiles Schedule for Distribution Next Saturday.

Distribution of the tuition funds to the township trustees based on a table prepared by Jay Brown, deputy county auditor, will be made to the trustees Saturday. There is a total distribution in the city and county of $80,352.50, which will be made, and of that amount Fort Wayne receives $61,425.54.

The distribution is proportionate to the number of pupils of school age in the township, and excepting the city of Fort Wayne, Adams township with a total of 884 pupils, will receive the largest proportionate share of the distribution, it being $2,855.31. Washington and Wayne townships, with respective school attendance of 641 and 752 pupils, will receive in their order, the amounts of $2,970.45, and $4,248.98.

In Grubb and Scipio townships, in which there are 70 and 101 pupils, each of school age, the tuition fund will aggregate respectively $220.10 and $320.23. The following sums will be distributed to the other townships: Abate, $1,094.97; Cedar Creek, $1,297.54; Eel River, $1,133.74; Jackson, $1,082.06; Jefferson, $1,443.82; Lafayette, $1,166.01; Lake, $1,111.12; Madison, $1,317.85; Marion, $1,106.04; Maumee, $1,514.85; Milan, $1,353.38; Monroe, $1,715.14; Perry, $1,182.10; Pleasant, $1,398.00; Springfield, $1,472.89; St. Joseph, $1,306.58.

There are a total of 27,982 pupils in Allen county on which the distribution is made to the township trustees by the office of the county auditor. The city of Fort Wayne, according to the compilation, has 19,018 pupils of school age.

MEXICAN SOLDIERS SURROUND CHICAGO

Such is Information Given in Mexican Newspaper Received Here.

Captain John C. Scheffer, of Battery D, which is now organizing, is in receipt of a Mexican paper sent to him by a friend who is with Pershing's army, telling of the triumphant invasion of the Mexican army through the United States.

The paper declares that the American army is being defeated at every turn and that in a recent series of battles, between 150,000 and 200,000 American soldiers were taken prisoner and that 100,000 were killed and wounded.

According to the Mexican paper the Mexican army has surrounded Chicago and it is only a question of a few days that Chicago will surrender, as hundreds are dying of starvation. Other large American cities have been taken, the paper says.

A total of seventy men have been murdered into the new battery and others are being given the oath every evening. Five more were added to the list Wednesday evening. As soon as 133 men have received their oath, the adjutant general will be notified.

Captain Scheffer is thinking seriously of opening a recruiting station on Calhoun street. He is desirous of securing a room on the first floor.

NEUTRALS HARD HIT BY HIGH FOOD PRICE

See War's Effect Almost as Strongly as Do the Belligerents.

Washington, July 13.—War's increase of food prices in Europe as shown today by the bureau of labor statistics, has touched neutrals almost as heavily as it has the belligerents. The Tonic countries have felt the pinch more than have the allies.

The bureau's statistics give the biggest food price advances in Austria, where meats are more than 500 per cent. higher than before the outbreak of hostilities. Beef that in February, 1914, sold for 6.3 cents a pound, now brings 38.7 cents. Meat prices in Berlin show increases ranging from 45 to 160 per cent.

The British public is paying on an average 55 per cent. more for its food than it did two years ago. The greatest increase, 182 per cent., has been in sugar, the lowest, 17 per cent., in oil-margarine. In France prices are 23 per cent. above the pre-war average; in Italy around 30 per cent.

Price increases in the neutral countries are shown to be highest in Norway, where 29 necessities are sold at an average of 63 per cent. more than in 1914. Copenhagen workmen pay 44 per cent. more for table articles than two years ago; in Sweden prices are 21 per cent. higher; in Switzerland, the range is from 3 per cent. to 175.

A statement issued yesterday by the bureau said the war had little effect on food prices in this country.

BUILDING GOES DOWN IN STORM

Buffalo, N. Y., July 13.—Three men were killed, six men seriously injured and several were reported missing as the result of the collapse today of one of the main buildings at the plant of the Smet Solvay company, on the Niagara river road, two miles from the Buffalo city line.

The building went down just after a storm broke over the river and it was said by some of the workmen that lightning struck a tall chimney, causing it to collapse. The men killed had taken refuge from the storm in a small frame building which was buried under tons of bricks and other debris.

About 100 men were at work in the plant when the collapse came. Ambulances from all the hospitals in the city were rushed to the scene and firemen were present to help workmen clear away the debris in search of missing men.

FOUR KILLED; THREE HURT

Haskell, N. J., July 13.—Four workmen are reported to have been killed and three injured in an explosion which wrecked one of the mills of the DuPont smokeless powder plant, near here. Buildings several miles away were shaken by the concussion and windows and crockery broken. Telephone communication with places near the plant ceased after the explosion.

numerable bruises. She never regained consciousness.

Dr. Schulz, who was alone, says he could not have been going any faster than twelve miles an hour, for he had dimmed his lights and was turning out to the side of the road to permit the Ford automobile to pass when the accident occurred. It is believed that Mrs. Craig was walking northward with her back toward Dr. Schulz's car. There were no witnesses except Dr. Schulz. Those in the Ford machine evidently did not know what had happened and continued down the road without stopping.

After the woman had passed away the body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Chaffant & Egley, where an autopsy was held. Mrs. Craig is survived by three sons—Nelson and Joseph, who reside at home, and John, of Syracuse, N. Y.

TWO AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE.

As the result of a collision between two automobiles about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, Raymond Staples and mother, of Columbia City, and E. J. Hall, of Gilman, Ill., and Andrew Gard, a colored occupant of the Staples car, were thrown into a ditch. Mrs. Staples, who was thought to be seriously hurt, was brought to St. Joseph hospital, where it was found that she was suffering with only a few minor cuts on the head and face and body bruises. Andrew Gard, colored, was brought to the hospital in the police ambulance. He suffered a badly bruised leg.

Staples was driving a Buick and Hall a Ford. It is claimed that Hall drove his car directly into the side of Staples' car, overturning it into the ditch. Both machines were badly damaged. The accident occurred at a fork in the road, both cars attempting to make the main road at the same time. The injured left the hospital soon after having their wounds dressed. Those who made the run in the police ambulance were Officers Fry, Bauck and Young.

More Collisions.

H. A. Meyer ran his car into the rear of the machine of A. H. Holmes, 2507 Little street, Wednesday, when the latter suddenly stopped while going west on Creighton avenue at South Wayne street. The headlights on the Meyer car were broken, but no other damage was done.

The automobile of Helme Hemmels, 830 East Wayne street, was struck by a street car on Clinton street, between Berry and Main, Wednesday afternoon. No serious damage was done.

A driver on Berghoff brewery motor truck narrowly escaped serious injuries Wednesday night in attempting to go around the curve in the 1500 block, Spy Run avenue, at a terrific rate of speed. It is believed that the driver in attempting to shut off the car pushed the brake by mistake, causing it to turn completely around, but fortunately did not turn over. Several beer bottles were scattered over the street. Before the driver left, however, he picked up the broken glass and took it with him.

THREE ARE HURT.

Three persons were seriously injured Wednesday night about 10 o'clock when an automobile driven by August Reamer, 1231 High street, crashed into the motorcycle ridden by Adam Baumgartner, 2217 Fochey avenue, on the Lincoln highway near the end of Stancie avenue. Reamer and his wife and Baumgartner all three were seriously injured and are now in Hope hospital.

Reamer's injuries are perhaps the worst, consisting of severe cuts in the head and body bruises. He had not entirely regained consciousness Thursday morning. Mrs. Reamer was treated about the face and shoulders and the Baummany summer days when the temperature was several degrees higher.

Three fire departments were called to the alley between Lafayette and Montgomery streets at 1:30 when a high tension wire fell to the ground. People living in the neighborhood heard the crash as the wire broke. Bright flashes went up along the line of the fallen wire. Citizens thought buildings might catch fire. The fire alarm was turned in.

Firemen and workmen from the electric light plant found a crowd of people standing in the drenching rain watching the sizzling wire when they arrived. Firemen could do nothing but keep the curious crowd back. Linemen went to the fuse box on the corner of Montgomery street and burned out the fuse. All trouble ceased. The life of the fallen wire was gone.

Catch basins on the street corners were choked by the flow of water, which is considered the heaviest in the past year for such a brief shower. Water stood six inches deep in some of the cross streets. Automobiles threw a cloud of water and spray as they dashed past.

Street signs were blown by the southeasterly wind. Limbs were torn from trees. The sewer at the corner of Lafayette and Montgomery streets was flooded and water ran into several cellars.

Many automobiles left standing along the streets were water soaked before their owners could reach them to put up the tops, so sudden came the sheets of rain.

construct merchant submarines. Henry C. Hilken, of the Eastern Forwarding company, the local agency for the Deutschland, admitted that the project is under serious consideration.

"The line, if the plan succeeds," Mr. Hilken said, "will consist of American built ships, manned by American sailors and flying the American flag. It will ply between Baltimore and Bremen. The promoters of the enterprise," Mr. Hilken said, "consisted, for the present, of himself, his son, Paul H. L. Hilken, and Simon Lake, submarine inventor. The vessels, if the line materializes, will have a tonnage of 5,000 and will be five times as large as the Deutschland," Mr. Hilken added. "They will be used entirely for commercial purposes."

SOME GERMAN COMMENT.

Amsterdam, July 1.—(Via London.)—Discussing the voyage of the German submarine Deutschland to America, the Tage Zeitung of Berlin says:

"We Germans should not hope for too much from the voyage of the Deutschland to America. That the vessel would be able to force the blockade was to be expected; furthermore Great Britain will not be able to do much against such transport service in the future. But it is too much to expect that the British blockade of Germany will be ended by this means."

"We expect the arrival of the Deutschland and other vessels of similar construction will cause a great sensation in America and produce also sorts of laudatory newspaper articles, but Germany will not be justified on that account in drawing the conclusion that this will change America's attitude toward this country. An American remains what he is no matter how he expresses himself."

THINKS CAPTAIN BROTHER.

New York, July 13.—In the belief that Captain Paul Konig, of the German submarine Deutschland, which crossed the Atlantic with cargo, is his brother George Konig, a hotel proprietor of this city announced today that he would go to Baltimore to inspect the submarine and invite the captain to this city to be entertained by representatives of numerous societies of German Americans. George Konig said he had not seen his brother since twenty years ago when the New York man left Hamburg, Germany, to seek his fortune in the United States. He had no knowledge that his brother was in command of the submarine until he read the newspaper accounts of the arrival of the Deutschland. Five thousand members of German societies are preparing to welcome Captain Konig if he is induced to come here.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

Isaiah 44:5-15.

6. Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his Redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and besides me there is no God.

7. And who, as I, shall call, and shall declare it, and set it in order for me, since I appointed the ancient people? and the things that are coming, and shall come, let them shew unto them.

8. Fear ye not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee from that time, and have declared it? ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God besides me? yea, there is no God; I know not any.

9. They that make a graven image are all of them vanity; and their delectable things shall not profit; and they are their own witnesses; they see not, nor know; that they may be ashamed.

10. Who hath formed a god, or molten a graven image that is profitable for nothing?

11. Behold, all his fellows shall be ashamed; and the workmen, they are of men: let them all be gathered together, let them stand up; yet they shall fear, and they shall be ashamed together.

12. The smith with the tongs both worketh in the coals, and fashioneth it with the strength of his arms; ye, he is hungry, and his strength faileth: he drinketh no water, and is faint.

13. The carpenter stretcheth out his rule; he marketh it out with a line; he fitteth it with planes, and he marketh it out with the compass, and maketh it after the figure of a man, according to the beauty of a man; that it may remain in the house.

14. He heweth him down cedars, and taketh the cypress and the oak, which he strengtheneth for himself among the trees of the forest: he planteth an ash, and the rain doth nourish it.

15. Then shall it be for a man to burn: for he will take thereof, and warm himself; yea, he kindleth it, and baketh bread; yea, he maketh a god, and worshippeth it; he maketh it a graven image, and falleth down thereto.

What the Auto Clubs Are Doing.

That the automobile clubs which are springing up in every section of Indiana are finding avenues of distinct usefulness is evident from a survey of their activities given out by M. E. Noblet, of Indianapolis, secretary of the Hoosier State Automobile association, the parent organization with which most of the Indiana clubs are affiliated. From an organization originally designed primarily for self-protection, the automobile club has evolved into a civic unit that is doing much to help the general public as well as itself.

Among other things being agitated by the association is the necessity for better roads, uniform traffic regulations, curbing of reckless drivers, posting of road markers, improvement or elimination of some grade crossings, a state dinner law and the more severe punishment of automobile thieves. All of these needs and many others, Mr. Noblet says, are causing motorists to unite into clubs. He says that there are at present more than fifty clubs in twelve counties of the state. Here in Fort Wayne the organization of automobile owners recently addressed itself to aiding the city authorities in devising new traffic regulations, and its suggestions are now being given a trial. In many places the auto men are bending their effort toward securing better highway conditions, more road signs and to making safer the steadily increasing automobile traffic. Most important of all, perhaps, is the demonstration of the fact that the average auto owner is not careless, is not a speed fiend, and that he is considerate of the rights of others. It is the exception and not the rule among auto owners today against whom legitimate complaint can be made.

Some one hundred and fifty lawsuits have just been filed at Noblesville by depositors who lost money in the defunct bank at Cicero in sums ranging from $10 to $5,000, in which they name former and present officials of the state banking department as co-defendants. There is set up the charge of conspiracy, it being alleged that false statements as to the solvency of the concern were permitted to be issued. Denial of the charges has already been filed by the state banking department officials, and there seems little disposition in that quarter to take the charges seriously. The filing of the suits was forecasted some time ago. That something rotten existed in the conduct of the Cicero concern has been made evident enough in the developments following the blow-up, but if the unfortunate losers seriously expect to involve the state banking department on any such basis as they have indicated, we very much fear they are leaning on a mighty slender reed.

The report of District Attorney Slack shows that there has been but one acquittal in a criminal case in the federal court at Indianapolis during the past two years, which seems to demonstrate that when the federal authorities prefer a charge they are equipped with the evidence to substantiate it—a condition that is not always to be found in state court matters. The mills of Uncle Sam's courts grind exceedingly fine—and not so slowly, either. The result is a wholesome respect for the federal legal machinery that must inevitably have a powerful restraining influence upon those who are tempted to transgress the federal laws. Very few of them are able to get away with it.

It is gratifying to know that the Woman's League will take steps to bring to Fort Wayne for a week during the fall season the New York city planning exhibit. The exhibit is designed to illustrate in an easily-comprehensible form some possibilities of city development when it is undertaken in systematic and intelligent fashion. Fort Wayne, at the beginning of the era of her greatest development, has much need of this sort of thing, and, moreover, is anxious to learn how she may make the very best of her opportunity. The Woman's League will perform a distinct service to the city in making it possible for us to see the city planning exhibit.

Bainbridge Colby has called a conference of progressives to consider "the widespread and bitter revolt within the party" against the recent action of the national committee in endorsing Mr. Hughes, an action which he declared "does not represent the thought or feeling of the rank and file of the party." Strange to say, also, this comes directly following the declaration of republican leaders that there isn't enough rank and file of the progressives left to have either thought or feeling. Somebody's made a most distressing error in the formulation of the coroner's report on that political tragedy at Chicago.

Nine Indiana congressmen registered their opposition to the so-called "pork" rivers and harbors measure as it came back in the form of a conference report carrying the additional $5,000,000 tacked on by the senate. In the list opposing the larger expenditure were Messrs. Adair, Cox, Cullpo, Moss, Gray, Moores, Morrison, Rauch and Cline. Barnhart was absent, and Lieb, Dixon and Wood voted in support of the conference report.

Virginia is proud of the fact that she is known among the great galaxy of states as the "Mother of Presidents," a title that she will in all probability lose eventually. But it is going to be a long time before any city or state wrests from Indianapolis and Indiana the distinction of being the home of vice presidential candidates.

Occasionally Hoosierdom also provides a candidate for the presidency, but vice presidents are her long suit and the campaigns in which she has no such candidate are few. The tendency now seems to be toward making good any former oversight in this line by giving us two candidates as heirs apparent to the presidency and regardless of the outcome of the election this year the office will be filled by a resident of Indiana.

Since the war Indiana's vice presidential nominees have been Schuyler A. Coffey, in 1888; Thomas A. Hendricks, in 1896; William H. English, in 1898; Thomas A. Hendricks, in 1904; Charles W. Fairbanks, in 1904; John W. Kern, in 1908; Thomas R. Marshall, in 1912; Charles A. Fairbanks and Thomas R. Marshall, in 1916. And all of these candidates at the time of their nomination, except Coffey, were residents of Indianapolis.

To Messrs. Hendricks, Fairbanks and Marshall has come the distinction of being chosen the second time for such honors, a record unequalled by any other state. With normal political conditions prevailing Indiana is classed as a doubtful state and the importance of her support is recognized by the leading parties when it comes to making up the ticket. If the vote in the state were larger the presidential nomination would come here more frequently. We never lack for men of presidential ability, but expediency compels the two dominant parties to choose elsewhere.

But this record is sufficient incentive to every Hoosier youth who aspires to political preferment. Nowhere else are the opportunities so great in spite of the fact that practically every citizen who does not devote all of his energy to literature dabbles in politics. Some combine the two and derive therefrom additional satisfaction.

NEW GOOD ROADS PRESIDENT.

Indianapolis, July 13.—Robert T. Hughes, a young lawyer here, has been elected president of the Indiana Good Roads association, to succeed Clarence A. Kenyon. Mr. Kenyon has moved from the state. The state's association is the Indiana branch of the National Highway association.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Dr. W. H. Myers is at Chicago. The police are making a merciless and relentless war on dogs.

James Madden, the plumber, went to Van Wert on business last evening.

Fred Eckart is able to be out again after a severe attack of rheumatism.

The new brick residence of Henry Moellering, on East Lewis street, is nearing completion.

The residents of that part of the city lying south of Creighton avenue, want natural gas.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruse, of 161 Montgomery street, were the guests of friends in the country Sunday.

W. P. Cooper has taken a position with the S. C. Lombard insurance agency. He was formerly in the employ of this firm.

Attorney C. H. Worden will leave for New Albany and Louisville this evening in the interest of the Fort Wayne Electric company.

Henry Freeman, of the First National bank, has received a photograph of his handsome new summer cottage at Mackinac island.

John Kennick, the produce buyer, is ill at his home, 26 Murray street, from the effects of injuries he received several weeks ago.

The cool wave this morning brought comfort with it. The thermometer registered ninety in the shade yesterday afternoon.

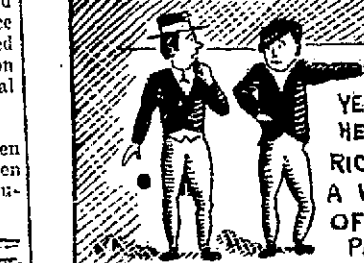

At 12:30 o'clock last night the barn in the rear of the residence of H. F. Horn, 482 South Hanna street, was almost totally destroyed by fire.

Mrs. J. B. Barnes leaves today for Mt. Clemens to seek relief from rheumatism. She will be accompanied by her son, Dr. W. W. Shryock, who will return in a few days.

The water supply of the city comes from thirty wells, averaging a depth of fifty feet each. Consumers who have been wasting water are being found out as fast as possible.

SAVE THE PAPER.

Save the paper napkins when you picnic in the grove! Soon your old waste paper can will be a treasure trove. Paper prices going up, forests coming down; Soon a tissue paper cap will be a costly crown. Save the daily paper too, call the paper man; Put a combination lock upon the garbage can! Save the paper dollar bills, now and then a five; You'll be glad you did it yet, sure as you're alive! Rent a safe deposit box, daily stuff therein All the paper you can find, long and green and thin. Rent a room some afternoon in a big hotel; Tear the paper off the walls, pack and guard it well. Take it to the banker man, store it in the vault. Then if you're not rich some day yours is not the fault. Paper soon will be too dear to waste on silly rhyme, So I'm saving postage stamps against that sorry time.

GOOD ROADS WORK IN THE PHILIPPINES

Progress in Improvement is Over 300 Per Cent in Past Five Years.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.) Manila, June 12.—The Philippines now boast of 8,201.6 kilometers of roads being used for traffic, an increase of more than 300 per cent, in the past five years. The credit for this is shared by the administrations of Governor General Harrison and former Governor General Forbes, the latter having initiated an active campaign of road-building which his successor pushed so successfully that last year saw the construction of a greater road mileage than any year in Philippine history.

There are more than 3,000 kilometers of first-class roads in the islands, and it is road of a quality of which any state in the United States might be proud. There are some provinces in which the heaviest of automobile trucks can travel from one end to the other in the hardest of storms without suffering the slightest inconvenience because of mud or washed out highways. In most provinces during the dry season it is possible to travel anywhere in a light motor car.

Last year saw the expenditure of nearly $5,000,000 in road work and the program for this year is almost as ambitious. The effect of this road-building has been a big increase in inter-provincial trade and a remarkable growth in the automobile business. Practically every dealer in use, has been handicapped by the fact that he cannot get cars fast enough. It is no uncommon thing to find a shipment of the more popular cars sold out before its date of arrival.

LADIG IS ACCEPTED.

Ralph G. Ladig, of Fort Wayne, who failed to pass medical examination for the army at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, and on whose return to the navy recruiting station in Fort Wayne passed the test of Officer Flinn and was sent to Indianapolis to be finally examined, informed his Fort Wayne friends that he passed the Indianapolis test, and that recruiting officers there assert they would like to look over some more fellows of his kind.

AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL?

Unnatural History, by Eugene Ahern.

THE DRONE.

All right, George, let's have the full spotlight on the drone, a first cousin to the owl, or "wise guy," who was in this outbreak of literature some time ago.

Ah! that's better, we can see it pretty well now through the clouds of stale cigarette smoke.

Go ahead, Horatio, impart to us the naked truth about the drone—Fritz, please render that fitting selection, "Please Go 'Way an' Let Me Snore" for this number.

Well, here goes. The drone's mother comes into his room about ten in the a. m. and says, "Luke, oh Luke, come on now, get up. I have your breakfast ready for you, and I'll give you some car fare and lunch money for you to go up town and see if you can't get a job." The drone gets up in a hurry when he hears the word money. After breakfast he takes the money and goes uptown. Is he really going after a job, Othello? So a silly question? Of course he is—not. He can't get over to his favorite hang out, the pool room, quick enough. He stays there until the proprietor starts yawning, then he thinks about going home. He gets there about 3, and 10 times out of 9 gets to bed with his clothes on. If you want to know what he does the next day and the next, read the chapter all over again.

What do you think ought to be done to the drone? Does anybody in the class know the popular way of getting rid of cats?

Discovery Forces Hair to Grow

You Actually See and Measure the Wonderful Results of the New Discovery, "Vola-Vita."

There is no hair discovery which has ever produced such remarkable results as "Vola-Vita." This is the new principle hair remedy, which has solved the problem of growing hair, stopping hair from falling, restoring original color to any hair in a natural way without a dye, and stopping dandruff. "Vola-Vita" contains no alcohol whatever.

"Vola-Vita" Positively Stops Your Hair from Falling, and Compels It to Grow—One Trial Proves It!

It has now been discovered that hair consists of five principal elements. When any of these is missing, the hair begins to fall, dandruff, grayness and baldness follow. When the missing elements are restored, hair begins to grow again, and its natural color returns.

This has never before been accomplished. It is now done positively and definitely by the new hair discovery, "Vola-Vita."

This remarkable hair grower restores the missing elements to hair. That is why in a short time, by its use, hair is actually grown on heads that have been bald for years. "Vola-Vita" compels hair to grow luxuriantly, fills out bald spots. Dandruff will positively disappear. Itching and falling of hair absolutely stop.

No matter what was the original color of your hair, whether red, brown, black or other shade, "Vola-Vita" will bring gray, faded or bleached hair back to its original color. "Vola-Vita" is not a dye. It contains no alcohol to dry up the natural secretions of the hair. It is different from any other hair treatment known. You will see its results soon after you begin to use it. Start today. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"Vola-Vita" is sold at all drug stores in 50c and $1.00 bottles, or sent direct by "Vola-Vita" Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. The $1.00 bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the 50c size.

"Vola-Vita" is sold in Fort Wayne by Peoples Drug Store, Miss Emanuel, T. C. Bohn, Dreier Drug Company, Meyer Bros. Company, B. R. Noll, D. & N. Pharmacy, Woodworth's Drug Store, C. O. Boston Wants to Do Away With All the Basement Bakeries.

Boston, July 12.—The Boston board of health is urging the enactment of a law to prohibit the use of basements for bakeries. In reporting on the new score card system by which the department keeps account of the sanitary conditions of all places where food is manufactured, Deputy Commissioner Mulvaney, in charge of the food division of the health department, says: "The restaurants, as a general rule, have been found to be in a fairly satisfactory condition, the quality of food handled being very good, but in some instances it has been found that dirty methods of preparing food are allowed in the kitchen. These defects are being speedily remedied, but where no improvement is made the parties offending will be brought into court."

"The department has had more trouble with bakeries than with any other place where food is prepared. In the so-called basement bakeries the worst conditions have been found, and in the opinion of the department a law should be enacted to prohibit the use of basements for bakeries."

GIRL BARBER SAYS REAL MEN TAKE CARE OF FRESH MEN.

Miss Esther Clary, of Atlanta, Ga., is a regular, registered-according-to-law, efficient, non-talkative barber. Miss Clary's philosophy runs like this: "A girl has to give and take in this business. She mustn't be too squeamish or fussy. "It's sorter like manicuring, y'know. A girl in the manicure business has to put up with lots of guff, but before long she learns to give as good as she gets. Then she gets along. "Of course there's always the fresh person to be considered, but other men generally take care of the fresh person."

PERSEVERANCE WINS AT BOYS' DAY OUTING

Boy Who Tries Hard But Loses in Pole Climb Gets Reward, Anyway.

The prize of perseverance was never better exemplified than when Clifford Mohler, 14, failed to win the gold watch which dangled at the top of the greased pole as part of the sport of the boys' day outing at Robison park Wednesday afternoon. For nearly two hours Clifford struggled to gain the coveted prize of the watch with the twenty-year guarantee. It seemed that he tried hardest. He never gave up. He tore his shirt and pulled the garment off. His sunburned breast was plastered with sand and after his fourth failure. He carried pounds and pounds of gravel in his pockets up the slippery shaft on his many trials. Every time he gained a little. He was every inch a fighter. He was heartily cheered by the crowd time and again. It seemed that his function was that of trail-breaker for every time it was he who wiped away another foot of the dark grease. He was the favorite.

But he did not win. After a nerve wring which he could strike the dangling prize with his dirty sand cloth but could not go higher he was forced to take another rest. He slid to the ground with tears in his eyes. While he rested Franklin Ruby, 12, climbed to the top and won the prize. The Ruby boy had made a noble effort several times and had soiled his shirt front in a symphonic effort.

A crowd of sympathetic women gathered about the prostrate form of Clifford Mohler. He was too tired to get away. They almost smothered him. "He deserved to win," they said in chorus.

They took up a collection and gathered $2.75 for him. Then they told the kind-hearted C. H. Williams, manager of the celebration. Williams called the Mohler lad before the crowd and rewarded him with a gold ring and a baseball suit. Clifford grimaced and received the greatest ovation of the day.

The boys' outing itself, aided by perfect weather, did honor to the annual institution. At least 2,000 boys were there. They crowded about C. H. Williams.

hians every few minutes like moths about a taper, when he explained the next line of beguiling sport. There was the copper trail, with its 1,000 pennies flashing in the sun; the tossing of 100 baseballs from the top of the theater building, and there was the parade.

Charles Wilcoxen, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Wilcoxen, 1034 Delaware avenue, garbed in the array of an Indian brave, won first prize and the gold watch. His makeup was perfect and his string of bright feathers trailed to the ground. The great trees of Robison park, where once the war cry sounded, echoed with the "who-oo-oo" of the 2,000 descendants of Indian fighters when Charles reached his tiny hands for the prize.

Other winners in the parade, in which nearly 200 marched behind the merry music of the Laotto band, were: Jerry Smith, polar bear; Eugene Cull, organ grinder; Wayne Cull, Indian; Walter Mosher, Shriner; Carl Buuck, baker; Franklin Smith, soldier; Teddy Grimm, Anthony Wayne; Andrew Bruder, clown. H. A. Williams, principal of the Woodward school, Toledo, brother of C. H. Williams, and Prof. Meyer conducted the athletic events. The winners, who were given baseball suits, were:

At 5 o'clock "Bigney" gave his spectacular high dive. In blue tights and wearing a flowing sash of "Old Glory" he climbed the ladder. A few words to the "ladies and gentlemen," then breathless silence as with an eagle swoop the diver plunged towards earth, a mighty splash, pandemonium, and the greatest act on earth had closed the day.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and cures all mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

AT THE PALACE

FORT WAYNE IS INTERESTED.

Story of Powerful Photodrama at Palace Attracts Hundreds.

Fort Wayne is interested. The city has been taken by storm by the powerful photodrama, "Where Are My Children?" in which the terrible toll of improper birth control are visualized at New Palace theater in a smashing Universal release with the famous character actor, Tyrone Power, in the principal role. "I realize how much more forcibly than by the spoken or written word this picture presents to the public some of the phases of the question of birth control," said Dr. E. W. Edlavitch. "It should be seen by every adult person in the city."

"A clean, timely picture. It will no doubt awaken the minds and hearts of many men and women for good," Dr. E. W. Edlavitch declared after seeing the dramatic scenes projected upon the screen.

The story deals with the activities of a criminal surgeon, who finally bungles a job and a young girl pays the penalty with her life. The doctor is brought to trial only to disclose to the prosecutor that the attorney's own wife has been one of the most frequent of his patients. This situation gives rise to the striking title of the film, "Where Are My Children?"

IN THE CHURCHES

EPWORTH LEAGUERS GOING TO WAWASEE

Fort Wayne Young Folk to Attend Institute on July 17 to 23.

Nearly three hundred young people are planning to enjoy the good times offered by the Epworth League Institute, to be held at Lake Wawasee next week, July 17 to 23.

Do you ask, "What is an Epworth League Institute?" Someone has said, "It is a circus, a college and a camp-meeting combined." The forenoon are devoted to class work covering such subjects as missions, stewardship, Bible, evangelism, and recreation and culture. These classes are conducted by professors in colleges, and trained workers along each of the lines presented, all of whom have specialized in the subjects they teach.

The afternoons are devoted to outdoor sports—and who is there among young people who does not like to swim, go launch riding or canoeing, play tennis and baseball? And, say: Do you like to fish? If so, you should not fail to join the crowd.

The early evening hours are spent in a good social time, where you will have opportunity to become acquainted with some of the most worth-while young folks in all northern Indiana.

Many From Fort Wayne.

About thirty-five young people are going from Fort Wayne—twenty-three from the First M. E. church, six from Simpson, two from St. Paul M. E. and six from Trinity M. E.

If you haven't planned your vacation it is not too late for you to arrange to go with the Fort Wayne crowd to Lake Wawasee.

Miss Iona Tansley can give any added particulars by phone, her number being 1851 Red.

ONE OF THE NEW COLLARS

NECKWEAR is ever an interesting subject, because one is always being offered something new in that line. Just at present it is the aim of most collars to extend as far as the waist line in back, either on the square, in a point or in rounded fashion.

The model shown is of white georgette crepe. Its severity is lessened by the use of the pleated section which is joined to the square collar with hemstitching. Hemstitching and pleading, by the way, are very much employed on the newest collars.

While georgette crepe is a favored material for collars, there are quite a number made of organdie, batiste and, in some cases, velvet is used.

A STEAMER CHAIR HINT

IF YOU are looking for an attractive and comfortable chair for the living room or bedroom, try a steamer chair with a cushion to fit. Discard the foot rest entirely. It is usually in the way, and as it is always narrower than the rest of the chair it would be difficult to make one cushion do for the whole chair. Remove all the old paint or varnish, and so over the woodwork with a dark-colored oil stain. Then make a long mattress, covered with flowered cretonne, and fasten it to the back of the chair at the top. Add a small, round bolster head rest, finished at each end with a covered button, and your chair will be complete. Try it for yourself, and see how very comfortable and satisfactory it is.

BEACH CUSHIONS

MADE sometimes to match the bathing cap and sometimes just to match the styles, there come cushions of rubber in small oblong shapes for beach use. These rubber cushions are usually bright of tone and are ornamented with flowers of rubber attached with some waterproof gum. One may also get a rubberized and striped sateen for some very stunning beach cushions. The advantage of having a small cushion to tuck under one's head on the sand or between one's back and a rock or pillar is appreciated by the summer girl. These pillows can also be made use of by canoeists.

A NOVEL HAT TRIMMING

HAVE you thought of a way to trim your new sailor hat which you purchased minus trimming or of the plain sports hat that you bought or want to trim over? Listen to this: Get some wool, in white would be the better. Take three strands long enough to go around the hat, and make two loops. Braid the wool, and thru each section that two strands come together slip a bead or small button the shade of the hat. Lay it around the brim of the hat right next to the crown and loop it at the side front or at the side. You have no idea until you try it what a pretty trimming this makes.

BLUE AND WHITE SILK JERSEY

ONE always feels comfortable in a dress made along simple lines, but in hot weather, more than any other time, does simplicity spell comfort. Here you have the suggestion for making a cool blue-and-white, green-and-white or any other striped frock of silk jersey, wash silk or voile. The blouse is made along plain shirtwaist lines, having a shallow yoke across the shoulders.

A rolling collar of white crepe de chine adds a cool note to the frock, as do the deep cuffs of the same material.

Fullness is given to the skirt by means of pleats. The belt is of white suede leather. Across the back are pieces of blue leather applied in odd

OSSIAN NEWS

Ossian, Ind., July 12.—Mrs. Hazel Oberlin, of Kingston, Canada, and her sister, Miss Marie Argerbright, of Fort Wayne, were Wednesday guests of Mrs. Ina Miller.
Miss Tossie Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jennings, who has been quite ill with scarlet fever, is now improving.
Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Spencer and family are home from Spiceland, where they visited with Mr. Spencer's mother, Mrs. J. A. Spencer, and attended the Spencer reunion. They also visited relatives in New Castle while away.
Mr. and Mrs. Gus Yager have as their guests this week their daughter, Mrs. Crum and her son, Harold, of Fort Wayne.
Mrs. Marcellus Alexander, of Bluff-ton, came to Ossian today for a few days' visit in the home of her cousin, Rem A. Johnston, and family, and with Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morton.
Mrs. Wilson Hoot has returned to her home in Muncie, after a several days' visit with Mrs. Frank Hendry.
The M. G. club was very pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. John Woodward. The ladies responded to rollick with early cour-ship experiences. Mrs. Woodward gave an original reading. Current events were discussed and a social hour with fancy work followed. The hostess served a nice two-course luncheon. Those present were Mes-dames Josephus Caston, E. T. Hawley, George M. Way, Frank Quackenbush, A. C. Ferguson, G. A. Bowman, Frank McDowell, J. V. Goshorn and M. E. Spencer. Their next meeting will be with Mrs. McDowell on Tuesday evening, July 23.
Mildred Miller is now improving from a very severe attack of indiges-tion.
Mrs. Clint Vananda, Mrs. Kate Pat-terson and Mrs. Samuel Hughes spent Wednesday visiting in Fort Wayne, and enjoyed an outing at the park.

Arrest of Ten Persons Fails to Convince Authorities That Complete Solution is Near.

Salem, Mass., July 12.—Finding the "master mind," said to lurk behind events which led to the strange death of Miss Margaret Ward, of Peabody, is the mystery problem faced by the police.

Already ten persons have been charged with having knowledge of an operation Miss Ward is said to have underwent before her body was found in the bottom of the "death car" driven police say, by Thomas T. Sexton.

Now another person—a physician of prominence—may be added to the list. It is said Miss Ward, who was 27, left her home several days ago, saying she was to visit friends at a nearby resort and that her family heard nothing of her until the strange automobile drove up in front of the home of her brother-in-law, Police Sergeant C. A. R. Duffie, of Salem.

One of the men who was later arrested had already told Duffie that his sister was ill and wished to come to his home.

It was early the following morning when the car drew up in front of Duffie's door. When he went out to the curb he found that his sister lay dead in the bottom of the auto.

"She has fainted," one of the four occupants of the machine stated, but before any of them could get away, Duffie had drawn his revolver and arrested them. Two other men who approached at that moment were also arrested at the point of the gun.

Among the men held as witnesses in the case are Charles R. O'Connell, lawyer of prominence and former state representative; Dr. John J. Shanahan, well known physician of Peabody, and William Conlin, factory employe, said to have been an intimate friend of the dead girl.

The trail of the death car leads back to the Roxbury district of Boston, where three women were arrested in one house soon as the Boston police learned of Miss Ward's death.

MARGARET WARD
VICTIM OF MURDER MYSTERY WHICH HAS STIRRED SALEM, MASS., MORE THAN ANYTHING OF THE KIND THAT HAS HAPPENED SINCE THE OLD DAYS OF WITCHCRAFT.

Miss Ward was said to have been taken alive from this house into the car at the start of her tragic journey to Salem, and it is charged that Dr. Shanahan, one of the men arrested, had visited her in this house the night before.

The promptness with which the Boston police made the arrest of the three women as soon as Medical Examiner Frank S. Wood, of Salem, reported that Miss Ward had died of an operation, leads to belief that they already had wind of the mystery.

The death car had been under sus-picion as it sped up and down a Boston street before the trip to Salem began.

The local authorities are baffled to explain how all the six men arrested are connected with the tragedy. And they are still trying to run down clues concerning the seventh man—"the mas-ter mind"—in the case, a physician said to have visited Miss Ward in the Rox-bury house before the time of Dr. Shanahan's reported visit.

CATHOLIC LADIES TO MEET AT TOLEDO, O.

Tenth Biennial Convention of Ladies of Columbia Planned Aug. 1-3.

Toledo, O., June 12.—The tenth biennial convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbia will be held in Toledo, August 1, 2 and 3.

The organization, founded in 1808, has members in Ohio, Indiana and Ken-tucky. It was first organized in Ohio.

Convention headquarters will be in the Boddy house. Business session will be in Eagles' hall on Erie street.

Attendance of 700 delegates and visi-tors is expected. There are 10 counsils of the order in Toledo and one in Syl-vania. The organization has a total membership of 5,000.

Two supreme officers reside in To-leado. They are Mrs. Timothy Reilly, 232 Eastern avenue, supreme monitor, and Mrs. Charles Pury, 1233 Woodland, su-preme arbiter.

He's a Dictator.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—Mayor Bell yesterday asked Jacob P. Dunn to resign as city controller and an-nounced the appointment of Reginald H. Sullivan to succeed him. The change will take place tomorrow.

In asking Controller Dunn to resign Mayor Bell expressed the belief that the business of his office has not been conducted in the proper manner. He said that much complaint and criti-cism has come to him because of re-ported irregularities in the controller's office, mentioning the indictment of three employees of the office upon charge of embezzlement.

John Reddington, deputy city con-troller; John Shaughnessy, a bookkeep-er, and John W. Pugh, auditor of the school board, are all under indictment by the Marion county grand jury on charges of forgery, false pretenses, ob-taining money by false pretenses and petit larceny. Except with a separate indictment charging Shaughnessy with forgery, the indictments have to do with alleged illegal collection of li-cense fees for bicycles between July, 1915, and December, 1915. The indict-ments are based on the charge that the defendants collected $1 each upon the licenses and recorded the collection of only 50 cents. It is said that only 50 cents should have been collected and recorded. Reddington's bond was fixed at $5,000 and the bonds of Pugh and Shaughnessy at $1,000 each.

Mr. Dunn has denounced Shaugh-nessy, but has voiced his confidence in Pugh and Reddington.

The practice of using interest on money deposited with the city is said to have been in vogue at the city hall by past officials. The plan consists of cashing certified checks, and interest drawing in this connection, deposited by contractors as a guarantee of their good faith in bidding upon public works. The practice of clipping and cashing interest coupons when they become due on Barrett law bonds be-longing to the contractors and held by the city.

When asked, last night concerning his enforced resignation, Mr. Dunn was not inclined to make any comment. He was asked if he would resign with-out any ceremony and he said:

"Why, of course, I will."
Mr. Dunn was appointed to the office at the beginning of the Bell adminis-tration.

LOU AND GERALDINE HAVE FIVE SERV-ANTS, DOG AND TWO AUTOS.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Tellegen on Porch of their California Bungalow.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 12.—Geraldine Farrar, now Mrs. Lou Tellegen, is back in this city with her husband for her annual summer engagement in pictures. It has not been definitely decided what films Miss Farrar will take part in, but they will undoubtedly be spec-tacular productions such as she was fea-tured in last year. She will again play at the Lasky studio. Her husband also will play before the camera, but not in the same company with his famous wife.

Upon her arrival in this city Miss Farrar was offered a chance to name her own figure to sing in the grand open company, playing a summer season here. The celebrated diva declined the offer, however, replying that "the voice-box is closed for the season."

"I have been singing all winter," Miss Farrar said, "and I am out here for a rest first, to be followed by a lot of hard work. I am not going to sing again until next winter."

Lou Tellegen is one of the most dis-tinguished actors on the American stage. Because of the popularity of his pre-vious pictures, it has been decided to put him at the head of a company of his own.

The Tellegens were accompanied to California by five servants, a dog and two automobiles. They will live in Hollywood.

"I am glad to be back for another dip into pictures," Miss Farrar announced, "back where my romance began."

Resignations Follow Bitter Wrangle Over Wage Agreement.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 13.—President Van Bittner, of district No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, and Vice President F. P. Hanaway will hand in their resignations today at a special convention of the district now in session here. Both officials made this announcement last night following the first session held yesterday.

A bitter controversy has raged for some time over the wage scale agreed upon in New York by representatives of the miners. Van Bittner and other high officials of this district favored approval of the scale and the majority of the men opposed it. This, it is said, resulted in a movement to impeach Van Bittner. So far no formal action has been taken. A number of local unions in district No. 5 are also said to have threatened to leave the national organization if the New York scale was forced upon them. Van Bittner's announced intention to resign is the climax of yesterday's stormy session of a meeting which sought it possible to reach a compromise ground between miners and their officials. Van Bittner had been president of district No. 5 for eight years and is also a member of the district executive

Asks $150 Damages.
The Maunroe Dairy company has filed suit in the superior court for damages of $150 against the Port Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, alleging a car of the defendant company struck a wagon of the dairy company in Taylor street, Jan. 3, 1916. A heavy snow bank made it difficult to drive the wagon without coming in close range with the car, the complaint says, and the traction car, making twenty-five miles an hour, it is averred, struck it.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Fred C. Schultz, city fireman, 42,
Edith Blose, 33.

Dr. Aked is said to have suggested officials in Berlin that the neutral nations would not look with favor upon German retention of any of Belgium's colonies over seas.

Even the extreme pacifists in Germany are said to have been told by the emissary from the neutral conference that the time was not ripe for overtures of peace. Irrespective of the conflicting claims of victory, it was said the naval fight had lengthened the war by at least twelve months.

Dr. Aked reported to the conference that he had seen everywhere in Germany the conviction that the German armies cannot be beaten in the field and that the allies cannot exhaust German resources. Money and men seemed to be plentiful, he said, and an American living in Berlin asserted there were hundreds of thousands of men trained to the minute who had not been on any firing line. Extremists of the "war party" were most confident in their military claims. They asserted that there was no fear of the English or Russian armies, because of their deficiency in military officers.

It is said Dr. Aked found very little sentiment favoring the United States as a mediator. There is a strong feeling in Germany against the United States, engendered partly of course, by the submarine controversy.

"When it comes to the moderate men and the war party," said Dr. Aked, "there means constant strife. It is really of more importance to the world as to which of these parties shall win in Germany than it is to the world as a question of when will the victorious in Germany. If the ingenuis win the world will have to deal with a very different Germany, a Germany flushed with victory and uncompromising in her triumph, or else the world must look with anguish upon years of fiercer war, while torture is endured to agony, until blood flows in rivers and the best of civilization are utterly destroyed."

Dr. Aked said he found much to encourage him, however, as to Germany's possible attitude after the war.

I. P. KICKLEY IS
TO BE RETIRED
Worked on Pennsy Forty-Six Years and Now Seeks Permanent Rest.

Passenger Conductor I. P. Kickley, in the service of the Pennsylvania over forty-six years and one of the best known men in the service, has made application for transfer to the pension system on the clause which permits it when an employee reaches his sixty-fifth year. The examining board has been summoned to consider Mr. Kickley's case and action will be taken soon.

I. P. Kickley was born in Fort Wayne August 22, 1850, and has resided here continuously all his life. His service on the road commenced in the capacity of freight brakeman in February, 1870, when he was nearly twenty years old. Six years later, in March, 1876, he was promoted to freight conductor and in January, 1882, he was advanced to the passenger department, where he is at present. For some time Mr. Kickley has been the conductor on one of the runs on Nos. 18 and 19, between this city and Crestline. He has not been in first-class health for awhile and it was this that induced him to apply for retirement.

AUTO KNOCKED FROM TRACKS.

Noah McDonald Has Thrilling Experience at Latty.

Noah McDonald, a resident of Middletown, O., came near death last evening, when his automobile was struck by a Nickel Plate train at Latty, O., and with himself in the machine, tossed clear of the right of way. The auto was badly damaged, but Mr. McDonald escaped with a few slight bruises and scratches. The train, with Engineer M. U. Grubb at the throttle, was running westbound light and going at a fairly good speed when it reached the crossing where it struck the automobile. McDonald failed to heed the warning whistle or rather thought he could beat the train to it. He failed, however, and is now congratulating himself upon his narrow escape, though he regrets the damage sustained by his automobile.

WILL TEAR DOWN DEPOT

Old Frame Structure Which Served Wash Many Years Doomed.

The maintenance of way department of the Wash is getting ready to tear down the old depot building on the east side of Calhoun street, which has served as an office for yardmaster Gogarty, and for storage purposes ever since the new station was opened to business. The old depot was erected before the civil war and served about fifty years as a baggage and passenger station. Prior to its erection the small frame building east of it, now used as an office and store house, was the car inspector's office. The depot, which was razed with the depot building, is one of the improvements to be made during the present summer. What will take the place of the old depot could not be learned.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTION.

M. S. Wilson, of the engineering department of the General Electric works, and Mrs. Wilson will leave Saturday for Minneapolis, where they will spend two weeks with their son, Lieut. J. D. Wilson, of the United States navy; Harry Wilson, a member of the Randall Publishing company, and Fred Wilson, circulation manager of the Post-Dispatch. "I will also take part in naming the next president of the United States," Mr. Wilson said. He will be a delegate to the prohibition national convention, which will be held in Minneapolis next week. "I witnessed the nomination of one successful candidate for president, Benjamin Harrison, in 1888," said Mr. Wilson.

ARE THESE MEN DOOMED?

The sailors shown here on the deck of the German super-submarine Deutschland were in great spirits when this photo was taken at Baltimore after the vessel completed her record-smashing trip across the Atlantic. Some were so happy to strike land they rolled on the ground as soon as they went ashore. Reports from England raise question of whether these men will ever see land again after they start on their return trip.

The British, according to reports, plan to send many motor patrol boats to watch outside the three-mile limit for the Deutschland. It is also reported the British will fire the ocean with gigantic nets like those that have caught many submarines in the waters around the British Isles.

The return trip of the Deutschland will be the most perilous ever made by any submarine. The photo shows 11 of the Deutschland crew of 29.

STEAM HEAT MEETING.

A two days' meeting of road foremen of engines, motive power men and officials of the Pennsylvania, was held this week at the office of Chief Motive Power Superintendent D. F. EMPLOYEES' CLAIMS UP TO COMMISSION Industrial Board Hearing in Fort Wayne Takes Up Local Cases.

Indiana's industrial commission accorded a hearing Thursday through one of its three members, Charles R. Hughes, of Indianapolis, in five cases of injuries to employees of firms, held responsible under the new compensation law, but in which employers and employees were unable to agree on a settlement. The hearing was held at the court house.

Mr. Hughes is accompanied to Fort Wayne by Nelson H. Kyser, field inspector for the industrial commission, whose home is at South Bend. Mr. Hughes predicted that the conclusion of the hearing might not come until Friday. From Fort Wayne Mr. Hughes will go to Bluffton, where he will sit in arbitration of cases growing out of accidents falling under the compensation law.

Several Cases Heard.

The case of Henry Lorain, aged 22, of 1104 Barthold street, was considered of importance inasmuch as Lorain claimed his vision was impaired when he was splashed into his face as a pail of water fell while he was working for the Duda Manufacturing company. The accident occurred March 2 last. Doctors' testimony was taken to show that Lorain was in no danger of losing his eyesight.

Bordon Has Complaint.

In the case of Port Wayne Rolling Mill corporation vs. Ben Bordon, Bordon claims damages for injury to a toe when a wheelbarrow loaded with cobbles fell over on his toe. The accident happened February 22 last and Bordon could not settle satisfactorily with his company. Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich are attorneys in the case.

Fell While Painting.

John Stranger alleges he fell and was injured while painting an automatic sprinkler, Sept. 15, 1915, for the E. Gilman & Son company. He was unable to agree with his firm on damages. William E. Clapham is attorney for the defendant and Paul G. Henderson, of Indianapolis, represents the plaintiff.

Fell From Roof.

Charles A. Spencer says he slipped and fell from a roof while carrying a bucket of pitch and was injured at Piersen, Ind., while in the employ of the Seavey Hardware company. No attorneys appeared in the case, the matter being submitted directly to the industrial board.

Frank J. Dimmen sustained a rupture while employed by the A. Bentley company he asserts in a case before the industrial board. He was unable to agree on redress with his employers.

BALLOONS HELD AT STATION.

The office of the police station reflected the spirit of circus day, Thursday morning. The place was literally filled with red and yellow and blue balloons. George Grace, a young man from Chicago, had been picked up while selling the balloons on the street without a license. He claimed to have a permit from Mayor Hoxey. Officials of the Sells-Floto circus had raised the objection to Grace selling balloons because they said the circus had been granted the right for the day. Grace was ordered to sell no more of the gaudy windbags.

FOR INJURY TO BOY

Mary Buck and Carl Shorey Made Defendants in Damage Action.

Damages of $5,000 are asked in a suit filed in superior court Thursday against Mary Buck and Carl Shorey, by Robert E. Robbins, age 4 years, through his next friend, Fred C. Robbins, alleging that shelling, fixtures and casing which the defendant piled to the side of a building they owned fell over on the child, fracturing his skull, and dislocating his neck.

The boy was of necessity, it is asserted, taken to the hospital for two weeks' treatment. He is alleged to still be a sufferer with pains in the back of the head.

The defendants, it is averred, owned the shelling, fixtures and casing which was removed from a building at 1113 South Broadway, across the alley to the south of the store from which they were taken and leaned against the building without support. The boy came by the pile of fixtures and shelling and they fell over on him. Levi A. Todd is attorney for the plaintiff.

NOTIFICATION IN
NEW YORK, JULY 31

Hughes Will Be Advised of Nomination at Carnegie Hall in Evening.

New York, July 13.—The official notification ceremony of the nomination of Charles E. Hughes will be held in New York on Monday, July 31, at 3 p. m. at Carnegie hall, it was announced today.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Chairman Harding of the committee on nomination after a conference with Mr. Hughes and Chairman Wiley of the national committee. Mr. Hughes' suggestions as to the time and place for the ceremony were adopted, but the hour was changed from 3 o'clock—originally favored by the nominee—to 8 o'clock.

"There will be invited to be present," said Senator Harding, "members of the republican national committee, delegates and alternates to the national convention at Chicago, republican governors and republicans in the house and the senate, the heads of the republican organization in the various states, members of the progressive national committee, officers of the progressive convention and prominent representatives of the republican party. The notification ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Hotel Astor given by Mr. Hughes to the invited guests."

Senator Harding said that both Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Taft would be invited to the ceremony and reception. Carnegie hall has a seating capacity of approximately 3,200. If there is any room left after reservations have been made for invited guests it will be thrown open to the general public. Senator Harding's announcement followed a morning conference between Mr. Hughes and many republicans from out of town. Among them were Senator Sutherland of Utah; Galen Tait, republican state chairman of Maryland; James B. Reynolds, secretary of the republican national committee; Francis S. Brown, attorney-general of Pennsylvania, and Representative William S. Var, of Pennsylvania.

MUST REMAIN LOYAL EVEN IF NOT PLEASED

President Discusses Americanization of Foreign Citizens.

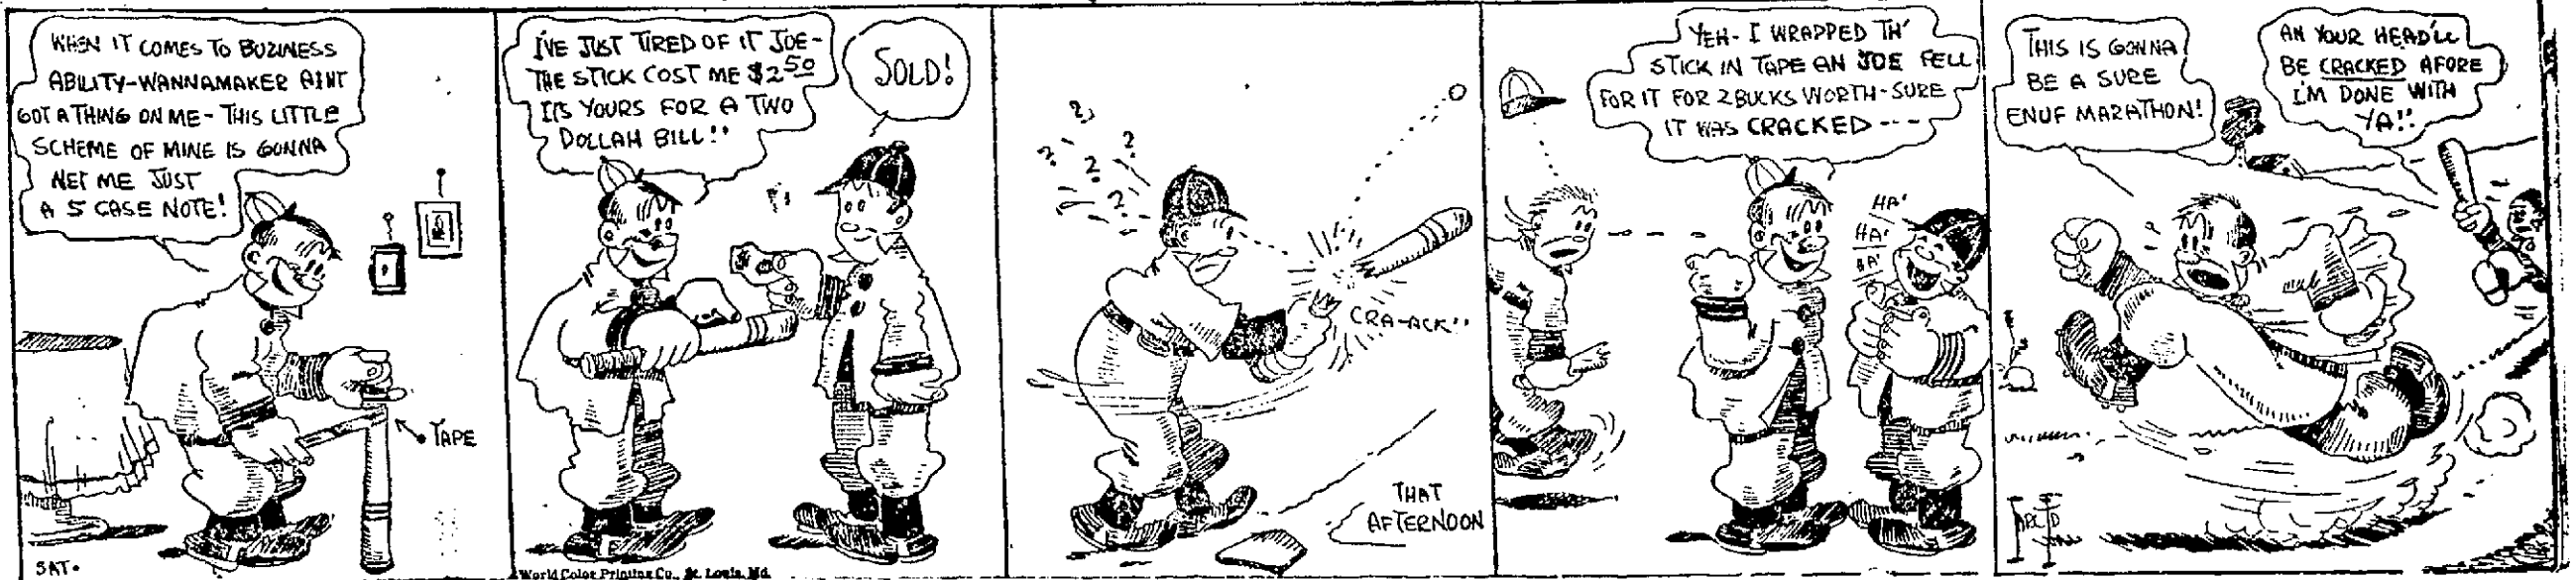

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson told a citizenship convention here today that the American government must insist that foreigners becoming citizens remain loyal even if they are not pleased with the way affairs are conducted.

Loyalty means nothing, he declared, unless it is coupled with self-sacrifice. He added that Americans cannot teach loyalty unless they practice it.

The president discussed at length the problem of Americanizing foreign born citizens. His words were enthusiastically applauded by a large gathering of men and women educators interested in the instruction of new citizens, meeting here under the auspices of the naturalization bureau

BASEBALL ATHLETICS

WILL REDUCE PRICES TO POPULARIZE SPORT

Fans Will Have Opportunity to See High Class Ball at Lower Price.

The fans of Fort Wayne will be overjoyed in hearing that the management of the Crows will put into effect next Sunday a reduction of prices. The Crows have played excellent ball this season but not all the fans were able to attend and the management reduced the prices so as to have those come that were unable to come before.

"We're not in this game to make money," said Matt Cleary Thursday morning, "but to bring the best semi-pro ball games to Fort Wayne. The management would charge no admission at all but the players have to have something for their services." Under the old system the management was breaking more than even but did not care about how much they cleared so long as they put the national game where it belongs in this city.

The new scale of prices are as follows: Bleachers: Men 15 cents, and boys 10 cents. There will be an extra charge of 10 cents for the grandstand. The management has entered to the fair trade so far this season and now when the ladies have to pay 10 cents for a seat in the grandstand they surely will not object to the prices.

It is a custom when things are reduced to give an inferior brand of goods but not so with the ball game proposition. Manager Matt Cleary assures the fans that they will not be shown any ball teams that are not A. No. 1 teams and that do not show the class of ball they have been seeing.

A week from Sunday the Clearyites will tackle the fast Chicago Nickel Plates, and from then on to the end of the season the management has secured teams that rank as the best in their class. The Huntington ball team has not played in this city for a number of years, and will be on the boards Sunday as the chief attraction at the League park. The Lima City team will be accompanied by the majority of Huntington, as they think they have some team, and are coming here to prove it.

MAJORS AFTER BASCHANG.

South Bend, Ind., July 13.—Al Baschang, sensational outfielder and leading batsman of the South Bend Central league club, is wanted by two major league teams at the close of the present season. Although Owner Smith refuses to give out information, it is understood that the club is offering for his services a Pittsburgh and New York. Baschang leads the league in stolen bases.

Manuel Markonios, a young Greek employed at the Summit City restaurant, stuck his thumb into an electric fan Wednesday afternoon, splitting it open to the first joint. The injury was dressed by Dr. J. M. Dionne.

FRIARS TO ROMP AT SCHROEDER'S GROVE

Clubmen to Have One Grand, Good Time on Sunday, July 16.

The Friar club is planning one of the greatest parties they have ever had and is touted to surpass anything they have ever had. The members will meet at the club between 8:30 and 9 o'clock Sunday morning and will be transported to Schroeder's grove in machines and trucks. The club gives forth the statement that thirty-five have signed to go and they want more to go. From the names of the committees they must be hard ones. They are as follows: "Heavy Hardware" Alagan, "Iron Ore" Rinehart, "Dull Care" Ellenwood, "Haig and Haig" Hays, "Etchical" Leach, "Publicity" Suedhoff. If anyone wishes to go and has not signed yet, do so at once; either sign up at the club rooms or phone one of the above named committees.

It is an evident fact that the Friars do nothing by halves and anyone that goes Sunday will be assured a good time. There will be a ball game between the "Slickers" and the "Dandies" and all other games of interest such as pitching horseshoes, and many other "exciting" games.

COAST STAR INVADERS EAST.

Los Angeles, July 13.—Ward Dawson, new double partner of Maurice E. McLoughlin, will leave for New York tomorrow to play in eastern tournaments for practice on grass courts and get in fighting trim for the national doubles championships later in the season. McLoughlin and Dawson recently captured the Pacific states section doubles championship at the Long Beach tournament.

Through the Kilbourne & Perry agency the Rielor building on West Jefferson street, between Calhoun and Harrison streets, has been leased to R. M. and L. G. Bailey, of Chicago, who conduct a chain of groceries in Chicago and other cities.

Cincinnati Society Women Compose Unique Organization

Ohioans Ride Imported Ponies in True Cowboy Style and Perform Daring Feats as Well as Men.

Cincinnati, O., July 12.—There is only one woman's polo team in the United States outside of New York city, and this unique organization is composed of some of Cincinnati's most wealthy and prominent young society women. They can play polo as well as men and they intend to show their New York sisters this summer in a series of games that they can ride in true western fashion and possibly play polo a little better than their only rivals in New York.

The Cincinnati woman's polo team was organized last fall, but real strenuous polo playing did not begin until early this spring and every week finds these young women out on the big polo grounds of the Cincinnati men's polo team, in matched contests practicing for the series of games which will be held with the New York team.

The team will attend the series of international polo games which are to be played in the east and the series between the two women teams will follow shortly after the international meet is ended.

The ponies used by the women are some of the fastest and best imported stock and many of them have taken prizes. They have been especially trained for speedy polo playing and the women players ride the fast horses in true western cowboy style.

To do this they wear a uniform much the same as the men, with trousers stuck down into their riding boots. The linen riding coats are sometimes discarded during the height of a contest, displaying neat blouse waists.

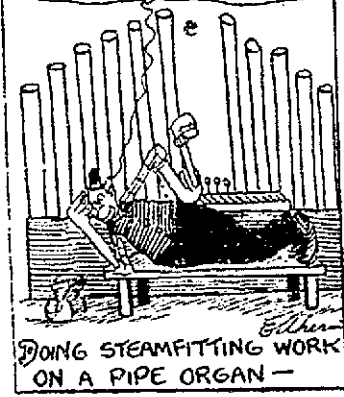

DIDDEL IS VICTOR AGAIN.

Toledo, O., July 13.—Will H. Diddel, of Crawfordsville, Ind., continued his play in the Central States Golf association tournament Wednesday by defeating F. F. Meibury, of Youngstown, 6 and 3, in the third day of play.

Frank Southard, Holland Hubbard, Robert F. Stranahan, of Toledo, and F. W. Hunter, of Detroit, other favorites in the tournament, won their matches also. Champion Diddel meets Hunter in the next round Thursday, for the championship. Semi-finals will be played Friday, with the finals on Saturday.

NO GLOOM SEEN AT AUSTRIAN DERBY

Banner Event of Sporting Season Bigger Success Than Year Ago.

Vienna, June 25.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The great annual Austrian derby, the banner race of the sporting season for all Austria-Hungary, this year proved even more than the anticipated success. It far outdid the derby of 1915, in general interest, attendance and sporting features.

Many of the big figures in society and the smart and brilliant gowns of peace-time were lacking, but the threatening weather was largely to blame for that. The Austrian race track crowd is totally unlike the one-time American crowd. The nerve-racked excitement of the American track is lacking, and when the horses come thundering down the track—from right to left instead of from left to right and on instead of solid earth—there are seldom any shouts for this or that horse.

A feature of the Austrian track is the surprising number of women who bet on the races. Thousands of them crowded to the pari-mutuel booths on derby day, feverishly thrusting their ten and twenty crown bills to the cashiers, and jestingly making their way after each race to the pay-off booths. The women, too, furnished a sight that is not common on an American track, for countless numbers of them strolled about the paddock, or leaned against the rail smoking cigarette after cigarette. They stood about the huge announcing board with cigarette in hand, carefully and skillfully checking off the numbers of the horses to run in the next race and the names of the jockeys who were to ride them.

The only signs of war, if they would strike even the outsider, were the gray uniforms of officers and soldiers who mingled with the crowd. The most popular favorite did not win so there was a sorrowful element in the homebound crowd, but on the whole it was a happy and carefree throng, certainly one that gave no hint that fathers and brothers, husbands and sons are spread out along several hundreds miles of battle line, or wounded in the hospitals, or dead and buried.

ALLEY WEDS; QUILTS RACING.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 13.—The marriage of Tom Alley, auto racer, and Miss Susie Gary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gary, of Lincoln, which occurred Wednesday evening at the home of the Rev. A. W. Harned, of the Capital Park Methodist church, was the outcome of a romance of less than a year ago. Alley met Miss Gary when he was driving through Lincoln en route to Omaha. He is planning to give up racing and engage in the automobile business in this city.

AMATEURS TO DRAW PLANS.

Indianapolis, July 13.—President Bais-ton Cross, of the National Amateur Baseball association, has called a special meeting for Aug. 15 in this city. Rules and regulations to cover the national championship series for the world's amateur title will be decided and a schedule of games will be drafted.

Delegates from Pittsburgh, Louisville, Detroit, Chicago, Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, Lincoln and Houston, Tex., Sacramento, Los Angeles and Tacoma will be requested to attend.

These cities comprise the national association. Houston, having been admitted yesterday. The Houston association comprises six leagues, forty-eight clubs, and has more than 500 players registered.

FORT WAYNE EAGLES TO PLAY MONROEVILLE

The Fort Wayne Eagles will journey to Monroeville Sunday to play the third game of a five-game series between the two teams, the Eagles having won both games played so far.

A large crowd is expected Sunday as these two teams are evenly matched and a good game can be expected.

Lili, Cashdollar and Bauserman will be the center of attraction as they will take the heavy work for Monroeville, while the Fort Wayne Eagles will have Druggo, Smith and Mullinback and Boyce as the mainstays of the team.

DILLON READY FOR GO.

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—Jack Dillon, of Indianapolis, the light heavyweight pugilist who recently got a ten-round decision over Heavyweight Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, will meet Battling Levinsky, of New York, in a fifteen-round bout at Oriole park this afternoon. Dillon says he will weigh not more than 175 pounds when he enters the ring. Levinsky probably will be five or six pounds heavier, and in addition is taller and has a longer reach. Both men claim to be in fine condition. Dillon, who did not arrive here until yesterday, said he had not required much preparation for the bout because of the hard training he did for Moran.

NEUVO LEON WILL BE EASIEST JOB

Less Than 20 Miles of One Mexican State Must Be Patrolled.

Washington, D. C., July 13--Nuevo Leon, the smallest and least densely populated of the Mexican border states, is the subject of today's war geography bulletin issued by the National Geographic society in Washington.

"Of all the frontier states to be patrolled by our national guard, Nuevo Leon will present the least difficulties from a strictly 'border' point of view," says the bulletin, "for less than twenty miles of this political division of extremely irregular outline touches the Rio Grande. It is almost completely enclosed by the adjoining border states of Tamaulipas and Coahuila. For a distance of 125 miles, however, it is separated from the border only by a narrow strip of Tamaulipas, varying in width from ten to thirty miles.

"Nuevo Leon is only about one-fourth as large as the state of Chihuahua, but it has nine-tenths as many people. Compared with American commonwealths, it is about half as large as Mississippi, with a population equal to that of Utah.

"The northern and northeastern section of Nuevo Leon, the portion of the state with which the American border patrol will become familiar, gives an unfavorable impression for the land is hot, dry and low. Farther south, however, the Sierra Madre range, extending through the state for 150 miles at an average elevation of more than 5,000 feet, changes the character of the climate, making it so temperate and equable that some of the towns are popular health resorts for invalids from the United States.

"There are twelve rivers in the state, none of which is navigable. The Salado, in the northern section, is famous for its fish and fine pearl oysters.

"The valleys on the eastern slopes of the mountains are extremely fertile, producing many cereals and large crops of sugar cane, together with fruits and vegetables raised for the early spring market in American cities. Cattle-raising is one of the chief industries of the state, large herds of sheep, goats and beef cattle finding excellent pasturage on the plateau. Like most of the Mexican states, the wealth of Nuevo Leon is largely in its mines, the principal mineral products being lead, zinc and silver.

"The state is well supplied with railroads, two of the big trunk lines of the republic furnishing communication with Laredo, Pasa, Mexico City, Tampico and Torreon. The northern border lies 135 miles in an air line below San Antonio, Texas, and the southern tip of the state is crossed by the Tropic of Cancer.

"Nuevo Leon is one of the few states of Mexico in which no remains of the Aztec or earlier races of prehistoric times have been found.

"The capital and chief city of the state is Monterrey, which has won the sobriquet, the Chicago of Mexico, on account of its commercial activity and industrial importance."

NO BUMPER CROPS IN U. S. THIS YEAR

Conditions Generally Are Satisfactory, But No Records Broken.

New York, July 13.--While conditions generally are satisfactory, 1916 will not go down in history as a "bumper crop" year, according to agricultural experts.

In some sections rain, wind and frosts have injured prospects for a bumper year. In other localities, particularly California, Oregon and Washington, drought will lower the average.

Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, with favorable weather the rest of the season, will produce an average crop of hay, grain, potatoes and tobacco.

Only exceptionally favorable weather will offset the damage already done in New York state.

Heavy rains in New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania have damaged corn and tobacco. Under most favorable conditions the crop will not be matured until late in September.

Tobacco and hemp crops in Ohio and Kentucky will more than offset any damage done to wheat and corn by heavy rains.

In Maryland, Virginia, the Carolinas and West Virginia general crop conditions are favorable. An abundant harvest is predicted. A dry May prevented good stands of cotton and necessitated some replanting.

The cotton fields of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana need warm weather. The corn crop is reported the best in years.

June was cold and wet in Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana and corn and vegetable planting was delayed. Corn will probably furnish a satisfactory crop, however, if it receives warm growing weather.

The prospects for wheat, especially in Illinois, are none too good. A satisfactory crop of oats and corn is predicted. With the exception of peaches, the fruit crop is favorably commented upon. Michigan gives promise of a large fruit yield.

In Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota and northern Michigan conditions indicate the crop harvest will show a good average yield of all small grains, although the total crop will be somewhat less and the corn crop short.

It is estimated Kansas will harvest a hundred million bushel wheat crop. On the whole the condition of the wheat is good in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and Oklahoma. The quality is better than last year. The first yield of alfalfa was heavy and of fine quality.

Texas and New Mexico are harvesting the small-grain crop under favorable weather conditions. Due to drought and frosts there is a substantial decrease in acreage. The average yield, too, is less than in 1915.

The crops of California, Washington, Oregon, Utah and Arizona will be less than the average, but farmers and fruit growers will get advanced prices. Peach growers are contracting for sale of their products at more than twice the price received last year.

The grain crop this year will be from 20 to 25 per cent less than in 1915, owing to unusual drought during the spring in some sections of California.

ZANESVILLE NEWS.

Girl With a Winning Smile Need Never Fear of Being a Wall Flower

If You Enjoy Friends, Cultivate Them With Sincere Cheerfulness, Says Miss Thompson in Final Chapter on "The Psychology of the Smile."

BY LILLIAN B. THOMPSON.

Friends are worth cultivating in this life of ours. The sunny smile will do much towards holding your friends and at the same time help you and them in meeting the trials and tribulations of living.

Of course, the true friend is supposed to stand by one, whether he be gloomy or cheerful. But I can see no reason for taxing the patience of our friends with an attitude of continual gloom and sourness.

Naturally there comes a time in everyone's life when sorrow overwhelms the ability to smile. Then it is that the friends of the saddened person can be of much comfort to him.

There is nothing reserved or stinging about the friendship smile. It is broad and expansive, charged with the joy of living, the expression of pleasure with life and the knowledge of good companions. There should be nothing mechanical about it.

It should be wholehearted and vital. It is the sort of a smile that says to another person, "I know you are my real friend and I can't trust to my confidantes. I don't have to hedge, to watch my words when you are with me."

Every smile has two meanings. One is for the person receiving the smile, as a rule on the face of the smile is shown the real intent of the smile.

It is so spontaneous and so lacking in calculation that one can tag it at sight. "That is why, I think, it is such an interesting means of communication between two congenial persons."

The girl with the winning smile need never fear of being a wall flower; of lacking invitations to parties and all the amusements that appeal to happy people. In fact, her ability to smile will take her far in her conquest of life; will help her over many rough places and aid her in overcoming many seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

If you want to go through life with the reputation of being a grouch, don't smile. But if you enjoy friends and want them to choose you and associate with you, cultivate that beaming, expansive smile, that is nearly a grin, from the very joyousness of it, and I promise you will not be lacking in happy, congenial companions. And what is better in life than good friends with whom to talk and confide?

There is so much to be gained from smiling that it seems foolish for anyone not to practice it. I have learned in my own life that my smiles have been an immense benefit and I am glad I can really and truly smile.

Since one gains in health, beauty, business and friendship through the taking of smile medicine, why stint the dose?

It is my advice, girls, to take it in large quantities. It cannot hurt you and will do you a world of good if you are sincere.

Smile, smile and then smile some more.

Why Some Prayers Are Not Answered

I believe that all true prayer is answered. But to locate the results of prayer and trace them to their true source is usually very difficult. The ordinary use of prayer is usually so blended with every other part of the life and action of a Christian, and the answers are so varied in form and they are received in a way so closely connected with human agency that it is impossible, as a rule, to draw the line between the results of prayer and that of other gracious influences which operate in our lives.

But some prayers are not answered, and some praying Christians have no power with God. To this class of religious professors the Word of God expressly says: "Ye ask and receive not." Now, why? The Bible itself gives three principal reasons why prayer is not answered. The first is unrepentant sin.

Let us adopt an illustration from Mr. S. D. Gordon. Suppose I had a private wire from here to my friends and kindred in Charlottesville, Va., and some one should go outside and drag the wire down until it touches the ground. Could I telegraph over that wire? No. Suppose some one cuts the wire; the two ends are apart; not a mile or a yard, but yet distinctly apart. Could I telegraph on that wire? Of course not. Yet I might sit in my room and talk away by the hour and use most earnest and persuasive language. But what good would it do? The wire is cut. All my fine pleading goes into the ground or the air. Now cut the wire. It runs the message into the ground. Says the Scripture: "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me."

Here is a man praying for business prosperity. Does he seek prosperity in order to be more useful, a better servant of God and his fellow men, or simply for self-gratification, that he may have more of the pleasures of life and cut a larger figure in the social and financial world?

It is perfectly right to pray for personal things such as money, physical strength, healing in sickness, and the like. God hears His children's lives to be rich and full. But the motive determines the character and the propriety of all these requests. If our hearts are in sympathy with Christ, if His life purpose is ours, we can ask what we will. "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you."

The third thing that hinders prayer is an unforgiving spirit. Prayer and forgiveness go together. After telling us in the Lord's Prayer how to pray, He solemnly reminds us that an unforgiving spirit breaks the connection between us and God.—Dr. E. W. Smith.

Testimony of Life Insurance Companies

Statistics prepared by either the acts or the deeds are apt to be viewed with suspicion because both sides are biased, says Arthur Hunter, of the New York Life Insurance company. But statistics put out by the life insurance companies are known to be absolutely without bias and the public has confidence in them. Mr. Hunter cites the experience of seven American companies and one Canadian company to show that mortality is from ten to thirty per cent. lower among abstainers than among non-abstainers. He shows further that mortality among total abstainers is markedly lower than among "temperate" drinkers, and very much lower than among "moderate" drinkers. The mortality among those who at the date of application for insurance took two glasses of whisky a day, but did not drink to excess, is eighty per cent. in excess of the normal. There is an extra mortality of forty per cent. among the policyholders who drank in excess at least five years prior to date of application for insurance, but had been very temperate for five years before acceptance.

MOVIES DISPLACE SALOONS.

Five hundred saloons in New York city and 100 in Brooklyn were crowded out of business last year by motion picture theaters, according to Orrin G. Cocks, secretary of the motion picture board of review, which has offices in New York. The percentage of drinking places eliminated in smaller communities is even larger, he declared. The moral atmosphere of manufacturing towns has been noticeably improved because of picture houses, Mr. Cocks said.

Look first to your mouth for the cause of your rheumatism or neuralgia. It may be either that your teeth are decayed or that your tonsils are diseased. Have both examined and treated if needed.

A PRAYER.

Father, if I can be of any use to Thee, point out my path and make me strong to walk therein. I have lost so much time trying to make a path for myself. I have spent so many weary hours trying to be of use to myself. Now, Lord, I want to be of use to Thee. Give me Thy orders. Lord, turn my face in the direction Thou wouldst have me go, and may I go with a glad heart and a ready hand. Amen.—Rev. Edward Leigh Pell, D. D.

GO TO CHRIST DIRECTLY

"I am a great lover of John Bunyan," said Charles H. Spurgeon in one of his sermons, "but I do not believe him infallible. I met with a story the other day which I think a very good one."

"There was a young man in Edinburgh who wished to be a missionary. He was a wise young man; he thought, 'Well, if I am to be a missionary there is no need for me to transport myself far away from home; I may as well be a missionary in Edinburgh.' There's a hint to some of you ladies who give tracts away in your district, and never give your servant Mary one. Well, this young man started, and determined to speak to the first person he met. He met one of those old fishwives; those of us who have seen them can never forget them; they are extraordinary women indeed. So, stepping up to her, he said: 'Here you are, coming with your burden on your back; let me ask if you have not another burden, a spiritual burden?'"

"What?" she said. "Do you mean that burden in John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress? Because if you do, young man, I have got rid of that many years ago, before you were born. But I went a better way to work than the Pilgrim said. The Evangelist that John Bunyan talks about was one of our persons that do not preach the gospel; for he said, 'Keep that light in thine eye, and run to the wicket-gate.' Why, man alive! that was not the place for him to run to. He should have said, 'Do you see the cross? Run there at once!'"

But instead of that, he sent the poor pilgrim to the wicket-gate first; and much good he got by going there!—he got tumbled into the slough, and was like to have been killed by it. But did not you? he asked, 'go through any slough of despond?' 'Yes, young man, I did; but I found it a great deal easier going back! The old woman was quite right. We must not try to be saved, now, sinners, if you will to be saved, go to the baptismal pool—go to the wicket-gate—go to the church—do this or that.' No, the cross should be right in front of the wicket-gate, and we should say to the sinner, 'Throw yourself there, and thou art safe. But thou art not safe till thou canst cast off thy burden, and lie at the foot of the cross, and find peace in Jesus.'—Exchange.

"Only a Drunken Barber," Yet He Built Up One of America's Great Rescue Missions

God's Wonderful Transforming Power Shown in Remarkable Case of U. V. Sillaway, Who, Though Dead, Still Lives in Work He Left Behind.

Fifteen years ago he was pulled out of the canal at Grand Rapids—a drunken barber who in despair of his repeated failures to turn from drink decided to end his wrecked life. A few weeks ago a whole city mourned his death—the beloved superintendent of one of America's greatest rescue missions. From the most unreliable of the outcasts that Mel Trotter rescued in "Bucktown," this "drunken barber" became the right-hand man of the great rescue mission leader whom forty missions throughout America look to as their chief.

(By Grace Willis in Sunday School Times.)

"Fred went to the bridge over the East Side canal, and, climbing to the top of the railing, deliberately leaped into the dark waters twenty feet below. Several people saw him when he leaped, and he was rescued from the water before he could drown. When the officer from the corner saw who it was, he called the wagon from the police station, and Fred spent the night in his wet clothing on the plank in a cell. As he was loaded into the wagon several people inquired who he was. 'Oh, only a drunken barber,' he was told; 'we got him often. It ain't the first time he's tried this.'"

Only a drunken barber fifteen years ago, of whom his own father said, "There is no hope for him; I wish he were dead." Yet when Urban V. Sillaway died, on September 16, of last year, many hundreds of people gathered in Milwaukee to do him honor, and other hundreds crowded into the Milwaukee Rescue Mission on a Saturday night, and again on a Monday afternoon at his funeral service, to testify to the wonderful power of God in this man's life.

He is pictured as "Fred Hanks" in Mel Trotter's book, "Jimmy Moore of Bucktown." Baffled and beaten by the demon of drink some half a dozen times after his heart was first touched by the Spirit of God, he at last gave himself completely into God's keeping, at his own home, after midnight on May 27, 1900; and this was his first testimony, given on the Gospel wagon, at Grand Rapids, while his old pals surrounded him, listening:

"I don't expect any one to take stock in me. I have made so many mistakes and turned the mission people so many times I am almost ashamed to look at them. I'm not making any promises this time. I've turned my case over to Jesus Christ. If I get drunk now he'll blame, 'cause he's running the whole shooting match. My life has been a failure from start to finish. When I was a boy I carried papers; one of my regular customers was an old Dutch woman who used to brew her own beer. Every evening when I delivered her paper I got my glass of beer. I got so I looked ahead to it, and when I was sixteen years old I could drink as much beer as a man. I learned the barber's trade, and before I was twenty years of age I was known as a drunken barber. I braced up many times, but when I started again I always went lower than I was before. I got into trouble, was arrested, and pleaded guilty. On account of my parents the judge suspended sentence, with the understanding that if I ever took a drink he would call me up before his magister and give me five years. With the state prison staring me in the face, I managed to stay sober three months. During that time I worked hard, got good clothes on me, and married one of the sweetest girls that ever lived. After our marriage—well, it was the same old story; why should I tell it again? My picture is in the rogues' gallery in more than one city. I did not want to be dishonored, but a man can't drink whisky and be honest."

"I have stolen the pennies out of my baby's bank to satisfy that awful desire for whisky. Don't tell me that a man does that because he wants to; I've tried as hard as any man ever tried to be sober, but that craving for whisky was there, and it had to be first in my life. Whisky was my god. I worshipped it. I loved it better than my family. My life, I've taken the shoes off my feet in the winter, and traded them for whisky. But today, thank God, I've not even wanted a drink. The first day in years that I've not wanted whisky is today. Gold cure failed; prison bars failed; wife's tears failed; but Jesus has taken even the desire for it away. When a man has that gnawing at his very vitals there are but two things that will touch it, a big drink of whisky or the Lord Jesus Christ. Thank God, I have him, and I'll never thirst again. Last night I leaped from the bridge into the water to end my life; but God saved me from death and hell. I do not understand how he can love such a brute as I am, but he does; and now I'm saved."

Shortly after his conversion Mr. Sillaway was at his daily employment in a laundry shop, sharing a customer, when a man came in, and, presenting a bill, demanded its payment. Mr. Sillaway explained that he was not then able to pay it, but would do so as soon as possible. The man was abusive, and went on saying, "That's a fine Christian; you are—no way to pay your bills!"

Mr. Sillaway was crimson with embarrassment at having the customer, a wealthy lumberman, overhear the talk. The next morning, however, the lumberman sent for the barber, and asked him what his debts in the town would amount to.

"Oh, as much as $500," was the reply.

The lumberman then took out $500 in bills, and gave it to Mr. Sillaway, telling him he might accept it as a gift, or as a loan, if he chose, but that he would require no security.

With gratitude Mr. Sillaway set forth to pay his debtors, and one and another began telephoning to Mel Trotter, "Sillaway's got a wad of bills as big as your fist. Better look after him."

At a hardware store Mr. Sillaway selected an outfit of barber's tools, asked the price, and laid the money down, turning away without the package.

"Here you're leaving your package," someone one called.

"That money is for implements like that, that I stole," was the answer as he left the store without the package.

He also owed hundreds of dollars in the west, much of it for liquor bills, and though it took some years to accomplish it, he paid them, every one.

A year or so ago, when in the west, near the neighborhood of his former haunts, in speaking to a gathering of five hundred men one day, he took out his checkbook and said: "Here's my checkbook; if there's a man in this audience to whom I owe anything I will pay it right now." The genuine offer made a strong impression on the men.

Mr. Sillaway became Mel Trotter's right-hand man, and half a dozen years later, in 1906, he went to Milwaukee to become the superintendent of the Rescue Mission there.

The mission was in a rented, ramshackle building; they were $1,900 in arrears and didn't own a thing. Three years later a successful two-weeks' financial campaign was put through, and in May of the next year, 1910, the new building was dedicated, and from that time the work has been successfully carried on in an $85,000 plant, which has been a model for missions throughout the country.

A gospel meeting has been held every night during those years, and many are the men who look back to some night in that room, where the big painted eye and the verse, "Thou God seest me," looks down upon them, to the time when they found God. Mr. Sillaway was equally at home in making a tender appeal to men to give their hearts to God, or in summarily settling the disputes of quarrelsome drunks. His was an unusually well-poised, sane, and all-round Christian character; and those who had never known him in his former life found it almost impossible to realize that he had ever been other than a strong Christian. He never went off on a tangent, he never carried away by strange distortions, kept his head, and in the midst of overwhelming burdens and discouragements kept sweet in his spirit, and won friends constantly by his warm-hearted personal interest. He had a genuine love for the well-to-do and the "down-and-out." As Mel Trotter expressed it, "He gets under your vest." At his funeral service were the young men of millions and the man without a cent, the wealthy woman crowded up against the wall and the shabby old negro walking boldly down the aisle for a last look at the familiar face; and each had lost a personal friend. And the burden on the heart of Mrs. Sillaway, who has been unfailingly an efficient and staunch helper, is, "I am so sorry for these friendless people."

In his office there are some fifty or sixty framed photographs. There are many pictures of prominent Christian workers and missions men; but perhaps the majority are of the men and their families saved through his efforts. Such work as his is filled with heart-breaking discouragement; and at such times he would look about on this picture and that and say, "That one paid—that one paid," and his courage rose and his faith and trust were renewed.

At his fifteenth "spiritual anniversary" last May, as he rose to open the meeting, the platform filled with beautiful flowers sent by friends, a messenger came down the aisle with a box of roses; and as he lifted them out he turned to the rugged, unkempt men in the audience and said, "The flowers weren't coming my way fifteen years ago, boys." It was a telling point.

"Only a drunken barber,"—but, transformed by the power of God, he had won more stars for his crown than many a man in a long lifetime of service; his the richly answered prayer:

"Help me the slow of heart to love; By some clear winning word of love; Teach me the wayward feet to stay; And guide them to the heavenly way."

An Evening Service.

The esteemed Dr. Fisk was on his way to conference in 1832, and was making the trip on a steamboat. The number of passengers was greater than usual and they had all assembled in the cabin for the purpose of having their berths assigned for the night. Directly afterwards, the clerk announced that Dr. Fisk would perform religious services before the company retired to rest, and suggested that those not favorable to it would withdraw to the forward cabin. One individual, apparently a military officer, walked the length of the cabin, the crowd remained in silence. The doctor rose near the stairway and after making a few remarks, intended to produce a feeling of dependence upon God, he gave out a hymn in which the greater number of passengers united. When he bowed to address the throne of Grace, it was an unusual sight to observe that with scarcely an exception, every one of the passengers had bent themselves before the Lord, thus evincing not only a proper veneration for religion, but their high respect for the individual who had leading for the devotion. Those who knew the doctor felt that he was the best of those services, for no man possessed the facility of improving such occasions to better advantage. One who was there adds, "We retired to rest that night with more devotional feelings than we ever experienced on board a steamboat, and it will be long before the impression produced by this circumstance will be effaced."

PREPAREDNESS.

Spirits come out of bottles, but the spirit of '76 didn't come out of a bottle. If the entire United States army and navy could center its fire upon a gigantic bottle which contained all of the liquor in the United States, the greatest step in national preparedness for efficient peace and efficient war might be taken.

WORDS FROM THE CROSS.

First word from the cross—the word of charity: "Father, forgive them."

Second word from the cross—the word of mercy: "Today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise."

Third word from the cross—the word in filial piety: "Behold thy Son!  Behold thy mother!"

Fourth word from the cross—the word of agony: "I thirst."

Fifth word from the cross—the word of humanity: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken Me?"

Sixth word from the cross—the word of perfection: "It is finished."

Seventh word from the cross—the word of Sonship: "Father, in to Thy hands I commend My Spirit."

OUR NEGLECTED BOY CROP

RUNNING TO WEEDS.

Somebody swiped Johnny's mitt to day. Maybe Ma said she didn't have any money for another. So Johnny laid for Dad at the corner where the car stops and demanded a sum sufficient to meet his sad necessity.

Maybe Dad was feeling pretty tired of a good many things, but chiefly of the high cost of everything, and so he teased accordingly. Then Johnny replied. And was scolded. Or worse.

And he will not care what he does tomorrow, if he can't have another catcher's mitt.

Poor Johnny! He belongs to the country's neglected boy crop.

And yet few persons look upon him as neglected. His parents are thrifty, temperate, conscientious. They are that the boy has plenty of food, baths and clothes.

They see that Johnny has EXCEPT nearly everything he wants—EXCEPT AMUSEMENT. They leave Johnny to find that for himself!

But when he does find it, they call it mischief.

Now if Johnny were a wife, somebody would take great pains to see that he had his two weeks in the country, and that he was especially provided with work and play enough to keep him out of mischief.

But Johnny's mischiefs are industrious—and just a little too busy to censor Johnny's entertainment. They are also provided—and just a trifle too much interested in saving for the future to give the right kind of attention to the present.

That is why the boys in some of the most respectable families turn out badly. Everybody is too busy to look after them. Money is too precious to spend on them.

And the chances are that a few quarters invested over and over in hats, balls, mitts, and masks would pay far greater dividends in Johnny's character than many dollars saved for Johnny's bank account or college course.

Opportunity.

They do me no wrong who say I come no more, When once I kneel and fail to find you in; For every day I stand without your door, And bid you work, and rise to fight, and win.

Laugh not for precious chances passed away, Weep not for golden ages on the wane! Each night I burn the records of the day— At sunrise every soul is born again!

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have fled To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb; My judgments seal the dead past with its dead, But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring out your hands and weep I lend my arm to all who say "I can." No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep But he might rise and be again a man!

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all agnost? Dost reel from righteous retributions blow? Then turn from blotted archives of the past, And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell; Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven; Each morning gives thee wings to fly from hell; Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

GRAPES; SOME SATISFACTORY METHODS OF TRAINING THEM

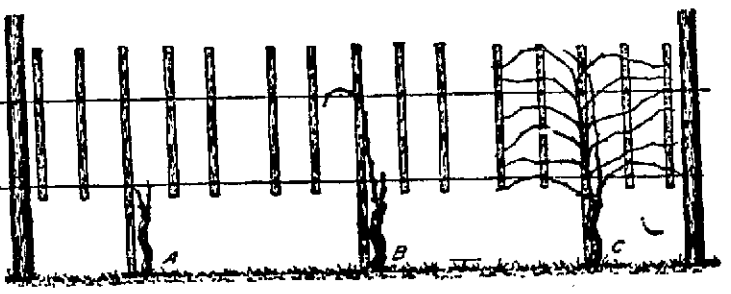

One of the Surest of Fruit Crops is the Grape, a Crop Each Year Being Reasonably Certain After the Third Year From the Time of Setting the Vines—This Fruit is Easy to Grow and Does Well on Almost Any Drained Soil Well Cultivated.

When planting grapes, the exposure should be to the sun, as this fruit ripens in sunshine, and the place should admit of cultivation on all sides. One or two year old vines may be used. At planting time the tops should be cut back to 3 or 4 eyes and the roots well shortened. Large holes should be dug so that the roots may be about six inches below the soil surface and well spread out. Fine soil should then be worked around them and well firmed down. If the season should be dry, a mulch of coarse litter may be spread around the vine. If all the buds start the strongest one or two may be allowed to grow. Remove the others.

While every bud on the 1915 shoot may produce shoots or cane in 1916, only the strongest of these will bear fruit. The skilled grape-grower can tell by the looks of his cane at pruning time which buds will give rise to the grape-producing wood the following season. The larger and stronger buds usually give best results; but if use his own judgment in the matter of training the vines. There are many more or less popular methods of training, all of which have some good points, and according to location and other considerations, have been used successfully.

The principal methods of training are as follows: The trellis, the high-

the cane itself is very big and stout, or if it is very weak and slender, he does not expect good results from any of its buds. A hard, well-ripened cane the diameter of a man's little finger is the ideal size.

Another thing to remember is this: a vine should bear only a limited number of clusters; only from 30 to 80 should be allowed to develop on one vine. If a vine is strong enough to bear 30 clusters of grapes about 15 should be left at pruning time and if strong enough to bear 80 clusters 40 buds should be left.

With these principles in mind it will be seen that the essential operation in pruning grapes is to cut back a limited number of the best canes to a few buds each season and entirely remove the others. The more usual method at the present time is to cut the canes back to 8 or 10 buds and to leave but 3 or 4 canes, all of which should start from near the head or trunk of the vine. New arms should be taken out from year to year as the bearing wood gets farther away from the trunk.

There are various ways in which the objects of pruning are accomplished. For instance, the growth and health of a plant are promoted and the size of the fruit is increased (1) by removing all the diseased parts and suckers; (2) by shortening extended shoots, side shoots, and laterals; (3) by putting upright the part whose rapid growth is desired; and (4) by removing the fruit buds or fruit. The plant is retarded in growth and made to bear earlier and richer fruit by shortening the leading shoots and leaving the fruit-bearing wood and by bending down the branches and ring-pruning them. The healing of wounded and diseased plants is promoted by removing the injured parts and dressing the wound. The head of a plant is renewed by cutting off the branches above; the head is made to grow thicker by cutting back the outer branches and to grow thinner by amputating all canes on which there is too much growth.

There are so many species of grapes, each having peculiarities of its own and therefore responding most readily to certain cultural methods, that each grower must, in a measure, renewal, or upright system; horizontal arm spur system; horizontal block system; the fan system; the Hudson horizontal system; four-cane Kniffin system; umbrella or two-cane Kniffin system; Munson system; overhead Caywood system; Chittenden system; multiple cross-wire system, or overhead arbor; overhead trellis or the spur, stool or short pruning system (used in most vineyards in California); the long or cane pruning system (also used in California). Vines trained on trellises are comparatively rare in California.

Grapes do not require stimulating fertilizers. Wood ashes, about one-half bushel per vine, is one of the best fertilizers to apply. An application of three pounds per vine of the following mixture is recommended by some of the experiment stations: Ninety pounds acid phosphate, 30 pounds kainit and 20 pounds cottonseed meal.

Grapevines are sometimes girdled or ringed for the purpose of hastening maturity and fruitfulness. Experiments at the experiment stations in

New York and Massachusetts show that fruit on ringed vines is sometimes ten days to two weeks earlier than on unringed vines, and larger both in bunch and berry. Shoots bearing the bunches are ringed between the fruit and the arm bearing the shoot. The ringing should be done when the grapes are about one-third grown, a ring of bark about one inch wide being removed from the arm or shoot. Implements for this purpose are to be had.

IT PAYS TO WEIGH THE MILK.

Dairymen who are weighing the milk from each cow every day find that their returns are much larger than formerly, when they allowed the old custom of guessing at the amount in the pail, froth and all.

It takes but a few seconds' time to weigh the milk and make a good record of it, if convenient scales and blanks are at hand.

The most convenient scale is a spring balance, weighing to 50 pounds by tenths, having an adjustable hand which may be set to balance the weight of the empty pail.

The records should be convenient and have sufficient space for the figures.

APPLY BUSINESS METHODS.

Did you ever hear of a business man who spent "too much money" advertising? Did you ever hear of a farmer who "spent too much money" fertilizing? There may be instances, but they are certainly only exceptions. Money spent judiciously by the business man "to advertise" and by the farmer "to fertilize" will always bring big returns. It pays, and is seldom if ever overdone. Frequently it is much underdone. If you must neglect any factor, slight the scientific and the artistic slides.

NOT VERY NEW.

Even the silo is not strictly a modern invention. History states that in very early ages in Egypt, Spain and Mexico, seeds were stored in pits, either above or below ground, and one hundred years ago the Italians were preserving fresh leaves for cattle in casks and pits in the ground.

Don't think that lime-sulphur will control apple blotch as well as Bordeaux mixture.

Weeds, Weeds, Everywhere; They Thrive in the Cornfield, They Choke Wheat in the Field, They Annoy the Gardener, They Ruin the Meadow, They Spring Up By the Roadside, They Encroach on the Swamp, They Damage the Fleeces of Sheep, They Decrease the Value of Property."

BY W. J. BEAL.

Disadvantages of Weeds.

1. They rob cultivated plants of nutriment.
2. They injure crops by crowding and shading.
3. They retard the work of harvesting grain by increasing the draft and by extra wear of machinery. (Bindweed, thistles, red root.)
4. They retard the drying of grain and hay.
5. They increase the labor of threshing, and make cleaning of seed difficult.
6. They damage the quality of flour, sometimes making it nearly worthless.
7. Most of them are of little value as food for domestic animals.
8. Some weeds injure stock by means of barbed awns. (Squirrel tail grass, wild oats, porcupine grass.)
9. Some of them injure wool and disfigure the tails of cattle, the manes and tails of horses. (Burdock, cocklebur, houndstongue.)
10. A few make "hair balls" in the stomachs of horses. (Rabbit-foot clover, crimson clover.)
11. Some injure the quality of dairy products. (Leeks, wild onions.)
12. Penny cress, and probably others, when eaten by animals, injure the taste of meat.
13. Poison hemlock, spotted cowbane and Jamestown weed are very poisonous.
14. Many weeds interfere with a rotation of crops.
15. All weeds damage the appearance of a farm and render it less valuable. (Quack-grass, Canada thistle, plantains.)

Some Small Benefits of Weeds.

1. They are of some use in the world to induce more frequent and more thorough cultivation, which benefits crops.
2. The new arrival of a weed of first rank stimulates watchfulness. (Russian thistle.)
3. In occupying the soil after a crop has been removed they prevent the loss of fertility by shading the ground.

Weeds flourished under all, though in a very much less degree than clover or cow peas.

5. Some of them furnish food for birds in winter.

Some Rules for Their Extermination.

1. The right kind of a man, who will carefully observe and study the kinds of weeds and their habits, fighting each to the best advantage, i. e., with method.
2. See that all seeds purchased or grown at home for seed are free from seeds of weeds. Although often heard these words are too little heeded.
3. See that threshing machines, hay racks, grain bags from other farms are well cleaned before used on the farm.
4. Cook or grind screenings and burn chaff when certain weeds are suspected.
5. Send seeds to your state agricultural college for identification, unless they are known to be harmless.
6. Strive to prevent weeds from ripening seeds. This is especially important late in the season in case of all pigweeds, purslane and others where the flowers are very small and are liable to be overlooked and the seeds ripen before their presence is suspected.
7. For meadow or pasture make the soil very fertile, as most weeds will then be killed or crowded by the better grass and become of little account.
8. Modify the rotation of crops with reference to killing the weeds.
9. Make a specialty of hoe or cultivated crops.
10. Make softing crops a prominent feature in certain fields.
11. Smother weeds with quick growing and thickly seeded crops, like red clover or rye or buckwheat.
12. Keep some crops growing on the land from early spring till late autumn—double cropping, i. e., two cultivated crops in one year for barn and cellar instead of one for use and one of weeds.
13. Cultivate thoroughly after a crop is removed.
14. Clean up and avoid leaving any vacant or out of the way places for breeding ground.
15. Where practicable, remove fences and cultivate to the gutters of the highway.
16. Keep some sheep.
17. When once begun, continue the work thoroughly from year to year, giving no quarter to weeds. This is the easiest in the long run and the royal way.
18. Where hand labor is employed, it is far less expensive and much easier to keep weeds down by raking or hoeing once a week than by going over the ground much less frequently. The habits of a weed determine to a great extent the best mode of fighting it. Certain remedies suggest themselves for creeping perennials, like quack grass and road flax, while different treatment is best for narrow-leaved dock; and still a different mode of attack may be adopted for crab grass and purslane.

Weeds are annuals, as pigweeds, crab grass, purslane; biennials as bull thistle and mullein; perennials, like quack grass, Canada thistle, ox-eye daisy.

Will it pay? The annual cost of successfully fighting a weedy farm of 100 acres in Ontario has been found to be about $75. Good cultivation in the long run pays a greater profit than slipshod culture. It not only kills the weeds, but keeps the soil in condition for securing good crops. It conserves moisture.

Perennial plants cannot gain any if the green leaves are not allowed to appear. The nourishment stored in the root stocks underground will aid the plant to send up slender leaves and if these remain, the plants gain and recruit; but if the leaves start underground and are cut off before coming to the light, these root stocks are drawn on again to furnish food to start more leaves and thus, in time, become exhausted.

GOOSE RAISING MAY BE MADE PROFITABLE

The Toulouse and Embden are the most popular breeds of geese in this country. The Toulouse is the largest breed, the adult gander and goose weighing 35 and 20 pounds, respectively, while the standard weights of the Embden are 20 and 18 pounds.

Geese can be raised in small numbers successfully and at a profit on many farms where there is low rough pasture land containing a natural supply of water. The market for geese is not so general as for chickens, but the demand and prices are especially good in sections where geese fattening is conducted.

Geese need only a house during cold or stormy weather, when an open shed should be provided. One gander is mated with from one to three geese, and the matings are not changed from year to year unless they prove unsatisfactory. When mated, they are allowed to run together in flocks. Toulouse and Embden geese will breed when about 2 years old. The females are usually kept until they are from 12 to 14 years old, or as long as they lay well. Sex is difficult to distinguish, especially in young geese. The gander is usually somewhat larger and coarser than the goose, and has a longer, longer neck, and a larger head. The sex is sometimes determined by a critical examination or by the action of the geese at mating time.

Large boxes, barrels, or shelters are provided as nests for geese, or they are allowed to make nests on the floor of the house. The eggs should be collected daily and kept in a cool place. The first eggs are usually set under hens, while the last ones which the geese lays may be hatched either under hens or under the geese if she "goes broody." If the eggs are not removed from the nest where the goose is laying, she will usually lay away. The period of incubation of goose eggs varies from 28 to 30 days. Moisture may be added after the first week by sprinkling the eggs or the nests with warm water. Goose eggs hatch slowly, especially under hens.

The fruit grower gets more for attractive, fine flavored fruit of good keeping quality than he does for badly packed, tasteless, spotted stuff.

There are people who want the best, regardless of price, and they are the very ones it pays to deal with every time we have a prime article.

and the goslings are usually removed as soon as hatched and kept in a warm place until the hatching is completed. Geese are generally raised where they have a good grass range or pasture, as they are good grazers and usually pick most of their living, except during the winter months and the breeding season. Goslings should be fed a mash of two parts shorts and one part corn meal by weight, changing at the end of three weeks to equal parts shorts and corn meal with 5 per cent each of beef scrap and grit. A fattening ration may be made of a mash of one part shorts and two parts corn meal by weight with 5 per cent of beef scrap, fed in the morning and a feed of corn at night.

Adult geese should be fed for eggs about February 1st, or so that the goslings will be hatched by the time there is good grass pasture. In feeding for eggs give a mash of equal parts by weight of corn meal, bran and middlings or low-grade flour with 10 per cent of beef scrap in the morning and a feed of corn at night. A constant supply of drinking water should be provided. If geese need grain when not laying, the beef scrap should be left out and the corn meal increased in this ration to three parts.

SICKNESS AND DEATH FROM MILK. It is well known that the records of many cities show that dirty milk causes much sickness and death from diarrhetic diseases among children to five years old and that it is in hot weather that dirty milk is most deadly.

The time has come when more attention may well be given to the protection and care of our native wild flowers and shrubs. There ought to be parts of our large parks and parkways set aside for wild gardens. Some suitable places along our state highways might well be used and this would help very greatly in making the highway distinctive and be an attraction to the visitor passing through.

Why not plant parts of our main highway with native plants—something that the tourist will notice?

THE LEAF BLISTER MITE OF PEAR AND APPLE

Red or green blister-like spots appearing in the spring on the foliage of the apple and pear are usually due to the leaf blister mite. This is not an insect but a small animal, invisible to the unaided eye, which attacks standard varieties of pear and apple trees and often inflicts serious damage.

Where trees are seriously infested, the premature fall of both fruit and leaves may result. In such cases a special application of lime-sulphur wash or other spray may be necessary. Ordinarily, however, the regular orchard spraying is sufficient to control the mite. Badly-infested branches of the pear trees may be cut off and burned. Care should be taken not to confuse the work of the mite with the leaf-spot disease or the results of heavy spraying.

The leaf blister mite passes the winter beneath the bud scales. There it waits for the opening of the buds and attacks the young leaves as soon as they push out in the spring. The tiny animals bore small holes from the underside of the leaves into the interior, where they lay their eggs. This causes the small, pimple-like galls on the upper surface of the leaves. The spots later increase in size, sometimes to one-eighth of an inch, and on the pear tree are red and often brilliantly colored as they grow. In the case of the apple, the eruptions lack the more brilliant coloring and are found more along the margin of the leaf. In both cases the spots finally turn brown or black, and if the pest is abundant the leaves become ruptured and wrinkled.

More than 250 varieties of apples are attacked by the mite. Injury becomes especially severe on some well-known commercial sorts, such as Ben Davis, the King, Baldwin, Rhode Island Greening and the Williams Favorite.

Where orchards are seriously infested, as has been noted in New York State, lime-sulphur wash is a give; excellent results. They avoid the injurious effects upon fruit buds which sometimes result from the use of oil sprays. The wash should be applied, thoroughly, coating the twigs and branches.

A standard solution of kerosene emulsion may also be used. The stock solution should be diluted with five parts of water for spraying purposes. One application should be given in the late fall, as soon as most of the leaves have fallen, and another in the following spring, before the trees put out foliage. If it is possible to give only one treatment, the sprays should be used in the fall. At this time many of the mites have not yet gone to the bud scales, but occur in the down covering the young wood, and hence are more easily killed.

Lime-sulphur washes are excellent treatments for these mites and their employment is perhaps preferable as avoiding danger of injury to fruit buds by the oil sprays. If a lime-sulphur wash is employed, it should be applied with great thoroughness and the tree completely coated so that when spraying is finished it will appear as if whitewashed.

On the pear the mites may be kept reduced to an important extent simply by searching out in the spring small branches bearing worst infested leaves, pruning these off and burning them, or sprays may be employed exactly as indicated for the apple, if this is considered necessary.

Except in cases of serious infestation special spraying for the blister mite will not be necessary. As to whether or not it is advisable to spray, the orchardist will have to decide after determining as exactly as possible the amount of injury that is being done by the mites, and care should be taken not to confuse with its injurious effects upon fruit buds which is injurious that which has resulted from fungicidal or Paris-green sprays, and from leaf-spot diseases.

PROTECT CORN FIELDS AGAINST CUTWORM

Prompt action is necessary for controlling cutworms after their presence becomes noticeable in the spring, which is usually about the time the corn begins to sprout.

Cutworm injury almost invariably occurs in the spring, the plants usually being cut off at the surface or a little below the surface, of the ground, beginning as soon as the first plants sprout and continuing until late June or early July, by which time the worms are full grown. Feeding takes place at night, the worms resting during the day beneath debris or in the soil at a depth of from one-half to one inch below the surface, and since they closely resemble the color of the soil in most cases, the cause of the injury is often not apparent. However, if the soil surrounding the cut-off plant be examined carefully, the culprit will quite likely be found curled up in the soil.

Land to be planted to corn the following spring, especially such land as has laid in grass for a considerable time and is likely to contain cutworms, should be plowed in midsummer or early fall about the time the weeds are laid, or better, before the weeds are laid, for then vegetation which is suitable for the moths to lay their eggs upon is removed. The earlier the preceding year grasslands to be planted to corn are plowed, the less will be the probability that the cutworm moths will have laid their eggs thereon, and the less, consequently, will be the danger of injury by cutworms the following year.

Late fall and winter plowing of grasslands, although not as effective as early plowing, will destroy many of the hibernating cutworms, as well as such other important corn pests as white grubs, and should be practiced when earlier plowing is impracticable.

Pasturing hogs upon land supposed to be harbor cutworms is a beneficial practice, as these animals root up and devour insects of many kinds, including cutworms, in large numbers. Farm poultry, if trained to follow the plow, will prove of incalculable value.

When cutworms are found to be abundant on corn land, the use of the poisoned bait is recommended. This may be prepared as follows: Mix 50 pounds of wheat bran, 2 pounds of Paris green, and 6 finely chopped oranges or lemons. Then bring the whole mixture to the consistency of a stiff dough by the addition of a cheap molasses, such as is used in cattle rations, adding water when necessary. Distribute this bait over the infested field in small lumps, taking care to sprinkle it sparingly around each hill. In case bran can not be readily obtained, middlings or alfalfa meal may be successfully substituted. In fields known to be infested, the distribution of this bait should be started as soon as the corn begins to appear above ground so closely resemble the color of the soil in most cases, the cause of the injury is often not apparent. However, if the soil surrounding the cut-off plant be examined carefully, the culprit will quite likely be found curled up in the soil.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, July 13.—Reports of a broadening European demand for shipments from America gave strength today to the wheat market here. Admissions that the increased foreign call was largely based on fear of damage to the domestic spring crop tended to emphasize bullish sentiment.
Opening prices ranged from ½c to 1c higher, with July at $1.10 to $1.10½ and September at $1.11½ to $1.12½, but were followed by reactions due to profit-taking. The close was unsettled, ½c to ¾c net higher, with July at $1.10½ and September at $1.11½@1.12½.
Corn rose with wheat. On the bulge, however, as was the case with wheat, a disposition to realize profits was shown. After opening ½c off to ¾c up, the market began to ease off.
The close was nervous at ½c to ¾c above yesterday's finish.
Commission houses lined up on the buying side of oats. The incentive was continued unfavorable high temperatures in the fields, but offerings from holders were plentiful.
Provisions lacked support. Higher prices on hogs failed to stimulate orders to purchase.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, July 13.—Further tendencies were displayed by special stocks at today's opening, indicating a cessation temporarily at least of the recent flood of liquidation. Industrial Alcohol soon recovered four points of yesterday's heavy loss and the shipping group was higher by one to almost two points. The war group as represented by Crucible Steel and American Locomotive was materially better, and U. S. Steel was fractionally higher, with Reading, Union Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio, Willys-Overland proved the only notable exception, losing 2½ points despite the increased and extra dividends announced yesterday.
Initial gains were swept aside before the end of the first hour, when aggressive selling of specialties was encountered. Maxwell, Studenaker and Chandler Motors followed the lead of Willys-Overland at declines of four to seven points. Alcohol's early gains proved to be of brief duration, the stock soon falling to 27½, an overnight loss of ½, and the year's low quotation. Continental Can lost five points and Bethlehem Steel fell 23 on two transactions. Rails and U. S. Steel yielded only fractions. Local money conditions came in for further consideration in view of the advance in the Bank of England rate. Bonds were irregular.

FUTURE FORTUNES FROM BABY BONDS

Many young men and women of Fort Wayne and its vicinity are laying the foundation for future fortunes through the medium of Baby Bonds, for which they pay a certain portion of their savings of each week or month, thereby cultivating the habit of saving which must eventually lead to a certain degree of affluence. Baby Bonds come in $10.00 denominations, and consequently are available to many who could not otherwise afford an investment which would include all of the good features of this one. They pay six per cent. interest, and are secured by first mortgages on local real estate. There are also a few $500 bonds with the same rate of interest and the same security. Details may be secured from the Wildwood Sales company, Shoaff building.

HE STRUCK LANDLADY WITH BASEBALL BAT Fred Murry Gets Fine of $25 and Penal Farm Sentence.

Fred Murry, cracker-maker, employed by the Perfection Biscuit company, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to ninety days at the state farm, in municipal court, Thursday morning, because testimony showed that he struck Mrs. Cora Knoll, 1125 Polk street, his landlady, with a ball bat. Trouble started when Murry went to Mrs. Knoll's home for his clothes, as he intended to move to another part of the city. He owed her $30 rent, she testified. He would not pay her, she said, and started to move his things. She objected and he knocked her down, she told. She ran out on the front porch, he followed her, she said.

Neighbors, who saw the conflict on the front porch said Murry used a baseball bat. Mrs. Knoll kicked the glass out of a picture Murry was carrying away. The small son, Kenneth, who had run to telephone the police, said he saw Murry kick his mother.

Murry left the house before the police arrived. Neighbors found Mrs. Knoll in a fainting condition and called a doctor. There were black and blue spots on her body. Later she signed an affidavit, charging Murry with assault and battery.

Murry denied striking Mrs. Knoll. "I never did hit a woman," he claimed. "Mrs. Knoll hit him with the baseball bat. He gave notice of appeal of the case. Appeal bond is fixed at $300.

Youth Held for Burglary.

William Sheldler, 18, who gave his home as Ohio, is held under $1,000 bond for trial on July 15. He is charged with climbing through a window into the home of John Winch, a Polish family, 2011 John street, late Wednesday night. Police say they were called to the Winch home near midnight and found two men holding Sheldler. The men who speak broken English, told the officers that Sheldler had climbed into a bedroom through the side window. Women sleeping in the room saw Sheldler and screamed. The men caught the lad and held him, while Mrs. Winch telephoned for police.

Sheldler says he got into the wrong house and did not intend to steal anything. An interpreter will be called into court Saturday morning to assist the court in talking with the Polish women.

Sentenced for Stealing.

Charles Crawley, who says he has to do with the hiring of foreign labor, and who came to Fort Wayne from St. Louis to place a gang of men at New Haven for the Wabash railroad, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to twenty days in the county jail after being convicted on a charge of petit larceny.

Crawley stole a pair of pliers from the shoe shop of Ben Michaelson, 1320 Calhoun street, it was charged, and Michaelson on the street tried to sell them to him for 10 cents. Michaelson, who had been away from the shop when

OH THUNDER

BY THE AID OF A STRONG HUMAN ROPE, WE WILL CAPTURE OUR DINNER, I HOPE.

BUT THE BIRD WAS SOOON WISE TO THEIR PLOT AND A TERRIBLE BATTLE WAS FOUGHT.

IN THE END THE POOR DOG WAS KICKED DOWN AND THE BEAR COULD DO NOTHING BUT FROWN.

Crawley was there, he claims, recognized the pliers. He called an officer and had Crawley arrested. Crawley said another man gave the pliers to him.

Other Police Court.

John Noler, who has been brought in several times on charges of public intoxication, was fined $50 and costs and thirty days at the state farm, when convicted on the same charge Thursday. He will serve ninety days at the farm.

Jack Oppenheim, who has met drunk charges a number of times, was fined $10 and costs for having been in a drunken condition Wednesday night.

Case of Orville DeJons, charged with petit larceny, was continued until July 27. Edward Hedges, charged with wife desertion, is held under $300 bond for trial on July 17. William Wilson, charged with being drunk, will be tried July 17.

George Gladie was fined $1 and costs after pleading guilty to a drunk charge. Henry Reford will be detained five days in jail before his trial on a charge of loitering.

FOR PIMPLY SKIN AND VARICOSE VEINS

All Yield Rapidly to Powerful Penetrating but Safe Prescription Called MOORE'S EMERALD OIL.

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will reduce swollen, painful, ugly veins and will cause wens and goiters to absorb and pass away.

Not only does this great healing anti-septic promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but carbuncles, boils, abscesses, ulcers and piles are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases also its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other skin eruptions and inflammation.

You can obtain Moore's Emerald Oil in the original bottle, at any modern drug store for 50 cents. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. Meyer's Drug Stores can supply you at any time.

PARK IS FOR WOMEN ONLY

Kansas City Sets Aside Tract for Femininity Alone.

Kansas City, Mo., 13.—A park exclusively for women was established by the Kansas City park board today following the plan of a business women's organization for a recreation and play ground where women can enjoy themselves unmolested. A sight was chosen on a high point overlooking the Missouri river, where tennis courts, croquet grounds and a "dutch oven" will be constructed and a shelter house erected.

SAYS MEXICANS ARE GROWING FRIENDLY

Gen. Pershing Reports on Change in Attitude Toward Americans.

Washington, July 13.—Gen. Pershing reported today that it was generally believed both by Mexicans and foreigners along the line of communication of his expedition that a crisis between the United States and Mexico had been averted and that this had brought about a new friendly relationship between the Americans and Mexicans.

"Mexicans in this vicinity and along this railroad," the dispatch said, "are reported very friendly toward Americans in the last few days. It is generally believed that trouble between the United States and Mexico had been settled. The rainy season is on in earnest, heavy rains being reported from the various stations along the line during the last few days. Will report within a day or two effect of rains upon roads and general prospects regarding road maintenance."

Customs collectors along the border have been instructed, upon request of the state department, to permit railroad rolling stock to enter Mexico by equitable exchange of cars. For every car permitted to enter Mexico, the order stipulates, a car from Mexico shall enter American territory. The collectors also are instructed not to interfere with shipments of food and clothing into Mexico. It is understood, however, that the present method of handling war munitions destined to points beyond the border, shall continue in force until further notice.
